Prominent Women May Be Directly Implicated in Stensland's Extensive Forgeries—Searching Man-sion of Fugitive for Secret Hiding Place

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Assistant State Attorney Olsen today applied for additional bench warrants against persons alleged to be implicated in connection with the wrecking of the Milwaukee Avenue bank. Attorney Olsen says:

"I am interested just now in the relations between President Stensland and some women prominent in Chicago and elsewhere. It is possible that one of these women may throw some light on the extensive forgeries and may be involved directly in them."

The police are searching the Stensland mansion for an alleged secret room in which Stensland may be hidden or for evidence where he may be concealed. The builders of the house are aiding in the search.

BARNARD FOUND GUILTY BY JURY

Portland, Or., Aug. 12.—Coe D. Barnard committed perjury when he swore on final proof proceedings at Fossil, Wheeler county, that Charles A. Watson had complied with the requirements of the homestead law.

This was the verdict returned last night in the federal court by a jury of Portland business men. Accompanying the verdict was a recommendation to the mercy of the court.

In order to save time a night session was held. A feature of the final proof proceedings was that one of the jurors, Walter H. McMonies, who has been ill with fever for three days, was provided with a sofa and heard the closing arguments while lying in a recumbent position. Another feature was that the jury deliberated in the court room instead of retiring to the place set apart for jurors. After Judge Hunt had delivered his charge he suggested that the courtroom be cleared in order to avert the necessity of moving Juror McMonies, and the suggestion was followed.

RICHEST GIRL WILL MARRY POOR DIPLOMAT

Miss Bertha Krupp Heroine of Pure Love Romance—Sole Heiress of Great Wealth of Famous Gun-maker of Germany—Simple Unaffected Young Lady

Berlin, Aug. 13.—There is an unusual amount of romance in the match between Fraulein Bertha Krupp, owner of the great Krupp gun works in Germany, and Dr. Gut-von Bohlen und Halbach, secretary of the Prussian legation at the Vatican. She is reputed the richest woman in the world, and he is comparatively poor, though a member of an ancient family of the German nobility. She lives in a veritable palace at Essen, but her tastes are simple, and she is very earnest in the discharge of her heavy responsibilities.

MISS BERTHA KRUPP

Now the man—but who cares, about the law take its course, if his wife or daughter were attacked by a negro.

Let's get—at some facts about Miss Krupp:

She leads the simple life.

She romps, skates, golfs.

She dresses simply and cares little for society.

She is fair, rather pretty, of medium height.

She owns the town of Essen, with 270,000 inhabitants.

She has over 40,000 employes.

She owns enormous manufacturing plants and 547 iron mines.

She owns bakeries, slaughter houses and general stores.

She owns the cottages that most of her employes live in.

She has a watch brigade of 900 men, to guard the town and her private residence.

She has her private bodyguard to shoot away anarchists.

She owns churches, hospitals, hotels, art galleries and museums.

She has a net income of about $3,000,000 a year.

She has a reserve fund of about $100,000,000.

She has only to go back to her great-grandfather to find a humble blacksmith.

And she really takes an interest in her people and the work of her vast factories.

Now you see what sort of a responsibility has fallen to Herr von Bohlen Halbach.
