AN INDEPENDENT PAPER

THURSDAY, MARCH 1

The proposition to have any excess of $10,000,000 in a private fortune declared "a public nuisance, folly or peril," and to confiscate such excess to the federal government is a new scheme for adding to the general revenue. But why not make it a million limit, or at most five millions?

The story that James McPartland, of Denver, has been following the Mollie Maguire for thirty years and has finally traced the murder of Governor Stenness, of Idaho, to the same band of murderers that terrorized the coal settlement in Pennsylvania during the '70's, reads very much like fiction, yet it is not among the impossible nor even improbable. It is said that the Pinkertons have looked upon Mr. McPartland as one of the greatest detectives in the world.

George M. Wright, a young man living in Philadelphia, recently walked from Philadelphia to Jersey City, a distance of eighty-six miles, in twenty-two and a half hours—a very creditable performance for a young man of twenty-two years who has never had a professional training in athletics. Mr. Wright, who is very slender in appearance, evidently has considerably more than the average endurance, which he attributes to the fact that he has been all his life an abstainer from flesh in all forms. Mr. Wright is somewhat proud of his pedigree, having behind him three generations of non-flesh-eating ancestors.

The automobile after killing a few pedestrians here and there, and making no little work in court probate over their rich owners' estates upon occasion, has found its proper place as an instrument of warfare. A Shanghai dispatch says that the mob of Chinamen that filled the streets about the foreign consulates the other day were finally dispersed by an American driving an automobile back and forth through the crowd. It may be, however, that his success will prove his undoing some day. Imagine him trying to run an automobile through an American crowd! He would last just long enough for them to pull him out of his auto or shoot him where he sat if a rope was not handy so it would be too much trouble to hang him.

Colonist Rates Westward

Commencing February 15th and continuing daily to and including April 30th, 1906, and from September 15th until October 31st, 1906, colonist tickets will be sold from the East to points on the Oregon lines via Portland. Rates from Chicago, $33; from St. Paul, Omaha and Kansas City, $25. Corresponding rates will be made from other points. Any one wishing to send tickets or ticket and cash to their friends in the East to come West can do so without expense. Call on your local agent for information.

Big Musical Number

At the glee and mandolin club's concert next Saturday night Professor I. M. Glen will sing the Prologue to Pagliacci, who is the author of the famous opera, "Roland from Berlin," ordered by the emperor. It was first produced in Berlin last winter. Arthur Frazer will accompany Professor Glen.

Portland papers said: "The best college show Portland ever saw."
Pendleton: "Excellent entertainment."
The Dalles: "Our own college boys made us proud of our state university when they sang last night."
Salem: "The entertainment was worthy of a packed house and the clubs made good."
Albany: "The boys made a continued hit."
La Grande: "The entire program was a rare treat."
Baker City: "Baker City people will be satisfied if professional troupes will come as near giving them their money's worth."
Heppner: "The largest house ever assembled in Heppner and all satisfied."
"The University of Oregon glee and mandolin clubs played to a packed house at the Baker City theatre last night and the club members are certainly living up to their reputations and are presenting the people of Eastern Oregon the best college show on the Pacific coast. The repertoire is especially well selected, including both classical and humorous music. Professor I. M. Glen, E. A. Abbett and Robert Rountree and others are adding to their already artistic reputations as exponents of up-to-date concert and college music."—Oregonian.

The Hoffman House
Wishes to inform its patrons that during the prevalent typhoid menace the drinking water served in the dining room is first boiled and the milk sterilized. The cuisine, as heretofore, is under the direct supervision of Mrs. Osburn, and hygienically conducted throughout.

FIRE IN FARM HOUSE

NEAR ELMIRA

The farm residence of E. B. Brown near Elmira had a narrow escape from destruction by fire about six o'clock this morning. Some clothes hanging on the wall near a stovepipe became ignited and before the blaze was discovered it had extended to the roof and burned a big hole. By hard work the fire was extinguished with several buckets of water. The building insured by the Oregon Fire Relief Association and is on the farm formerly owned by Deputy Sheriff H. L. Bown.
