UNIVERSITY SUPPORT

Those persons who profess to believe that the University of Oregon is getting too much money when the legislature appropriates $125,000 a year for maintenance, new buildings, additional grounds and all other purposes should study the figures given in the report of Victor Henderson, secretary of the University of California. Down there the amounts run into the millions, instead of thousands, and the interesting fact is shown that the university loses more by shrinking of income because of the earthquake disaster annually than the so-called excessive (?) appropriation of Oregon amounts to—and still has many times as much left. Secretary Henderson's report says:

"One hundred and fifty millions of taxable valuation were swept away from the assessment roll of San Francisco alone, reducing the customary income $30,000. Another $58,400 was wiped out by stock depreciation. Impairment of capital resulted through the burning of buildings in San Francisco, to which the university was heir from Charles Franklin Doe. Income from the Johnson and Sacramento buildings shrunk to the amount of $80,892.12, in addition to the decreased valuation of the land. The reduction of income may be roughly estimated for the next two years at $100,000 a year; the impairment of income-producing resources at $750,000. Sundry losses in campus buildings amounted to $35,569.

The gross receipts for the year, including gifts and fees and endowments, were $1,094,787.64. The year's outlay was $1,166,664.87. There were 2519 undergraduates, 351 graduate students, 73 medical, 195 in the Mark Hopkins Institute of Art, 76 in law, 74 in dental department, 81 in pharmacy, making a total of 3369. Those registered in short courses brought the number to 3925, without counting those who attended lectures. The lands and buildings of the university are valued at $3,908,299.16."

This official report shows that, in spite of impairments the university's income amounted to $1,100,000 in round figures—and the report goes on to say that operations have been seriously hampered during the year by lack of funds. And yet there are those in Oregon who contend that an income of $47,500 a year is sufficient to build up in Oregon a creditable state institution that will take rank with the universities of states where a more liberal policy has been followed, and where there are buildings and equipment that have cost millions of dollars.

It will be difficult to convince an intelligent and unprejudiced public that the continuance of our prosperity depends upon a continuance of such stock-watering deals as Harrison confessed to having put through.

There is no limit to that man's optimism and industry. The president has promised to help bring about a revival of religious interest in New York City.

In saying "the people make presidents," former Congressman Martin of South Dakota, made an assertion that would be hard to prove by competent witnesses. The people merely O. K. or veto the candidate presented by the professional president-makers. At least, that has been all they have been able to do in the past.

"When railroads and industrial corporations run their business to earn dividends for their stockholders, and not to assist speculative manipulators of their securities, they'll have nothing to fear from Wall street smashes.

While European scientists are saying that the alleged discovery of a method of weighing a soul is a fake, preparations are being made at the Ohio penitentiary to test the method on a murderer soon to be executed.

Faith is one of the greatest things on earth, but it had an awful fall in the case of a Chicago cripple, who believed that she could walk and tumbled down a flight of stairs when she tried.

Speaking of credulity, that of the Zionites who are expectantly waiting for the resurrection of Dowle gives a tip not likely to be neglected by wideawake gold brickers.

Should the two tubs composing the navy of Honduras meet the two bows composing the navy of Nicaragua somebody may have to wade ashore.

And then again, the lords of high finance may be making a noise like a panic to head off sentiment for corporation regulation.

The Steeles seem to be strictly in it at last, one of them being state treasurer, and another bank examiner.

Southward the star of divorce has taken its nauseating way. Atlanta is now to have a sensational divorce trial in high life.

The class of railroad presidents is now "cramming" for a Roosevelt examination.

ANOTHER SAWMILL ON THE MOHAWK

(Special Correspondence.) Marcola, March 21.—Mr. Spencer, of Linn county, is clearing off the ground near Marcola upon which to erect a sawmill to saw up the timber purchased of Mr. Cole.

The S. P. mill No. 3 will start as soon as the knees for the carriage arrive. A new donkey engine for S. P. camp No. 2 arrived last week.

They are working on the dam at S. P. mill No. 2, as it was not properly built.

CURED LUMBAGO.

A. B. Canman, Chicago, writes March 4, 1903: "Having been troubled with Lumbago, at different times and tried one physician after another, then different ointments and liniments, gave it no abatement. So I tried once more, and got a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment, which gave me almost instant relief. I can cheerfully recommend it, and will add my name to your list of sufferers."

Portland Market Report.

