AS LIZA LOVED THE KING

By Curran R. Greenley

Copyright, 1922, by the S. S. McClure Company

The old red brick mansion stood up proudly, its harsh outlines of uncompromising squareness half hidden by a riot of Guelder roses that climbed and threw long green arms of loveliness around the small diamond panes of the windows. A straight box bordered path led down to the gate through an avenue of beeches where the sunlight fell in lance rifts down upon the blue grass fresh with the green of May—Maytime in old Kentucky in the year of our Lord 1853. Beyond the rustic gate a broad, white road ran from east to west.

Those were strange processions that wound along the great highroad, the artery of trade from the east over the Alleghenies to Kentucky and the southern country that lay beyond in the gateway of the wilderness—long trains of white covered wagons filled with a medley of women, children, household goods, with their escorts of stalwart men on horseback. Already the begonia to the west had commenced, often a tribe of Choctaws bound for the wigwam of the great father, grim, dusky faces under nodding plumes, animated bundles, with smaller bundles bound to their backs, astride of the ponies, silent as ghosts, and passing, always passing, up the long white road.

Twice each day, with the long tan-tan-rah of the bugles and the rattle of whip and hoof, came the stagecoach, a flash of color from east to west, and again the quiet of earth and sky.

Over the hills, whose dim, blue line encompassed her world around, the child's heart went each day with the dying echo of hoof and bugle; over the hills, where the gold lights of sunset kissed the pink limestone cliffs, brightening to emerald green the tufts of maidenhair in the deep clefts, and farther up, where the mist caught and held them, deepening into the evening's violet crown.

A slim, shy maid of barely fifteen, in her long, narrow skirt and prim kerchief drawn tightly across the childish breast, the small brown hand shading her level brows, she watched with wistful eyes up the long ribbon of road—little Anne, with her peach blossom face and soft gray eyes that had dared to look from under their long black lashes at a face that was the face of a people's hero; not all the people, for here in her father's house Anne had heard fierce denunciations and even curses against that name. But when had politics aught to do with a maid's romance? Deep down in her heart the girl cherished the memory of one summer evening, when all alone the great man reined in his horse and sprang from the saddle to walk and talk with a pretty child. Two years had come and gone, but over the low gate Anne leaned and dreamed of her hero as did that Lisa in faroff Italy of her king.

The evening shadows grew longer and the sun vanished behind the hills as the tinkles of bells chimed up from the pasture. With eyes still dreamy Anne wandered out and across the road to where the spring bubbled up from its mossy pool. A little rustic summer house sheltered it, and the little stream lost itself in a dense thicket of hazel bushes that grew close up to the arbor. The girl's light foot made no sound as she entered and dropped down upon the seat. Voices close at hand aroused her as a low murmur came from the hazel copse.

"The best place is where the road comes through Hungerford's woods, this side of the mill."

Then another voice: "I don't like it. It's doing all the dirty work and getting the kinks for pay. Let them as wants him out of the way put him there."

And the first voice answered with an oath: "What's that to you? The men that wants Andrew Jackson dead ain't the men as risks nuthin'!"

"Andrew Jackson," Anne's heart gave a great bound, then almost stopped, as there was a rustle among the bushes. She strained her ears to catch the last words.

"He'll likely spend tonight at Hungerford's, leaving there by daybreak."

"No. There ain't but one nigger along. He don't like comp'nny a-travelin'!" And the low chuckle died in the distance.

It was nearly dark as Anne crept out from her hiding place and glanced fearfully up the long white road. She knew that Hungerford's lay fifteen miles away as the crow flies, and to reach it would mean a ride through the night—morning would be too late; knew too, poor child, that in the hearts of those about her dwelt the bitterest hatred of the man that she would have risked her life to save! Not that they would have lifted a hand against his life, but they would have laughed her story down and bade her hush, as children should.

Alone in her little white curtained room she knelt and prayed her simple prayer. She had always been afraid of the dark—the dark that was like whispering lips in your ear and the touch of soft fingers clutching at your gown—but the life of her hero was the high guardian of the deed.

One by one each door was closed. She heard her father's chair pushed back and knew that he was laying his pipe on the mantelshelf; heard her mother settling the house in order, and then it all grew still. The tall clock ticked louder and louder through the dark with an accusing voice—ten eleven, twelve, and at the last stroke a little dark figure hurried across the yard to the stable, where Harry Clay, the

SUMMONS

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Lane.

William M. Bump, Plaintiff, vs.

Hattie V. Bump, Defendant.

To Hattie V. Bump, the above named defendant.

In the name of the state of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear in the above entitled court in the above entitled cause and answer the complaint of plaintiff filed in said court and cause, on or before the first publication hereof in the 5th day of August, 1922, or the plaintiff will apply to said court for the relief prayed for in said complaint, to-wit:

A decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between said plaintiff and defendant herein, and for the care and custody of one May Bump, the minor daughter of plaintiff and defendant, and such other relief as to the court seems proper.

This summons is published in the DAILY EUGENE GUARD once a week for six successive weeks by order of the Hon. H. R. Kincaid, County Judge of Lane County, Oregon.

Made and entered herein on the 4th day of August, 1922, and the date of the first publication hereof is the 5th day of August, 1922.

L. BILYEU,

Attorney for Plaintiff.

Suburban Property For Sale.

30 acres in 5 or 10 acre tracts. The land is first class, located less than a mile from the postoffice, ideal building site.

This land can be bought much cheaper than town lots, and to the party buying the first tract and building on same a special inducement on price will be made.

WILLAMETTE VALLEY LAND CO.

City Property for Sale.

HENDERSON'S ADDITION TO EUGENE.

To those desiring to purchase city lots, I have laid out an addition on the south side of the city and north of College Hill Park. I have 120 lots in this addition and am selling them very low so as to enable every one to have a home of their own. The price of these lots is from $60 up.

ELIAS STEWART ADDITION TO EUGENE.

I have some very desirable lots in this addition, in the very heart of the city and within a few blocks of Willamette street.

WHITAKER'S ADDITION TO EUGENE.

I have a few lots in this addition within two blocks of the First National Bank.

COLLEGE HILL PARK.

I have 100 lots in this addition. The price now is $50 each. I will advance the price soon. We expect College Hill Park to become the most desirable residential property in or near the city.

HENDERSON'S ADDITION TO COLLEGE HILL PARK.

We have 70 lots for sale cheap in this addition and 40 or 50 acres of very choice fruit land. I have on this place 1300 young prune trees, about 400 Bartlett pear trees, and 200 black walnut trees, also apples, plums and small fruits. This place has a good farm house, barn and out-houses, and is a most beautiful suburban piece of property. It is known as the Locust Hill farm, and there is no place in the state more beautifully and pleasantly situated.

I am not in real estate business as a business, I sell our own lands only. I employ no agents. Any one desiring to purchase any of this property will find me at the First National Bank. I will be pleased to show property and give prices. I might exchange some of this property for good timber land. Come and see me.

Happy Time in Old Town.
