AN INDEPENDENT PAPER.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 1

Where is Carrie Nation? asks an exchange. With the trouble in Cuba, the riots in the South, the New York political conventions and the hurricanes along the Gulf coast still fresh in the minds of the reading public, it's about time for Carrie to break loose in a fresh place with a new hatchet.

Those hurricanes on the Gulf seem to come in cycles of about five years. Five years ago Galveston was overwhelmed by the great storm that almost destroyed that city, and five years earlier a storm started on September 29 off the coast of Yucatan, swept over the gulf, doing great damage at New Orleans and Mobile, and continuing across the South wrought very heavy damage in the city of Washington.

That was a big storm that hurt the Gulf states so badly. Fiftal winds began at Mobile Tuesday afternoon, rose steadily Wednesday and Wednesday night till Thursday morning at 7:30 when it blew the greatest velocity, 55 miles an hour. Such a wind could not but pile the water up and bring disaster to a coast that is but a few feet as a rule above the level of the high tides. A little more than six and a half inches of water fell at Mobile during the storm.

The sad, deplorable accident which resulted in the death of a thirteen-year-old boy in this city yesterday should serve as a warning against the practice so many boys have of frequenting the railroad yards and jumping on and off moving trains. Railroad work is dangerous employment at best and in busy yards like that about the gravel pits here the older boys should be extremely careful of their movements, and children should be strictly prohibited from loitering about. This accident should not be repeated in the local yards for a long time to come.

Mr. Hearst, candidate for governor of New York, promulgates a personal platform so broad that all may stand on it. He is not only a Jefferson Democrat but a Lincoln Republican; believes in honesty in office, independence in voting, public ownership of public utilities, regulation and restraint of trusts, in labor unions and farmers' granges, direct nominations and open primaries. Even spreads himself over the big tariff question by saying it is "valuable in itself, but has been unreasonably extended and outrageously abused." He wants votes and will not antagonize the voter—like the hunter's con dog would catch them coming and going.

Press dispatches announce that the "amen corner" in the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York City, is to be abandoned. Every republican in the empire state who has been active in his party at any time in the last twenty-five years has at some time or other visited the amen corner, while thousands from other parts of the Union have called there to pay their respects to the New York leaders. For many years Senator Platt, as the head of the party in New York, held forth in the amen corner. In fact it was so named by Platt. Quay and Platt made it their favorite meeting place in the Harrison campaign of 1888.

despite the fact that the headquarters of the national committee was several blocks away. Washington correspondents desiring to see prominent republicans from any part of the country when in New York, could always depend upon meeting them in the amen corner, no matter what hotel they might be stopping at while in the city. The passing of the amen corner from the famous old Fifth Avenue will leave a pang of regret in the mind of every member of the old guard, whether in New York or in the far West.

Starving to Death

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging, that she could not eat, Mrs. Mary H. Walters, of St. Clair St., Columbus, O., was literally starving to death. She writes: "My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters; with the wonderful result that improvement began at once, as a complete cure followed." Best health tonic on earth. 50c. Guaranteed by W. L. DeLano, druggist.

English Language Tells Most Governmental Truth

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

THE English language has become the vehicle for the conveyance of GOVERNMENTAL TRUTH, even more than for the spread of general information, for, beginning with Magna Charta and continuing through the era of the American revolution and the Declaration of Independence down to the present, no language has been so much employed for the propagation of that theory of government which traces governmental authority TO THE CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED.

An idea will sometimes revolutionize an individual, a community, a state, a nation or even a world, and the idea that man possesses INALIENABLE RIGHTS which the state did not give and which the state, though it can deny, cannot take away has made millions of human beings stand erect and claim their God given inheritance.

While the era of constitutional liberty is ever widening, while the tyranny and insolence of arbitrary power are every year decreasing, the leaders of the world's thought, not only the English speaking nations, but the other Christian nations as well, have yet much to do in teaching REVERENCE FOR THE WILL OF THE MAJORITY and respect for the public servants upon whom the people bestow authority.

The belief that moral questions can be settled by the shedding of human blood is a relic of barbarism. To doubt the dynamic power of righteousness is infidelity to truth itself.

THAT NATION WHICH IS UNWILLING TO TRUST ITS CAUSE TO THE UNIVERSAL CONSCIENCE OR WHICH SHRINKS FROM THE PRESENTATION OF ITS CLAIMS BEFORE A TRIBUNAL WHERE REASON HOLDS SWAY BETRAYS A LACK OF FAITH IN THE SOUNDNESS OF ITS POSITION.

A Poem for Today

THE WANDERER

By Eugene Field

UPON a mountain height, far from the sea, I found a shell, And to my listening ear this lonely thing Ever a song of ocean seemed to sing— Ever a tale of ocean seemed to tell.

How came the shell upon the mountain height? Ah, who can say Whether there dropped by some too careless hand— Whether there cast when oceans swept the land, Ere the Eternal had ordained the day?

Strange, was it not? Far from its native deep, One song it sang; Sang of the awful mysteries of the tide, Sang of the restless sea, profound and wide— Ever with echoes of the ocean rang.

And as the shell upon the mountain height Sang of the sea, So do I ever, leagues and leagues away— So do I ever, wandering where I may, Sing, O my home! sing, O my home! of thee!

Three Facts for You to Consider

A shoemaker by trade can select good shoes, where others rely on statements made by the seller.

A shoe house paying heavy rent and other heavy expenses puts the additional price on the stock you buy.
