

Society Events

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Hendricks Thursday evening, when Miss Ada was united in marriage to Richard Shore Smith. The Rev. J. S. McCallum, of the First Christian church, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ruby, as maid of honor, and her niece, Miss Mary Chambers, as bridesmaid. The bridal party was met at the altar by the groom, attended by Luke L. Goodrich. Here the bride was given away by her father. The ring ceremony was performed under a canopy of illusion and similar, and on either side ferns and palms were banked. The bride wore a princess gown of Lousone silk over taffeta, trimmed in duchess lace and carried lilies of the valley. The bridal veil was held in place by a cluster of the same flowers.

Miss Norma Hendricks, cousin of the bride, played Mendelssohn's wedding march. The parlors and hall were decorated with Oregon grape, mistletoe, similar and ferns. The library and dining room decorations were dainty ferns, ribbons and carnations.

A luncheon was served, presided over by Mrs. R. H. Dearborn, Mrs. Charles Burden, Mrs. P. E. Snodgrass and Mrs. Link, of McMinnville. Mr. and Mrs. Link, of McMinnville, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Luckey welcomed the guests at the door. Favors bearing the monogram "H. S." were dispensed at the close of the evening.

The bride will be missed by a large number of friends. She has been prominent in social and musical circles. Both bride and groom are graduates of the University of Oregon. Mr. Smith has won laurels for himself on the athletic field at home and at Columbia University New York City. After a two months' trip in California and Arizona Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home at Klamath Falls.

On Monday evening the Misses Eda and Hazel Humphrey delightfully entertained a large number of their friends with a Fourth of July picnic at their home at 496 Lincoln street. Every detail helped to carry out the suggestion of the Glorious Fourth. The rooms were draped in hunting and flags adorned the walls. Miss Myra Lovridge was an ideal Goddess of Liberty and Donald Stevenson showed his ability as marshal of the day. The program closed with a deer hunt, in which Ralph Robinson proved himself the most successful hunter. After a picnic luncheon had been served the guests celebrated the birth of the new year with firecrackers and guns. Those present were Misses Agnes Stevenson, France and Winale Kelly, Bertha Dorris, Margaret Cundiff, Myra Lovridge, Sadie West, Belle Van Duyn, Elizabeth Elliott, Greta Bristol, Helene Robinson; the Messers, Olin Arnsperger, Bert Shoemaker, Donald Stevenson, Ralph Robinson, Henry McKinney, Ralph McCuen, Wilson, Roy Hammock, Carl Hawley, Paul Bond, Curt Washburne, Walter Moore and Billy Neal.

The mask ball given by Company A on New Year's eve was surely a success. There were about two hundred dancers present and many elaborate costumes were seen among them. The balcony was thronged with spectators watching the happy dancers and listening to the excellent four-piece orchestra.

On New Year's eve Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Smith were host and hostess to a party of twelve young people, given in honor of Mr. Alexander Martin, Jr., of Klamath Falls. In the earlier part of the evening Mr. and Mrs. Smith chaperoned the young people to the masquerade ball, after which a dainty supper was served at the rooms of Mr. and Mrs. Smith in the Schneider building.

The Dorris Club gave a delightful little dancing party on Wednesday evening in the dining room at the Dormitory. Between dances the guests enjoyed the fire place and the cozy corners of the reception room. A large number of students were present, and President Campbell was there to bid them welcome. Mrs. Church and Mrs. McIntosh were the hostesses of the evening.

Wednesday evening the members of the Congregational church gave a farewell reception to their pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Clarence E. Oakley in the church parlors. Light refreshments were served to the guests by the young ladies of the church, and Mrs. Frank Wetherbee and Mrs. Belle Way poured the tea.

The Dorm Club gave a delightful little party in their rooms in the library building was a great success. The ladies spared no pains in beautifully decorating the rooms.

The reception committee consisted of Mrs. Orlin F. Stafford, Mrs. F. G. Young, Mrs. Minnie Washburne and Mrs. F. W. Osburn. Mrs. Huddle and Mrs. Cleran presided over the refreshment table, while the Misses Therese Friendly and Lou Renshaw served.

Miss Myra Lovridge entertained a number of her friends in a delightful manner on Thursday evening. The guests were told to come as children, and this idea was carried out all evening, in the games, refreshments and the general diversions. Dolls, marbles, Roosevelt bears and tops were very much in evidence.

The open house kept by the Thimble Club at the residence of Mrs. Robert McMurphy on New Year's was a very enjoyable affair. The house was artistically adorned with an abundance of green, the dining room in holly being especially attractive. In the receiving line were Mrs. Robert Pratt, Mrs. Frank Page and Mrs. McMurphy. Dainty refreshments were served by the club members, assisted by the Misses Winnifred Cokerline, Vernita Henderson, Ruby Pratt, Luellie Yorlan and Katie Henderson.

On Friday evening the Christian Endeavor society of the First Presbyterian church held its monthly business and social meeting at the home of Miss Belle Van Duyn.

Miss Grace Edmondson entertained on Wednesday afternoon in honor of Miss Alicia McElroy. Her girl friends greatly enjoyed the afternoon with Miss McElroy.

The Eulalo Whist Club met with Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMurphy on Monday evening. The club consists of twelve members, all married people. Whist was played for two hours, after which the hostess served delicious refreshments.

The members of the Christian church tendered a surprise party to their pastor, Rev. J. S. McCallum, at his home on Wednesday evening. The affair was in honor of his forty-eighth birthday, and during the evening he was presented with some beautiful books and a chair by his appreciative parishioners.

