Political Fences.

"The political expression 'keeping your fences fixed,' said an old campaigner, 'is due to a remark once made by Senator John Sherman. It was at a time when the senator had amassed the most of his fortune. He had a farm near his home town, and while preparing to drive out to it one afternoon he was accosted by a book agent, who labored hard to sell one of his books. Mr. Sherman was not in a mood to make any such purchases, and he finally silenced the man by saying: 'I can't afford to buy your book. It takes all my money to keep my fences fixed.'"

In reality Mr. Sherman referred to the fences on his farm, but some of his political associates, hearing of the remark a few days later, took it up at once and made a political phrase of it. It was first confined only to the state of Ohio, but it has now become so common that no one ever takes the trouble to wonder where it originated."

—Philadelphia Times.

Silencing the Questioners.

A French gentleman who had been with M. de Talleyrand for twenty years accompanied him to the congress at Vienna after Napoleon's exile to Elba. People naturally concluded that this long intimacy had made him familiar with a number of particulars of the minister's life and bearing also upon the events with which he had been mixed up. Worried with questions, the friend invariably replied that he knew nothing, but the questioners would not be satisfied and returned to the charge. "Very well," finally said Talleyrand's confidant, "I'll tell you a peculiar and altogether unknown fact in connection with M. de Talleyrand. Since Louis XV, he's the only man who can open a soft boiled egg with one backward stroke of his knife without spilling a drop of the contents of the shell. That's the only peculiarity I know in connection with him."

Discretion had scored a decisive victory. From that moment the questions ceased.

Tennyson's Early Poems.

Tennyson was only eight years old when he covered both sides of his brother's slate with a poem on "Flowers," done in unimpeachable meter. His brother had said to him, "See if you can write poetry," and when he read the verse on the slate he merely said, "You've done it." Between the ages of eleven and twelve the young poet wrote an epic of over 4,000 lines in Scott's octosyllables mingled with heroics. These were the only finished poems of Tennyson's boyhood, but when about fourteen or fifteen years old he commenced a drama in iambic meter which still survives. Thus he practiced himself in three different meters before he began seriously to write or publish.

Forgetting His Own Picture.

Reynolds once forgot the existence of one of his pictures. Burke once obtained a very early work and called on the great artist, submitting the work as that of a young student who sought advice from the master. Reynolds had a long look and then asked, "Is the painter a friend of yours?" Burke replied in the affirmative. "Well," replied the great man, "I really don't feel able to give an opinion. It's a cleverish thing, but whether it is of sufficient promise to justify the young man in adopting art as a profession I cannot say."

Taking One's Own Pulse.

Being able to "take" one's own pulse is a doubtful accomplishment, because the heart has some peculiarities, the importance of which are sure to be overestimated except by physicians, and much uneasiness occasioned in consequence. Irregularity of the pulse is naturally to no small number of people without other signs of disease. It may also be simply a transient symptom, due to errors of habit or other causes, which, disappearing, leave no trace behind them.

Too Costly.

King George II. once wished to add the Green park, in London, to his palace grounds whether the people liked it or not. He inquired of his minister as to the cost. His lordship, mindful of the general discontent then prevalent, answered: "The cost, sir? Oh, it would be a matter of three crowns!" The king took the hint. The people kept their park and the sovereign his triple throne.

Cinnamon as an Antiseptic.

No living germ of disease can resist the antiseptic power of essence of cinnamon for more than a few hours. In destroying microbes it is not less effective than corrosive sublimate. Even the scent kills them. A decoction of cinnamon should be drunk in localities where typhoid fever or cholera prevails.

Superb.

"What a royal carriage he has! There is surely royal blood in his veins. Do you know him?" whispered the enthusiastic woman. "Yes," replied the man, "he comes of a long line of janitors."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Much In Her Name.

Church—She is a Russian countess. Gotham—Indeed! Has she much in her own name? "Has she? She's got nearly the entire alphabet!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Bad Beginnings.

A bad beginning makes a good ending sometimes, but more often it makes a very quick ending.—Syracuse Herald.

Learning without thought is labor lost; thought without learning is perilous.—Confucius.

Look Pleasant, Please.

Photographer C. C. Harlan, of Eaton, O., can do so now, though for years he couldn't because he suffered untold agony from the worst form of indigestion. All physicians and medicines failed to help him till he tried Electric Bitters which worked such wonders for him that he declares they are a godsend to sufferers from dyspepsia and stomach trouble. Unrivalled for sickness of the stomach, liver and kidneys, they build up and give new life to the whole system. Try them. Only 50c. Guaranteed by W. L. D. Lane.

Military Crimes.

Hardship and privations do not improve the temper, and insubordination easily supervenes, while the temptation of drink, if it is to be had, is too often irresistible to weak but well meaning men long deprived of such dissipation.

Another fruitful source of transgression which, if we are to trust vague reports, became at times epidemic was the almost natural surrender to physical exhaustion, says Major Arthur Griffiths in The Fortnightly Review. To sleep on sentry is one of the most serious of military crimes. It is inexcusable from the military point of view, for the safety of thousands may hang upon the vigilance of one man, yet the strain of some wearisome, long protracted march or fatiguing operations will sometimes explain what cannot be defended.