Portland, Or., March 21.—Several Front street fruit houses are indignant over the treatment accorded them by the Southern Pacific claims agent yesterday.

A car of bananas billed to Tacoma was found to be chilled upon its arrival here. The car came along with the regular weekly shipment from the South to this market, and when the representatives of the Tacoma firm discovered the condition of the fruit he declined to accept the car.

As is customary in cases like this, the claims agent communicated with the jobbers in an effort to dispose of the fruit to the best advantage. A member of one of the firms communicated with conferred with his neighbors and all agreed that it would be better to take the fruit and place it in their ripening rooms rather than have it doled out by hucksters.

Banana dealers say there is a small margin of profit at best in handling the fruit, and if the hucksters get their supplies at the same prices the jobbers can buy for the retail price is lowered and the wholesalers suffer in consequence.

A bid for the car of chilled fruit was asked and made and the representative of the "club" sent to the railway freight office to close the matter. Upon his arrival he was informed that the hucksters had bid 5 cents a bunch higher than the jobbers' offer. The fruit men then agreed to take the lot at 5 cents a bunch more than had been mentioned in the first place, and were then informed the price had gone up another 5 cents. The fruit men then abandoned the deal and the lot went to the hucksters.

One of the dealers in discussing the matter this morning said: "The Southern Pacific people appear to forget that Front street pays thousands of dollars monthly in freight charges where hucksters pay nothing. Just why the railroad wants to jump in and compete with us is a mystery."

Cheese in Strong Position.

Cheese stocks are running low, and, in fact, Young Americas are about out. Tillamook has been bare for some time and will have no shipping stocks for about a month, except in a small way.

Prices here were recently advanced to 15 1/2@16c for flats, and dealers say they may advance another half cent before new stocks are available. The quotation is now from 1/2 to 1 cent higher than at this time last year.

Outlook in Sugar.

Just previous to the last advance in sugar there were withdrawals of some brands from the market. As a pointer of the immediate future two brands, Alameda beet and C. & H. Star, are regarded with serious attention by the trade. For some days past the Eastern markets have been steady, but as there is a wider difference than normal between the coasts, the Eastern tone adds rather than detracts from the probability of an advance here. This paper rarely makes predictions in markets, especially in sugars, for when wholesalers that give close attention to market conditions are usually at sea regarding fluctuations, it is not expected that information can be obtained from which to base accurate comments.

Salt was recently advanced 5c on basic and 50c on Liverpool ton to $20.50. Stocks are falling off at San Francisco, and with higher freights a further advance would not come unexpectedly.

Heavy Day's Trade.

Yesterday was a record day in sales with one of the leading Front

PRESCRIPTION TO CLEAN THE BLOOD

Any one can easily mix the following prescription at home, which is said to be splendid because of its peculiar action on the kidneys, which are made to properly filter and strain from the blood the impurities and poisons.

Get the ingredients, which are all of vegetable extraction, and harmless, from any good pharmacy and mix them by shaking well in a bottle: Fluid extract dandelion, one-half ounce; compound kargon, one ounce; compound syrup sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. Drink plenty of good water, too.

Those who require a good blood cleanser and system tonic, whose kidneys are weak and clogged up, should prepare this mixture and take as directed for a few days and note results.

street houses, and, in fact, all reported a very heavy business in fruits, vegetables, and some lines of produce.

Oranges, bananas, lemons and apples were in heavy demand and had fallen off but little this morning. Prices are practically unchanged, though Southern Pacific freights were delayed today on account of a washout near Ashland. The trouble is reported overcome today, and usual receipts are expected today and tomorrow.

Green vegetables are cleaning up and some varieties are out, notably cabbage. Celery is in fair supply, as is rhubarb. There is some rhubarb coming in from Southern Oregon in a handful way.

Front Street Notes.

Potato dealers are showing more signs of life on account of a better tone in the San Francisco market. Eggs continue firm, and along the street 18@18 1/2 c are the quotations most generally named today.

Dressed meats, especially veals and hogs, were in too light receipt today and are very firm in quotations.

While poultry is not coming in very heavily, the active demand last week has been followed by a slow market today.

Livestock Market.

Light receipts were again noted at the local yards again this morning. Cattle were steady at the quoted price, best grades going to top, but poor stuff barely bringing the figures. Sheep and hogs are unchanged, with the market in good shape.

Portland Quotations.
