Report is a Fake.

Roseburg Review: Sheriff E. L. Parrott this morning received word from Deputy Sheriff Frank Hopkins, at Canyonville, stating that there was nothing in the report given out here by Zeke Allen that the body of Harmon Snyder, who has been missing since the 10th of June, had been found by one of the Cantile boys last Sunday. Pursuant to instructions from District Attorney Geo. M. Brown, Hopkins made a visit to the scene of the supposed discovery and otherwise investigated the matter, ascertaining the absolute untruthfulness of the story. Why such a report should have been given out is a mystery, unless it was to satisfy somebody's appetite for creating a public stir.

Willie Wheeler, of Lowell, was the lucky one in Watts' money-back sale of spectacles. A few days ago Mr. Watts offered to refund the purchase money of one pair of glasses out of every twenty sold by him, the lucky one to be decided by lot, and the above is the result of the first drawing. The same chance will be given on the next twenty.

They Are Here.

A dispatch from Lebanon says: "A couple of traveling photographers have been doing the town for the past two days. Their scheme is to take a photo of all the business houses of the town, and then insist that the various proprietors buy one or more. They have already made the photos, and it now remains to be seen whether or not they can sell the pictures." These photographers have been operating in Eugene for the past several days.

FALL CREEK WILL BOOM

Mining Locations Indicate Faith in the Locality.

Easy of Access and Believed to Be Rich in Resources-- Capital Will Be Soon Attracted.

The records of the mining locations constantly being made in the Fall Creek district indicate that there is a strong belief among mining men that that district has a golden future. Dozens of claims have been taken up in that locality during the past year and hardly a week passes by but new ones are being entered on the records of the county clerk of Lane county. The reasons for this quiet activity among those looking for good mining claims are said to be simply on account of the promising features about the district from a gold-bearing standpoint. Fall Creek is situated about 16 miles east of Eugene, is easy of access by fairly good roads and has a considerable supply of water from which power could easily be developed. Prospectors have traversed its surface over and plenty of indications have been found as to the gold-producing character of the region. Experts have examined the creek and give as their opinion that Fall Creek is as valuable in gold deposits as other localities which have been under development for the past ten years or more.

DEVELOPMENT WILL COME. There has been no development, beyond a casual prospecting and a little placer work, done in the Fall Creek region. The locality awaits the recognition and "discovery" which always comes to the worthy mining district. Men who have claims in the Fall Creek country, and they number near one hundred, expect good capital to be attracted to their holdings, sooner or later. Local capital is declared to be too conservative for risk in developing mines and is even chary about investment in the well known Blue River and Bohemia properties. But the time will come, so the claim-holders declare, when the needed money for a big establishment in Fall Creek for the development of mines which will turn out the golden metal. From the activity in taking up locations in that district this time cannot be very far off.

Deserved Promotion.

Horace McClure, a former Eugene boy, and a graduate of the U. O., has been promoted to editor-in-chief of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Mr. McClure was born and reared in Eugene and has a multitude of friends here who will learn of his success with much pleasure. The Ellensburg, Wash., Capital says:

"The P.-I. changed editors some time ago, and it is now plainly apparent that there is a new man at work. Horace McClure, the young man who is now editor-in-chief of this great paper, is a young gentleman whose career has been a record of progress from the 'case' to his present high place, after graduating in each step leading up to this responsible position at the top. Energetic, intelligently directed, combined with quick perception and a high sense of right and justice, have been the main factors in pushing this young man to the front. The P.-I. already shows the stamp of his genius, and he will put it where it should have been long ago—in the front ranks of coast journals, from the editorial standpoint."

Married.

OREGON LEADS IN LAND SALES

Shows a Great Boom During Past Year in Timber Lands.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Oregon heads the list for land sales and entries by homeseekers of any state in the Union for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1903. North Dakota was first last year and now stands second, but is led by Oregon by more than $800,000. Oregon contributed to the treasury $2,015,835 and North Dakota $1,319,835.

Washington and Idaho also did a booming business in public lands during the year. Washington stands third with about $1,000,000 to her credit.

Friends of Oregon are very much gratified over the great progression and popularity the state is showing, and argue that within the next decade Oregon will probably exceed in population any of the mountain or Pacific Coast states.

SOCIAL REALM.

Miss Eda Starr entertained a number of her friends at her home, at 257 Jefferson street, yesterday afternoon. Music and various games were the amusements of the afternoon. The hostess was assisted by Miss Hazel Huff in serving delicious refreshments. Those invited were: Misses Zella Zeigler, Lena Day, Jessie Linton, Mary DeBar, Ensel Barker, Hazel Huff, Ethel Green, Susie Kaufmann, Ella Cleaver, Mable Lane (Rowland), Ada Powell (Junction City), Clara Potts, Ethel Graham, Ethel Drake, Bessie Quinn, Nellie Quimby, Mary Haswell, Norma Honig, Myrtle White.

Is It Too Dry?

While rain is not wanted by the farmers on account of the threshing going on about the county at the present time, fruit growers are wishing that a little extra moisture would happen their way. Pasture is also short and stockmen complain that the rain has been insufficient for the year. Stock as a result are in quite poor condition.

The past month has shown a lack of rain that is unusual at least. A change is looked for. Considerable apprehension is felt by hop men that the rain will set in at picking time and continue too long. In that case hops would be damaged considerably.
