Looks Dark For Mays

Again it seems likely that Special Prosecutor Henry will "make good." He has asked in his opening address to the jury in the Mays case that the defendants be guilty of the biggest, boldest fraud ever perpetrated in this state against the government, or words to that effect, and it appears that he will be able to prove his statements by sworn testimony. Already the opening address of W. D. Fenton, leading counsel for the defense, seems only a rapid, grandiloquent utterance, a sort of buncombe exhibition of oratory.

Former Inspector Ormsby has apparently made a clean breast of his share in the conspiracy and it places Mays and his co-defendants in a bad light. He admits having mapped the Blue Mountain reserve in accordance with the wishes of Mays and to have made his report accordingly. In return for this he received from Mays state school land certificates which were disposed of by Tarpley, another convicted land fraudster, for him and the net proceeds turned over to Ormsby.

It is plain to see, even at this early stage of the trial, why the former state senator and ex-federal office holder was anxious to plead illness as a reason for not going to trial. McNeill's island is not a popular health resort.

More Machinery

The Daily Guard's circulation and business is growing so rapidly that it will further additions to its plant are necessary. This has caused us to order from the factory in the East a 100 folder that will trim, paste and fold 4, 6, 8 or 12 pages at a time, giving us the facilities that we most need to lack at the present time, our present folding machine being incapable of doing the work required. When the new machine arrives we will be prepared to print a six-page daily edition, neatly pasted together, instead of the regular four pages issued now, except on Saturday.

The Guard is carrying so much advertising matter, owing to the fact of its greatly increased circulation being known to local businessmen, that four pages will no longer carry the paid matter and give our subscribers the quantity of reading matter we feel they are entitled to. We intend to continue adding machinery until we have a plant complete enough to handle the business of the field.

If property owners will do a little figuring they will find that cement walks are the cheaper in the long run. The board walks have to be renewed often, while cement properly laid will last a life time with a little patching. In the most progressive cities cement walk is laid almost exclusively of late years, and in addition to durability they are neater in appearance and very much cleaner.

Now that the new hops are coming into market the price question should soon be settled by actual sales. Growers have come to view contracts growers with a great deal of allowance, as buyers always find a way to repudiate them if the market slumps.

The suggestion of Charles A. Towne that he would not be the running mate of any man who would have his vice president a mere figurehead, leads the Norfolk Landmark to comment as follows: "The single fact that the vice president will be president if the president dies or becomes incapacitated for the discharge of official duty is a sufficient incentive to most men who have the chance of the vice presidency offered them and this fact unquestionably makes the place one of great importance (as the old stagers among the Republican politicians, to say nothing of other persons, can testify)."

Discussing the possibility of a Southern Democrat as presidential candidate the Boston Herald says: "There has been no defeat of the Democratic party with a Northern candidate that would be comparable to the defeat it would invite by nominating a Southern man who holds that the war amendments are not binding, and refuses to give pledges to support them as a substantial part of the constitution, as commanding in their obligation as any other portions of the organic law of the land."

The Indianapolis News does not believe the entrance of labor into politics will create a revolution in our political parties. It says: "Of all the men the workingmen are least susceptible to boss control, whether exerted by their leaders or by political managers. They have shown this over and over again. It will not even do to infer that because they believe in organized labor they favor everything for which the union stands. There is independence even in the trade unions."

The Forepaugh-Sells press agent told a Guard representative after the show was over yesterday that he estimated the number of people in the big tent at 15,000. This is an indication of two things—that the circus is still the leading popular entertainment, and that the population of Eugene and Lane county must be increasing rapidly in order to be able to turn out a crowd of that size.

A new serial story by Booth Tarkington, one of the most popular fiction writers of the day, begins in the Daily Guard today, and will also run in the weekly edition. Our readers will be well repaid if they follow the course of this interesting novel from the opening chapters today to its end.

Of course there is a revolt in Cuba. It is in the climate, as well as in the blood, the desire for constant broil having been passed down from generation to generation.

A big circus crowd generally indicates good times and plenty of money.

Proof of Greatness.
 General Nogi is profoundly impressed with the idea that Stoessel was one of the greatest generals of modern times. To be sure, the Russian commander did not make a few magic passes and cause the Japs to fall over dead, but see who they were and particularly take notice as to who was their leader. Nogi knows that his opponent was great, for didn't he hold Port Arthur for months against the Japanese army and the combined forces of the news paper correspondents of the world?

