AN INDEPENDENT PAPER.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 21

Greater Eugene Edition

Along the line of action suggested in last evening's Guard, this paper has decided to do its part toward building up a Greater Eugene. Mr. C. A. Rohrabacher, a gentleman of experience and recognized talents as a newspaperman, has placed his services at our disposal and will have charge of a "Greater Eugene" edition of the Guard, which will be issued from this office at an early date. Now it is essential in order to realize our hopes for a greater Eugene that these should also be a Greater Springfield, a Greater Cottage Grove, and a Greater Junction City—in fact, a Greater Lane county, which shall include every growing town and community within its borders. With that end in view this edition will cover the entire belt covered by the trade of all these towns without the least partiality being shown toward any one. The prosperity and progress of all are interwoven and bound together and cannot be separated, and it is the wrong idea to think that any one town of Lane county has a right to prosper at the expense of another.

Mr. Rohrabacher will ingratiate himself in the good will of all with whom he has business relations because he is a gentleman of culture and will carry out to the letter all the contracts that he enters into. "Making good" has been his rule of action during half a century of business activity, and in that respect he is just as good as he needs to be. We commend him without reservation to our friends in Lane county, and predict that the Greater Eugene edition will be one of the finest things of its kind ever given to the reading public of Oregon.

Chile's Calamity

Full details is slow in coming from Valparaiso as they were in coming from the much nearer city of San Francisco on April 18 and succeeding days.

It appears that the Chilean earthquake began Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. It became violent and lasted about four hours.

It disrupted the granite rocks on which Valparaiso stands and tumbled the houses over in bewildering non-fashion. As in San Francisco, fire followed the trembling of the earth as the Spanish call it, and extended the work of destruction.

The full fury of the earthquake and fire fell on the business district which lies alongshore. There the stores, banks, factories and large warehouses are all destroyed or nearly so.

We read that whole rows of buildings went down in a few seconds. The earth in places lifted and pitched the buildings forward. In other places there was a terrible tremor that shook every structure together.

As in San Francisco the night was everywhere aglow with unobscured fire and clouds of choking smoke and vapor settled into the streets and houses where throngs of homeless persons were wandering about, crazed by the awful calamity. The number of persons killed is uncertain, but it is undoubtedly great.

The business loss is undoubtedly great. It will fall heavily on the British and other European insurance companies having agencies in the Chilean port. Following an interval of four months the San Francisco calamity, the disaster will be felt with much severity in the commercial world at large. Marine, financial and industrial interests are now so linked the world over that great calamities are felt simultaneously in great cities. The houses of A. Edwards & Co., Williamson, and four & Co., W. R. Grace and Co., are widely known. They are of high class and serve to link American and British interests with those of Chile. Germany, Spain and Italy are represented among the banks. Banking business was conducted by mercantile houses.

Hawaii, which is about 4000 miles from Chile, was affected by the earthquake. Wireless reports from the islands of Hawaii, Maui and Hilo, report a tidal wave, the general height of which was five feet. In the enclosed Bay of Malacca its height was estimated to be twelve feet, where it carried away a wharf and its superstructure. The phenomena was manifest by an unprecedented surf. Thirty five years ago an earthquake in South America produced similar effects in Hawaii. More wonderful still was the record of the seismograph in Washington, D. C., where it kept tally with the awful calamity with like accuracy as when San Francisco was wrecked.

A good many mail subscribers will not receive yesterday's Daily Guard because only part of the edition was printed. Just after the paper was sent to press for no accountable reason a number of cogs were ripped out of a wheel, and the forms were taken to the Register office, where about 1000 copies were finally printed, but it was slow work, owing to the fact that the press, which is a good machine, was set for a different sized form and different chase, and it was finally decided late at night to quit. We regret this occurrence, and hope in time to have our new plant so perfectly installed that accidents will be as few and far between as angels' visits to this mundane sphere. In the meantime we crave the indulgence of our readers.

PATRONIZE THE MERCHANTS WHOSE ADVERTISEMENTS YOU READ IN THE DAILY GUARD. THEIR GOODS ARE RELIABLE AND THEY BELONG TO THE AGGRESSIVE CLASS THAT MAKE CITIES GREATER AND BETTER—MONEY SPENT WITH THEM WILL SURELY HELP YOU—TRY IT!

Eugene's Water Supply

Cools Bay Times: Eugene wants as much newspaper publicity for her pure water as she obtained over her typhoid epidemic, which of course is only fair.

Notice To Public

The Guard wishes it understood that the only advertising matter that it prints free are the ordinary notices of church services. All notices of lodges, societies, church entertainments, where admission is charged, and all similar advertising matter will be charged for at a reasonable rate per line. We want this understood so that there may be no misunderstanding in the future.

A newspaper's only source of revenue are its advertising space and subscription lists, and the public has no more right to expect these free than to ask the merchant to give away his goods. The cutting off of the free list will allow more equitable and reasonable rates to all, and the Guard proposes to reduce both the advertising and subscription free list to the minimum.

BERT PARAGRAPHS

Faith would probably get very lax if doubt didn't keep it punched up. Most wives believe in their husbands as long as they keep their bills paid. A fast friend is not necessarily a swift man. There are men who never get too old to be foolish. Real people are too busy to notice shams. A round of drinks seldom goes with a square deal. Meeting an old friend after years of separation is likely to be like eating a dish of warmed over hash. The reason women make good detectives is because they know how to detect.

When a woman goes shopping the sales people earn their wages. Some people make you feel as if house cleaning were continually going on. Some men seem born to keep the currency moving. Nothing is as exasperating as a faultless friend.

A shoemaker by trade can select good shoes, where others rely on statements made by the seller. A shoe house paying heavy rent and other heavy expenses puts the additional price on the stock you buy.
