TUESDAY, AUGUST 7

Irrigation is Needed

Irrigation projects, such as that outlined in the Guard yesterday, will tend to make the Willamette valley the garden spot of the West. While it is true that sections of the valley, especially the low bottoms along the river, do not need irrigation there are large areas that would be vastly benefited by the increased productivity that would result. Alfalfa growing and the dairy business would be promoted to such an extent as to make it unequalled in the world.

What irrigation can do and has done is exemplified in Idaho and many other semi-arid states. It answers the question why the sage brush lands of that country are in greater demand and sell for higher prices than the best valley lands of Western Oregon. A visit to Boise during the session of the coming National Irrigation congress next month would be an object lesson that would do many Oregonians a world of good by turning their attention to a subject that has been almost entirely overlooked here in the past.

The real big thing in the octopus hunting campaign is said to be on now in dead earnest. Yesterday the federal grand jury at Chicago began its investigation against the Standard Oil trust on the charge of accepting railroad rebates—the system of discrimination by which the king octopus is said to have vanquished its rivals. For the past ten days attorneys and special agents for the government have been at work on the evidence. Assistant Attorney-General Page went to Chicago from Washington to take charge of the work. He was followed by T. C. M. Shindler, special agent for the department of commerce and labor. A day or two later J. J. Sullivan, United States district attorney at Cleveland, dropped in and with District Attorney C. B. Morrison, Assistant District Attorney F. Hanchett and Frank B. Kellogg, special counsel for the government, a formidable array was presented. Quite unexpectedly the attorneys changed front in their ideas of procedure, and whereas they had started with the idea of presenting an "information" to Judge Bethea as the basis of a misdemeanor prosecution, founded upon uncollected storage charges due by the Standard Oil to the Lake Shore railroad, a special grand jury was summoned to meet Monday for a general investigation. It is stated that a second grand jury would be drawn to sit August 14 for an investigation of even broader matters than those to be submitted to the first.

It appears from our Washington dispatches that Japan persists in holding on to Manchuria and making it a Japanese province. She will undoubtedly retain Port Arthur whatever the Chinese may say. It is charged that under the guise of military exigencies Japanese officials are preventing the entrance of American goods into Manchuria, while the Japanese merchants are afforded an opportunity to get their wares into the country duty free. The complaints are becoming so formidable that it is impossible for them to escape official attention. The Chinese and Japanese have maintained control of affairs. A strong impression seems to exist in commercial circles that the open door in Manchuria is in as great jeopardy in Japanese hands as it ever was under the Russians. If the open door policy upon which the United States places such important stress, and to which Japan is so thoroughly committed, is to be preserved it is urged the necessity exists for the immediate establishment of regular Chinese custom houses at Antung, at the mouth of the Yalu river, and at Dalny, in the leased territory controlled by Japan. Japan will find in time that the "open door" would be the best policy for her to adopt. Her ally, England, will not like the exclusion plan.

The Wall Street Journal says: "According to the Sage estate lawyers Russell Sage left $30,000,000 money loaned out in Wall Street. Of the fifty-three banks composing the New York clearing house, only seven have outstanding a larger total of loans than this. Mr. Sage, therefore, was a bigger lender of money than most of the banking institutions of the city. And there is probably not a bank in the city that would not be glad to take over the Sage loans on the terms he imposed." It is very certain that Sage demanded and received ample collateral.

It is noted in Boston that there never was a time when bankers the country over seemed to be so mixed as to the monetary outlook as is the case today. The available supply of money in New York is larger than has been the case at this period since 1901, with the exception of 1094, and yet rates for time funds do not decline, because there is apparently a demand from corporate interests that cannot be satisfied.

The Evening Herald, published by F. P. Cronmiller at Klamath Falls, an old-time newspaper man of ability who has not been actively engaged in the business for several years, has reached our exchange desk. It is a bright, newsy little paper and is well patronized by the business men of that booming town.

The arrangements for the James-ton expedition are progressing satisfactorily. The Sunday closing discussion stage has been reached.

More people are reading "Today's news today" in the Daily Guard than ever before. It is the popular paper of the plain people.

The Oregon colony at McNeill's Island is growing rapidly, due to the energy of Immigration Commissioner Francis Henry.

A Tragic Finish

A watchman's neglect permitted a leak in the great North Sea dyke, which a child's finger could have stopped, to become a ruinous break, devastating an entire province of Holland. In like manner Kenneth McIver, of Vanceboro, Me., permitted a cold to go unnoticed until a tragic finish was only averted by Dr. King's New Discovery. He writes: "Three doctors gave me up to die of lung inflammation, caused by the neglected cold; but Dr. King's New Discovery saved my life." Guaranteed best cough and cold cure, at W. L. DeLano's drug store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Twenty Year Battle

"I was a loser in a twenty year battle with chronic piles and malignant sores, until I tried Bucklin's Arnica Salve; which turned the tide, by curing both, till not a trace remains," writes A. M. Bruce, of Farmville, Va. Best for old ulcers, cuts, burns and wounds. 25c at W. L. DeLano, druggist.

World Does Not Owe Anybody a Living

By Rev. Dr. NEWELL DWIGHT HILLS of New York

YOUNG men should not make the mistake at the outset of their career of saying, "The world owes me a living." Of all the black lies that ever defaced the page of a man's life THAT IS THE BLACKEST. The world does not owe you a living, but instead you owe the world a million million livings. You can NEVER REPAY what the world has done for you.

There are men living in palaces in Fifth avenue and in palaces in Great Britain who are as surely FINANCED PAUPERS as if they lived in hovels and were supported by the state, and there are women who carry a donkey's load of finery on their backs who should also be classed as paupers because of the little that they give to the world in proportion to what they receive.

The French revolution will be as a match in the night in comparison with the revolution Russia is soon to have, and the aristocrats will reap what they have sown in fire-brands and bullets.

For the last few weeks we have been listening to endless attacks on property. We have heard we are going to the devil because we are too rich a country; that we need to go back to the days when we could not boast so much wealth. But what this country needs isn't more poverty, but MORE MANHOOD TO USE THE PROPERTY WE HAVE. God meant men to go toward wealth; he wants us to multiply our possessions. The trouble is not that we are too rich, but our knowledge, our intellectuality, our honesty, have not kept in advance of our property as they should have done.

WE NEED TO COME BACK TO THE CONVICTIONS OF OUR FATHERS AND SPIRITUALIZE OUR WEALTH AND PROPERTY.

A Poem for Today

HUDSON

By Arthur Guiterman

Deep breasted stream, Thy taller hills have told me! Playmate and friend In days of youthful glow, Now, as of old, In crystal arms enfold me; Take me again Within thy cooling flow! Plunging, I watch Thy deeper waters changing, Gold lighted green To amethystine shade; Strong armed and free, Thy boundless bosom raging, My heart in thine Beats warm and unafraid.