Holding Port Arthur was quite a different proposition from holding a young lady's hand on a pleasant summer night, and nobody knows this better than Nogi, who, as a rival, was trying all of this time to Jar Stoessel loose.

Enlightening the Post.
 "I see you have made 'short' and 'sport' rhyme," said the critic, as though the idea was too absurd for anything.

"What is the matter with that?" asked the poet, who took criticism about as pleasantly as a small boy takes a car oil.

"You know," said the critic, shaking his head gravely, "when a sport is short he is out of time with everything."

Spilled a Romance.
 "A mischievous country girl wrote on an egg, along with her name and address, 'Please correspond,' and sent it to market with the others."

"Did the man who got it write?"
 "Sure."

"And an engagement followed?"
 "Nothing of the sort. When the egg was taken out of cold storage and sold for 'strictly fresh' the girl had been married, thirteen years."

"Has your farmer friend a cultivated taste?"
 "Ought to have," replied the horrible joker. "He has used the cultivator all his life."

Quite Distant.
 "Pity, they say, is akin to love."
 "Yes, but it is only a poor relation."

Is This a Nation Of the Morally Brave?

By ETHAN ALLEN
 HITCHCOCK, Secretary of the Interior

It is probably asserted and claimed for our country that it is the land of the free and the home of the brave, but, while it is historically true that it is the home of the PHYSICALLY brave, it is a question in my mind whether it is not too much the land of the free and too little the land of the MORALLY brave. In other words, whether or not, in various directions, license has taken the place of liberty and corruption has run riot AT THE EXPENSE OF PATRIOTISM.

It is the smooth and machine ridden legislator, whose conscience has been cauterized by the appeals and demands of his supporters, upon whom responsibility for wrongdoing must rest.

It is the vote of such legislators which, in a large measure, governs the passage, amendment or repeal of legislation that encourages or prohibits iniquitous enactments such as, at this very moment, remain upon the statute books, in spite of my earnest appeal, year after year, to have them modified, amended or repealed, because of the unmistakable opportunity AND INDUCEMENT they offer the pension shark and the horde of unconscionable grafters, whose business it has been, and still is, TO ROB THE GOVERNMENT OF the public domain.

About four years ago a special agent of the land office forwarded a report, inclosing the confession of one guilty man, who, as is usual in such cases, complaining of the unequal division of the spoils, exposed the action of three other confederates, who had for years systematically and illegally acquired possession of HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF ACRES of the public domain through the instrumentalities and agencies which were absolutely corrupt.

This confession occasioned the immediate and enforced retirement of the commissioner of the general land office and a prompt investigation, which developed fraudulent land transactions in many of the northwestern, Pacific coast and southwestern states.

THESE INVESTIGATIONS INVOLVED THE ARREST, INDICTMENT AND CONVICTION OF OVER SIX HUNDRED INDIVIDUALS IN OVER TWENTY OF THE STATES AND TERRITORIES, INCLUDING AMONG THE NUMBER SOME WHO HAD HITHERTO STOOD HIGH IN THE COMMUNITIES IN WHICH THEY RESIDED.

In prosecuting the investigation the department has met with many delays and distinct opposition, but its instructions to its representatives have been to proceed without fear or favor, REGARDLESS OF POSITION and influence.

A Poem for Today

FAITH

By John Greenleaf Whittier

I LONG for household voices
 For vanished smiles I long,
 But God hath led my dear ones on,
 And He can do no wrong.
 I know not what the future hath
 Of marvel or surprise,
 Assured alone that life and death
 His mercy underlies.
 And if my heart and flesh are weak
 To bear an untold pain,
 The burdened soul will not break,
 But strengthen and sustain.
 No offering of my own I have,
 Nor works my faith to prove;
 I can but give the gifts He gave,
 And plead His love for love.

And so beside the Silent Sea
 I wait the muffled oar;
 No harm from Him can come to me
 On ocean or on shore.

I know not where His islands lift
 Their fringed palms in air;
 I only know I cannot drift
 Beyond His love and care.

O brothers! if my faith is vain,
 If hopes like these betray,
 Pray for me that my feet may gain
 The sure and safer way.

And Thou, O Lord! by whom are seen
 Thy creatures as they be,
 Forgive me if too close I lean
 My human heart on Thee!
