

NEWS FROM THE UNIVERSITY OF OREGON

One week from tonight in the Eugene theater, the senior class of the university will present one of the highest class comedies of the season, entitled "Pygmalion and Galatea." Though the play is based upon the mythological times, it is said to possess a very interesting plot. The cast is much better than hitherto, and is doing much better than expected, and from the rehearsals promise to eclipse any previous amateur productions. Miss Lela Goddard as Galatea, and Francis Gallows as Pygmalion, and the leading characters seem to fit perfectly into their parts.

The entire support is selected for their aptness for their parts, and special costumes are being made, and with the scenic arrangements, the Greek atmosphere will be reproduced to modern society exactly as it was fourteen centuries ago.

Eugene society seems to be taking especial interest in the play, and, in fact, it promises to be a social event of considerable importance.

Nightwatchman Appointed.

Matt Anderson, of this city, has accepted the position of nightwatchman at the university. Owing to the much valuable property that is left in the buildings alone, it is considered only wise to have some one look after the property at night. In case of fire a steam whistle has been placed in the power house to sound the alarm. Mr. Anderson began his duties the first of the month.

Sophomore Hop.

Saturday evening the annual sophomore hop will be given by the '09 class in the armory. The dance promises to be the greatest social event of the autumn in the circles of the university. Visitors and guests will be present from all over the state—Portland, southern, and even eastern Oregon will be represented, as well as the Willamette valley.

AMUSEMENTS

The stars of the Amosden Opera Company need no introduction to local patrons of the theater, for through their many appearances here in the leading roles with the Road van Opera Company, we are quite familiar with both. Mr. Amosden is without a doubt, the most popular comedian that ever visited Eugene, and Miss Davenport is the best singer.

At the Monday performance the company will present a new musical comedy opera entitled "The Governor's wife." This piece has been written and staged by Mr. Amosden himself, which is a guarantee to local people, as they know that what Claude Amosden does he does well. The Spokane Review says: "The Amosden-Rosica Opera Company, had the opportunity to 'Mascot' presented at the Spokane last night to show its full musical ability, and the company more than met the expectations of all who heard it in the opening week of its engagement. The chorus is well trained and sings effectively. The entire opera is satisfactory from beginning to end. It is given with a vim which shows that every member of the company is endeavoring to please, and their effort elicited frequent applause." Reserved seats on sale at the theater box office Saturday.

Long Tennessee Fight.

For Twenty years W. L. Rawls, of Beils, Tenn., fought nasal catarrh. He writes: "The swelling and soreness inside my nose was fearful until I began applying Bucklen's Arnica Salve to the sore surface. This caused the soreness and swelling to disappear, never to return." Best salve in existence. 25c at Linn Drug Co.
