Note and Comment

Mrs. Mattie M. Sleeth, state organizer of the W. C. T. U., has had her say on the race suicide question. She does not think there is any particular menace in a decreasing birth rate, asserting that the strength of the nation depends not upon the number but upon the character of its people. All very well if you can limit the number without wrecking the health of the mothers through improper practices, and probably not so well, either, when you consider that the one child of a family almost invariably represents the acme of selfishness. Not its fault, either, but of the parents who refused to give it companions to share their love and make it know there were others than itself in its little world. Exactly on the same principle if there was but one man in the world no law would be needed. With two men rules of action would be required to safeguard each other's rights. Mrs. Sleeth will not get character, physique, from broken down mothers.

What would the national capital do without the army and navy, both for society and sensation. Now it is a snob lieutenant who has gotten unenviable notoriety and some punishment for requesting a sergeant to remove himself several seats away from his highness, the lieutenant.

The czar asked Kaiser William's advice about the rebellion in his Baltic provinces the other day. Now if there is one thing more than another William is good about it is giving advice, so he told him in effect to get in with both feet and stamp it out. A wise ruler would have advised removal of the causes that have made the big empire a hotbed of sedition.

There will be general satisfaction among the many visitors to the Lewis and Clark fair over the action of the Portland city council appropriating $14,000 the other day for the purchase of the Forestry building site, with necessary adjacent grounds. Portland would have made a great mistake had it been allowed torn down. It is the greatest advertisement of our immensely valuable lumbering interests possible, and doubtless will be the means of interesting hundreds and thousands of visitors in Oregon and Washington timber.

Among the diversions at the Annapolis naval academy as brought out by the inquiry now in progress, are those of having the midshipman under torture stand on his head at the pleasure of his tormentors, and eat under the table. But boys will be boys, and no one will doubt but that the young fellow taking his grub under the table will in course of a short time eat off the boards above while some other fellow goes under the table.

Here is a story that is going the rounds:

"A man in this town was attacked with a severe cold, which affected his throat and made it impossible for him to speak above a whisper. On his way home from the office in the evening he concluded to stop in at the home of his physician for treatment, knowing it was the habit of that good man to be at home about that hour. He rang the doorbell and presently the doctor's wife came to the door. "Is the doctor at home?" asked the patient in the best husky whisper he could muster. "No, he isn't," responded the wife, also in a whisper; come on in."

There Is No Negro Problem

By General OLIVER O. HOWARD, Retired

I HAVE no patience with the "negro problem" bugaboo, FOR BUGABOO IT IS, pure and simple. Of all that has been written recently of the colored man's status and the future of that society of which he constitutes a large element one-tenth is true. In the first place it is written that the race is on the increase in the United States. STATISTICS disprove that statement.

The argument against the higher education of the negro that it tends to unfit him for the filling of his station in American life is too undemocratic for answer. The graduates of negro institutions, most of them, are engaged today IN UPLIFTING THEIR BRETHREN. I have never known ONE whose education has rendered him useless in society. Our schools are primarily training schools, and there can surely be no economic menace in the fact that we are teaching the negro independence. In fact, the one kernel of truth which the "problem" writers have discovered is that education is removing the race further and further from ENSLAVEMENT.

THERE IS NO NEGRO PROSLEM, NEVER HAS SEEN ONE IN THIS COUNTRY SINCE THE NEGRO BECAME A FREEMAN, AND NEVER WILL BE, NOTWITHSTANDING THAT THERE IS A LARGE CLASS OF WRITERS AND SPEAKERS WHO WOULD RAISE UP ONE.

The Lax Enforcement of Our Laws

By MARSHALL FIELD, Chicago Merchant Prince

EUROPEANS have an idea that many of our laws are BADLY EXECUTED, and in this opinion I think they are justified.

Much of the corruption in public life and dishonesty in business affairs that have come to light recently are due to laxity on the part of public officials in ENFORCING the laws.

Laws are placed on the statute books only to become dead letters. Blackmailing measures are passed by legislative bodies, WITH NO EXPECTATION that they will be enforced.

BY THE NEGLIGENCE OF PUBLIC SERVANTS IN THIS REGARD PRIVATE PERSONS ARE TEMPTED TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THE LAW FOR THEIR OWN PROFIT.
