MILLION DOLLAR
HOTEL

Coos Bay Making Arrangements for Great
Tourist Resort

Promoters Have Site of Forty Acres of Ground and Further Subsidy of Hundred and Sixty Acres

The first steps were taken this week for the promotion of a million dollar tourist hotel to be known as The Coos Bay, says the North Bend Harbor.

For some time certain parties who have the good of the bay at heart have been considering a movement of this kind. Their hopes have so far materialized that they have a site of 40 acres of ground on the peninsula for the hotel and a further subsidy of 160 acres.

The site is an ideal one, but of course is subject to change. If a better one or a larger subsidy can be obtained the offer will be open for consideration.

The plans have not progressed far enough that the parties wish to disclose their identity. The Harbor is permitted to make this note of the enterprise to see how it strikes the public pulse.

A thorough exposition of the enterprise has been laid before the Southern Pacific officials, and if they should become interested the hotel will be assured.

It is the idea to have a hotel the equal of any on the Pacific coast and one that will rank with Del Monte and Del Coronado and be in itself an attraction for tourists.

It is estimated that tourists spend $25,000,000 annually. When the railroad is built and we have a first-class hotel there is no reason why a large tourist travel cannot be turned this way.
