PRINCESS BEATRICE OF SAXE-COBURG, WHO IS TO MARRY THE CZAR'S BROTHER.

The Grand Duke Michael and the Princess Beatrice of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, who are soon to be publicly betrothed, are two of the most interesting of the young royalty of Europe and are said to be really in love. The grand duke is the brother of the czar and heir to the throne of Russia. Princess Beatrice is a charming girl yet in her teens and is very much admired at the British court.

Heat From Cold Water.

Heat from cold water seems fabulous, but it is an established fact. The water is decomposed by electricity into its constituent gases, hydrogen and oxygen. When these gases are reunited, the act of combination causes the evolution of intense heat. The well known limelight is an example of this.

Marriage Rings in Denmark.

The maidens of Denmark never receive a diamond engagement ring. They are always presented with a plain gold band, which is worn on the third finger of the left hand. On the wedding day the bridegroom changes the ring to the right third finger, which is the marriage finger in that country.

Rheumatism.

If you suffer from rheumatism, buy a little flowers of sulphur and sprinkle it well into the feet of a pair of stockings, which you must wear at night. The sulphur is quickly absorbed into the system through the feet, and, as every one knows, sulphur is the remedy for rheumatism.

Wind as a Destroyer.

The ravages wrought upon sea bluffs during great storms are often due to the wind as much as to the ocean waves. Sand and salt spray driven for hours before a violent wind act like a gigantic sand blast, eating away with surprising rapidity the layers of gravel and sand of which many projecting headlands are composed. The surfaces of bodies exposed to such a wind are soon pitted. In a great gale in 1869 a single night sufficed to convert the window panes of the life saving station at Truro into ground glass.

A Sure Sign.

A physician driving past a place where stonemasons were at work on some monuments called out:

"Hard at work, I see. You finish your gravestones as far as 'In memory' and then you wait, I suppose, to see who wants a monument next."

"Why, yes," was the answer, "unless somebody is ill and you are treating him, and then I know just how to go on."

HOPS WILL BE HIGH.

Next Year's Crop is Being Contracted at 18 Cents by Some of the Large Brewers.

Next year's hop crop will not fall below 18 cents. A few contracts for hops are being made at that price. This is proof enough that growers may at least depend upon another year of prosperity, says the Evening Telegram. It is doubtful if the price will ever again fall as low as 10 cents, as the consumption keeps pace with the supply, more especially as the New York growers are going out of the business owing to adverse conditions.

The market has been most peculiar this year. At the present time some of the dealers are selling two cents below the market price to make good order which were not covered with contracts.

It seems all the more remarkable that prices kept up so well in the face of the fact that very few of the large brewers, according to reliable information from trade sources, have bought of this year's crop. Most of the large brewers have cold storage plants where they keep hops in stock, and many of them have been using from cold storage stock rather than pay present prices. It is their policy to wait until an off year so they can stock up when hops are cheap. But the fact that they are drawing largely on their old stock this year ought to help in making prices good next year. Having exhausted their reserve stock, they will be forced to come into the market heavy for a new supply. Therefore, dealers, it would seem, are justified in making contracts ahead for 18 cents.