Nor can we shut our eyes to possible guilt of a more contemptible, if not more flagrant kind. Misbehavior before the enemy—cowardice, in plain English—is not absolutely unknown in our or any other army. It is wiser, perhaps, to draw a veil over its exhibition and the punishment that must follow, yet we cannot shut our eyes to the certainty of its occasional occurrence.

The Divinity of Justice.

The one divine work, the one ordered sacrifice, is to do justice, and it is the last we are ever inclined to do. Anything rather than that; as much charity as you choose, but no justice. "Nay," you will say, "charity is greater than justice." Yes, it is greater; it is the summit of justice; it is the temple of which justice is the foundation. But you can't have the top without the bottom; you cannot build upon charity.

You must build upon justice for this main reason—that you have not at first charity to build with. It is the last reward of good work. Do justice to your brother—you can do that whether you love him or not—and you will come to love him. It is all very fine to think you can build upon charity to begin with, but you will find all you have got to begin with begins at home and is essentially love of yourself.—John Ruskin.

The Thoughtful Stork.

On a tree close to a house, within a short distance of the river or canal, there was a stork's nest, with young ones. The roof of the house caught fire one day, and, though the flames did not actually reach the tree, the heat became scorching. So the mother stork flew down to the water, got into it and drenched her breast; then, returning to her young, she spread the mass of cool, wet feathers all over them. This she repeated over and over again, flying to the river, going down into the water and returning, her plumage drenched with wet. And thus the nest was saved, and the tender nestlings were preserved alive until the fire had been got under and all was safe. The truth of this remarkable story was vouched for by more than one eyewitness.—Cornhill.

Hard on the Parson.

The village clergyman went away for his holiday, and a neighbor took his Sunday duties. After the substitute had preached his first sermon he remarked to the clerk in the vestry: "I am sorry, John, that I gave you such a short discourse, but the reason is that the dog got into my study and tore up several leaves of my sermon." The clerk gazed wistfully upon the speaker and said: "Oh, sir, do you think you could spare our parson a pup?"—London Answers.

What Weeping Means.

Tears are the result of a nervous storm in the central nervous system, under which there is such a change in the vascular terminals of the tear secreting glands that the excretion of water from the glands is profuse. Some excretion is always in progress in order that the surface of the eye may be lavaged and cleared of foreign matters which may come in contact with it, but the controlling center is at a distance.

Better Than a Sermon.

Mammy—Bless mah heart, if de chile ain't cuttin' his eyetooth! Little Bastus (in alarm)—What's an eyetooth, mammy? Mammy—Why, de eyetooth, chile, watches ebry word dat yo' tongue utters, an' ebry time yo' says a bad word it'll pain dat good eyetooth so much dat it'll ache fo' two hours!—Puck.

The Norway Oath.

Probably the most curious European oath is administered in Norway. The witness raises his thumb, his forefinger and his middle finger. These signify the Trinity, while the larger of the up-lifted fingers is supposed to represent the soul of the witness and the smaller to indicate his body.

Mean.

He—I am really surprised at Dr. White. After being our family doctor for years and treating me for all sorts of things, and to think of all the money we've paid him he done? She—What has he done? He—He wouldn't pass me for the life insurance company!

The Captive.

"They tell me Maude Burlocks is going to be married." "You're misinformed. Miss Burlocks is going to marry the man who is going to be married. Your difficulty is that you don't know Miss Burlocks."—Baltimore News.

Round to Explain It.

"Say, pa," asked Willie sweetly, "what does a chopping sea chop?" "I guess," answered his father thoughtfully, "it must be the sea-board."—Philadelphia Record.

City Property for Sale

HENDERICKS' ADDITION TO EUGENE.
To those desiring to purchase city lots, I have laid out an addition on the south side of the city and north of College Hill Park. I have 120 lots in this addition, and am selling them very low so as to enable every one to have a home of their own. The price of these lots is from $50 up.

ELIAS STEWART ADDITION TO EUGENE.
I have some very desirable lots in this addition, in the very heart of the city and within a few blocks of Willamette street.

WHITEAKER'S ADDITION TO EUGENE.
I have a few lots in this addition within two blocks of the First National Bank.

COLLEGE HILL PARK.
I have 100 lots in this addition. The price now is $50 each. I will advance the price soon. We expect College Hill Park to become the most desirable residence property in or near the city.

HENDERICKS' ADDITION TO COLLEGE HILL PARK.
We have 70 lots for sale cheap in this addition; also 40 or 50 acres of very choice fruit land. I have on this place 1,500 young fruit trees, about 400 Bartlett pear trees, and 200 black walnut trees, also apples, plums and small fruits. This place has a good farm house, barn and out houses, and is a most beautiful suburban piece of property. It is known as the Loewest Hill farm, and there is no place in the state more beautifully and pleasantly situated.

I am not in real estate business as a business, but I sell my own lands only. I employ no agents. Any one desiring to purchase any of this property will find me at the first National Bank. I will be pleased to show property and give prices. I might exchange some of this property for good timber land. Come and see me.

New Addition to Eugene.
