PRINCIPLES—NOT PARTY NAMES.
From the Oregon State Journal
Recently the editor of this paper received a letter from a personal friend asking his opinion of the direct primary election law. This friend, as well as the writer of this editorial, supported Bryan for President against McKinley, on the ground that Bryan was a better representative of Republican principles than McKinley, who represented the aristocracy and plutocracy, and was elected by them through the corrupt expenditure of vast sums of money taken from the people dishonestly by insurance companies and other corporations. This friend is now earnestly working with the Republicans, on the ground that the controlling forces of the parties have again reversed themselves, and that Roosevelt now represents the people the same substantially as Bryan did, and the opposition to him will be the same forces and powers that elected McKinley. We replied to our friend's enquiry that we did not claim to belong to any party but was independent, and if we could not register without claiming to be a Republican or a Democrat we would perhaps decline to register and be disfranchised by this law. To this he replied that there are being new alignments formed all over the country, due to Roosevelt's courageous and honest stand in the interests of the great masses of the people. The next alignments, he says, regardless of what the party name may be, will be the people against the special privileges. And as Roosevelt will represent the people, our friend thinks he will force the Republican party to champion their rights, and the Democratic party will of necessity be taken up and backed by corporate interests who will depend on its success for legalized graft and the enjoyment of special privileges. "This was seen," he says, "in the last election when they forced the nomination of Parker." "Under these conditions," he continues, "I would strongly urge and advise you to re-identify yourself with the Republican party and register as a Republican, for certainly under Roosevelt's leadership this party is becoming purified all over the country." It does begin to look like Roosevelt represents about the same principles and interests that Bryan did, and the party controlled by him will be supported largely by the same people who voted for Bryan, and perhaps the opposing party will be supported largely by the voters and privileged interests that elected McKinley. Time will tell. It is principles and not party names, that should be supported. Should the controlling forces of the two parties again reverse themselves, as they did in 1896 and 1900, when Bryan represented the people, the same as Abraham Lincoln did in 1860, and McKinley represented the aristocracy and plutocracy the same as Breckinridge and Lane did in 1860, we should not hesitate to register and support what we believe to be for the best interests of the great American people under whatever name that may be. And, in saying this we do not mean that corporations and capital are necessary evils and must be fought and discriminated against at all, for they are the life and glory of the nation and of all nations, but we believe that whatever builds up the prosperity of the whole people is best for capital and corporations, and that those capitalists, who have vastly more than they can use, are shortsighted in carrying elections by the use of money and legislating in a way that will impoverish the masses and increase their own colossal fortunes, and in time will bring ruin on their country and themselves or their posterity, the same as the French nobility did a century ago.

A Grim Tragedy
is daily enacted in thousands of homes, as death claims, in each one, another victim of consumption or pneumonia. But when coughs and colds are properly treated the tragedy is averted. F. G. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which cured her, and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves.
