At the Theatres

The audience that greeted Georgia Harper, the popular emotional actress, at the Eugene theatre last night was decidedly small, but appreciative. Miss Harper's opening bill was "Camille," and the piece was handled in a very capable manner. Miss Harper appeared to splendid advantage in the title role and her support was good. The company carries its own special scenery, which is elaborate and beautiful. Tonight the comedy, "Niobe."

GAVE SPRINGFIELD A JOLT

When the Portland excursionists were here the Register published what purported to be a railroad map of Lane county. This map showed a line being built from Eugene to Natron and thence east of the mountains. It is a curious fact that at the present time a line is being built from Henderson to Springfield, but none from Eugene to Natron. Why the paper published such a map entirely obliterating and ignoring Springfield is a matter of much speculation in the lumber manufacturing centre of Lane county.

Springfield is a city of nearly 1000 people, a manufacturing town with great water power, and the future has her destined for quite a railroad centre. Her interests and Eugene's are identical and there is no reason for the reflection cast upon our sister city.

Senator Platt Says Equitable Contributed $10,000 Annually

Aged Politician Had to Be Helped to the Witness Stand--Salary of a Tammany Man

New York, Nov. 21.—John A. Nichols, the lawyer who wrote to Senator Depew that "our cantankerous friend is a rook as usual," was a witness before the life insurance investigation this morning. Nichols said he had been attorney for the Mutual and Equitable. He did general work. He told of how he "took care" of persons inimical to the company. A "cantankerous friend," W. S. Manning, a former employe, was paid $450 annually. Depew didn't know the witness. They paid a man named Kerr, a newspaper correspondent, to prevent him "knocking the company." Senator Platt took the stand a few minutes before noon.

Thomas Cowan, formerly a magistrate, a member of Tammany, said he was employed in the Equitable real estate department and admitted he didn't "do much." In reality he was employed as a go between for the Equitable and city departments. His salary for several years was $6000, but was reduced to $5400. When Platt took the stand his steps faltered and he was supported by his counsel. He needed assistance in reaching the witness chair. He said: "I have received contributions for campaign expenses from the insurance companies, particularly the Equitable for about ten years. I have kept no record, but about $10,000 was received annually from the Equitable for state campaigns, but none for the city. It was brought in cash by a special messenger and turned over to the treasurer of the committee. I did not solicit contributions." So far as he could recall the New York Life never contributed to the state committee. The companies never sought to influence legislative matters. When the companies contribute they expect to call upon those to whom they contributed for aid, but never called upon him. He could not control legislation, but might influence it. He was excused and thanked the committee as he was assisted from the room.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Wilbur Cole and William B. McSwain, accused of stealing letters from the Armour Company and attempting blackmail, were arraigned before Justice Prindiville this afternoon, and waived examination. Each was held to the grand jury in $3000 bonds. The government is to take no hand in the case, but if the letters figuring prove to be really important, the government's attorneys will probably demand the books from which the copies were made be produced at the forthcoming trial of the packers' conspiracy case.

SAYS THEATRES BAD FOR CHILDREN

Washington, Nov. 21.—President Roosevelt today appointed Charles E. Wolverton, now on the Oregon state supreme bench, to be federal judge of the district of Oregon, vice Judge Chas. B. Bellinger, deceased. The appointment of Wolverton is said to be a compromise between the McBride and Bean forces.