A very pleasant lodge social was given by the Lincoln Annuity Union Saturday night in Phrank's hall. The hall was very tastefully decorated in mistletoe and colors of the order. In the south-west corner of the room hung a large picture of Abraham Lincoln surrounded by mistletoe and red colors. Beneath them was a tastefully decorated table from which punch and cookies were served by the Misses Edwina Prosser, Grace Starr and Nellie Lombard. About 20 members of the Springfield lodge were present and the hall was crowded with members of the order and their guests.

A splendid program was rendered, after which the time was spent at finish and other games. Mr. S. E. Stevens secured the prize for sending the best telegram taken from the word Lincoln.

Golden Wedding.
On Monday evening, Dec. 31, Mr. and Mrs. John Carman celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at the home of their son-in-law, J. N. B. Fuller, at 194 E. Eleventh street. Many friends assembled to honor and assist in keeping the memorable occasion. The reception was held in a large and spacious dining room, which was elaborately decorated in gold and white streamers, while every nook and corner was filled with cut flowers, holly, Oregon grape, mistletoe and shamrock. The dining room table was decorated with a beautiful centerpiece bearing the date of marriage and 1906 in gold figures, with a large bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums at either end of the table. Covers were laid for fifty, and a four-course dinner served.

During the evening, Rev. D. H. Trimble, with a few well-chosen words, presented the aged couple each a gold-handled umbrella, and to Mr. Carman a gold-headed cane from friends. Many elegant and useful presents were received.

Mrs. J. B. Hopkins, a sister of the bride, had written for the occasion a short story of the married life of the bride and groom, and it was read by Mrs. Frank Potter, her daughter.

Fifty years ago tonight I witnessed the ceremony that made Mary Lynde and John Carman man and wife. The bride, a mirthful and serious girl, with waves of hair as black as they are now white, with eyes more sparkling, even, than they are tonight, dressed in a simple gown of white, made a pleasing contrast to the blue-eyed Englishman who was claiming his own.

They began life with a large capital, not in dollars and cents, but of honesty, unselfishness and courage, content with small things, while striving for greater. Their honeymoon was spent in New York, cultivating the little soil they might find among the many rocks, a slow method for restless ability. They started west, settling in Missouri. There they laid under the prairie violets that declare a resurrection, their first born little girl and a twin brother of Mrs. Fuller. With their one baby girl, they crossed the tiresome plains to Colorado, helping to civilize and Christianize that new land. By intelligent effort and with a worthy purpose, they built a new and good home, not refusing the prosperity that came with the Colorado gold. It was a satisfying privilege to use their rapidly increasing means in helping the less fortunate and welcome the stranger among them. Another shadow came to them in this good land, for Pike's Peak stands as a monument to their last little son. Thus the years were spent in Colorado, and they met the joys and sorrows bravely and unselfishly.

Hoping to benefit the health of their two little girls, they moved again, this time to Kansas, where they entered into that peculiar Kansas spirit of accomplishing an end at any cost. They found both health and success. The girls grew to womanhood, married and left them as they began--alone.

Finding Oregon with a grandson better than Kansas without, they live among us, demonstrating the joy of life in a cottage, and proving that years of activity are not limited to three score and ten.

They recently made a pleasure trip, visiting their daughter, Mrs. Martin, in California, whose presence tonight is much desired. May they live long, loving and being loved, until the Pearly Gates shall open wide, giving them an abundant entrance. The invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Porter, Halsey; Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Millet, Junction; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Heckart, Mr. and Mrs. E. Schwarzschild, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Kerns, Rev. and Mrs. Bartle, Judge and Mrs. J. J. Walton, Rev. and Mrs. O. C. Wright, Dr. and Mrs. W. O. Prosser, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Frank, Rev. and Mrs. D. H. Trimble, Dwight B. Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Chrisman, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Calkins, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Cokerline, Prof. and Mrs. John Straub, Mr. and Mrs. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, Irving; Dr. L. W. Brown, Misses Cook, Neal, Prosser, Kerns, Schwarzschild.

Society at Junction.
One of the most enjoyable events of the holidays was a watch party given by Miss Nellie Polson at her home Monday evening. Several novelties were prepared for the guests and suitable prizes awarded. Especially interesting and laughable were the resolutions which each one of those present were compelled to make. A dainty lunch was served while appropriate toasts were given. The new year was greeted by songs and hearty handshakes, after which the guests departed, wishing Miss Nellie and the "Colonel" a very happy New Year and hoping to come again.

H. C. Bushnell, assisted by his wife, entertained class No. 2 of the Christian Sunday school at their home, New Year's eve. The evening's entertainment consisted of card games, music and singing until a late hour, when delicious refreshments were served, then early in 1907 the young folks bade their host and hostess a happy New Year, and departed to their various homes, having spent a very pleasant evening watching the old year out and the new year in.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Johnston entertained quite a number of young folks Saturday evening in honor of their daughter Mae. Music and card playing were the features of the evening, until midnight, when refreshments were served, after which the young people dispersed to their homes each having enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

The Ideal Family Laxative is one that can be used by the entire family, young and old, weak and strong, without any danger of harmful effects. It should have properties which insure the same dose, always having the same effect, otherwise the quantity will have to be increased and finally lose its effect altogether. These properties can be found in that old family remedy, Brandreth's Pills, because its ingredients are of the purest herbal extracts, and every pill is kept for three years before being sold, which allows them to mellow. We do not believe there is a laxative on the market that is so carefully made. Brandreth's Pills are the same fine laxative tonic pill your grandparents used. They have been in use for over a century, and are sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar-coated.
