MISS STONE

IN EUGENE

Lectured Last Evening in Salem — In the Christian Church This Evening.

Miss Ellen M. Stone, the famous missionary arrived this afternoon from Salem where she lectured last evening to a large audience.

She appears to be in good health and spirits, delighted at her reception throughout her entire trip in the Western states. It is Miss Stone's first visit to Oregon and she is appreciably awakened at the wonders of our fair state.

"You have a great country out here," she said to a reporter this afternoon. "I am much impressed with the grand distances and territory which serves you. The state is a great one—one of the finest climates I have ever enjoyed."

Miss Stone has seen many different kinds of countries and climates of course.

She has a kindly eye and a voice which compels admiration and attention.

"I hope I shall have a large audience tonight," she said. "I do love to address these people. I believe it is my great opportunity and I am glad to make use of it. My trip West has been one of great pleasure. Everybody is so kind to me."

"Oh, I will tell you all about that tonight," she said in response to a question concerning her six months' captivity among the Bulgarian brigands. "It makes me shiver when I recount those experiences, so I reserve them for the platform."

As announced, Miss Stone will lecture this evening in the Christian church.

Miss Stone is accompanied by her nephew, Mr. Fred Stone, who manages the business transactions for his aunt. He is a bright young man.

25-CENT ADMISSION. Students of the University and the High School and children under 15, will be admitted this evening at the Stone lecture in the Christian church for 25 cents.

KEEP THE KEYS IN YOUR OWN POCKET. Eugene, Ore., April 21, 1903.

Yesterday in a jury trial, six jurors came to the conclusion, and actually decided that it was lawful and just for any man or scoundrel, to steal the keys from an employe with which to effect an entrance into a man's place of business and help himself to the available goods to his heart's content.

Said jury, in my estimation, has annulled all the efforts and honest endeavors of our efficient and careful night police force, who are trying to protect the property of our business men.

The culprit in this case was a self-confessed night-marauder, devoid of any manly principles, but still he was cleared by the jury.

Where is our protection? EMIL ETTER.

Ole Olson.

Ben Hendricks, the popular actor and comedian, is again presenting the best of Swedish plays, "Ole Olson" and with the same results that have attended his previous starring tours in this play—a succession of crowded houses that is seldom broken, giving tribute to his well directed efforts on their part and to the excellence of his supporting company. Mr. Hendricks and "Ole Olson," with all its fun and pathos, musical features, dancing and other specialties, will be at the Parker, Wednesday evening, April 22, and will doubtless attract that large class of amusement lovers that gets enjoyment from a wholesome comedy naturally presented.

The Swedish Ladies' Quartette is a factor in the entertainment and the singing of this organization of attractive Swedish ladies is always an appreciated feature.

FRANK E. DUNN

MRS. M. E. MULKEY SUES FOR DIVORCE

Alleges Cruel and Inhuman Treatment and Asks for Custody of Child.

Mrs. Mary E. Mulkey has commenced suit against her husband, L. H. Mulkey, for divorce.

She alleges in her complaint as follows: That they were married in Lane county, Dec. 23, 1895, and have one child, Virgil H., aged two years.

That one year after their marriage Mulkey became very angry at her and ever since then has treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner; that on occasions, too numerous to mention, he has called her indecent names, too vile for publication; that on Sunday, April 19, 1903, he struck the plaintiff with his elbow, knocking her against the stove and told her that she deserved to be killed. That the plaintiff's father decided to let her 62 acres of land for a home, but that Mulkey sold the land for $1200 and obtained nearly all the money and bought other land and stock and placed the deed in his own name.

The plaintiff asks for the custody of the child and asks the court to enjoin Mulkey from selling said land and stock.

Geo. B. Dorris and L. Bilyeu are Mrs. Mulkey's attorneys.
