AN INDEPENDENT PAPER.

MONDAY, APRIL 23

In his spelling reform, wonder if Mr. Carnegie would write it Steel or Steel trust.

Germany is to have six more big warships. Will these be British taxpayers to groan again.

The Southern Pacific railroad is doing all in taking whoever will go from San Francisco without charge. Pestilence is to be feared.

Ida Tarbell doubtless feels that she can take a good long rest, for there is taking up the work on Oily John ring where she is off.

The earthquake seems to be moving northward—is going a little too close for comfort. Grant's Pass, where they had a tremble early this morning, is less than two hundred miles from Eugene.

When New York has a boy speaker of the house, Nebraska a boy orator and Milwaukee a boy mayor, it shows the good policy of "standing in with the boys."

Nothing in the way of disinterested spirit has ever been seen like the solicitude of the railroad least Congress should pass a rate regulating bill that would prove "unconstitutional."

Of Oregon will have some profit out of the terrible calamity on our South. Have you thought of the millions upon millions of feet of lumber that will be required this year and during the next few years to rebuild the big city? That will mean great activity in our mills and logging camps—very ready money. Then the labor required in rebuilding will demand the service of every obtainable man. That should make good wages all over the coast for months to come. And when our working people have steady, profitable employment no one else may complain.
