"CONQUEST" DRAMATIZED

C. B. Clement Gives Guard Important Information.

Will Finance a Company to Produce Plays to Advertise the Lewis and Clark Centennial.

NOVEL DRAMATIZED. The authoress of the book, Eva Emery Dye, has written her own dramatization of the same and the manuscript is in Mr. Clement's hands. He is to finance a company, in partnership with Wm. Keefor, of Portland, which will handle repertory plays and make "The Conquest" the leader of them all. All preparations have been made. Miss Marie Kelly, one of New York's famous stage artists, has been secured to play a leading role and C. E. Lloyd, one of the best known Shakespearean artists of the United States, has accepted a prominent masculine role. The other members of the company are people well up in the art world and will make a grand success of the venture.

Mr. Clement has purchased the manuscript and has just completed its copyright on the same. He will be manager of the company and Mr. Keefor secretary and treasurer. In embarking upon the enterprise these gentlemen have the assurances of the most conservative that they will meet with success.

PURPOSE OF THE PLAY. The purposes of the play will be to make an educational crusade which will arouse enthusiasm in the Lewis and Clark Centennial. Its nature is historical. Sacajawea, the Indian princess who guided the explorers across the mountains in 1805, will be a leading soprano role. President Thomas Jefferson will be a character, as in the book. The most vivid of the experiences of the exploring trip will be portrayed in scenes made realistic by the finest scenery. James Monroe, then minister to France, will be portrayed. There will be eighteen speaking parts in the drama.

The purpose of the play will be realized without a doubt. It opens up a field for the advertisement of the Lewis and Clark Fair which is invaluable. The results will be immense.

THE FIELD TO BE COVERED. The field to be covered by the company is for the next year, the Pacific Northwest. The next season will be played continuously at the World's Fair in St. Louis. Following the campaign of education the play will be put on at the Lewis and Clark Centennial in Portland, California will be covered. The management is about to commence booking for Oregon and try to cover the entire state as thoroughly and as rapidly as possible. The directors of the fair have not this information but will, without a doubt, welcome the innovation as one worthy of their best support.

Walter Ross, of Eugene, has been selected as advance agent by Mr. Clement. The selection is a good one as Mr. Ross is well posted on things theatrical and operatic advertising.

ORGANIZE IN SEPTEMBER. The company will be organized September 1st. The headquarters will be 224 Martin building, Portland. Its official name will be "The Clement-Keefor Dramatic Company."

Crawford peaches for canning. Leave your order now for the crop will be short this season. Golden Rule Store, Ninth street.

A DOUBLE HOP VINE THE OREGON MINERAL SPRINGS

Carries Both Male and Female Principle on Same Vine. The hop of commerce grows on what is commonly described as the "female" vine, the "male" vine producing nothing but blossoms, and that a time when the female vine commences to form the hop burr. At that time the male blossom gives off a light pollen that is carried by the wind and reaches the female hop burr.

Hop-growers in setting yards place a male vine every seventh hill in every seventh row thereby getting no direct return at hop-picking time from one forty-ninth of their yard. Hops produced without male vines are light and "fluffy" and are devoid of the rich yellow pollen that gives the hop weight and value.

FA HERMAPHRODITE. A vine has been brought to the Guard office from the Sam Howard yard that is very odd in that it combines both male and female characteristics. A fully formed hop burr has grown on the end of each "arm" or runner, while the rest of the arm is in blossom like the male hop.

SOCIAL REALM.

Upon the occasion of her birthday, Mrs. J. S. Stiles was surprised last evening by the invasion of her home, 107 East Eleventh street, by a party of guests who made merry for the evening. The best kind of a time was enjoyed by all. The surprise feature was complete as neither Mr. or Mrs. Stiles had the slightest idea of what was coming. A fine luncheon was a feature of the evening. The following guests comprised the list of invaders: Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Haines, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kays, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Greer, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Frazer, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Farrington, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Gordon and Mrs. W. W. Chesman.

Picnic parties on the green north slope of Skinner's Butte are becoming the popular mode of diversion by Eugene's summer population. Yesterday afternoon there was another of the delightful parties and all the enjoyment usual on such occasions was in evidence again. The following families formed the list of picnickers: Frank E. Dunn, W. W. Calkins, E. J. Fragler, Prof. F. G. Young, Mrs. Cundiff and daughter Margaret, the Misses Chase, Mrs. Geo. DeBar and daughter, Mrs. Calvin Hanna, Mrs. G. Wold and Miss Hattie Lee, of Woodland, Cal.

Last evening in honor of Miss Lulu Schofield, of Minneapolis, Minn., given by her host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Hulm, was an enjoyable event of the midsummer season. The party roved to the head of the race and partook of luncheon in the brilliant light of the harvest moon. The party consisted of Misses Etta Eastland, Hattie Walton, Olin Ford, Miss Schofield and Mr. and Mrs. Hulm.

Lee Hoselton returned yesterday afternoon from a timber cruising in the vicinity of the Oregon Mineral Springs at London, twelve miles south of Cottage Grove. He formed the Guard today that an outing place the springs are located. A fine hotel has recently been erected, the finest camping grounds are near by and the water of the springs seems to be a splendid remedy for a number of complaints, especially stomach troubles. This new resort is easily accessible a good road running from Cottage Grove, and a stage makes daily trips to and from the springs.

KICKED BY A HORSE. Mr. Hoselton is in Eugene with a cane as a result of being kicked on the right knee by the horse that kicked J. T. Rowland broke his arm recently. The horse belongs to Levi Geer and seems quite vicious. Lee was laid up awhile and thought at first his was broken, but he was soon able to walk around again.
