REFERENDUM MOVEMENT BY THE GRANGE

Linn County Grange Is Opposed to the University of Oregon Appropriation Committee Takes Decisive Action

The joint committee of the Linn county grange met yesterday afternoon in the county court house and after a discussion which continued the entire afternoon decided to take measures to invoke the referendum upon the $125,000 appropriation made by the last legislature toward the support of the University of Oregon, says the Albany Herald.

Action was taken to this end with the belief on the part of the Linn county grangers that the amount appropriated was in excess of the amount which should have been appropriated when the present rate of taxation in Oregon is considered. Other reasons for wishing to invoke the referendum upon the university appropriation were given, among which was that the school for higher education should not receive a larger proportionate appropriation than the amount which is given toward the maintenance of the public schools, which was stated now to be the case.

President P. L. Campbell, of the University of Oregon, was present at the meeting by invitation, as was also Senator M. A. Miller, of Lebanon. President Campbell spoke for two hours and over in defense of the appropriation for the university, and answered numerous questions put by the committee members. The meeting was presided over by Eugene Palmer, and C. H. Walker acted as secretary. Letters were first read from Hood River and other sections of the state from those in favor of the movement to invoke the referendum upon the appropriation, after which President Campbell spoke.

President Campbell gave a long list of facts and figures in connection with the work of the state school, and submitted a list of the estimated needs and expenses of the university for the coming two years. This budget of expenditures, he said, was submitted to the members of the last legislature, when the passage of the appropriation bill was being urged.

In the course of his remarks President Campbell stated that for the last two years the receipts of the university had been $80,000 a year, and the preceding two years $60,000 a year. To invoke the referendum he said would mean that the university revenue for running expenses would be cut down to $47,000 a year. According to President Campbell, since the university appropriation had been increased the enrollment of students had almost doubled. He said that there were now 340 students in the university, where three years ago there were only 160. This number, he said, did not include the students enrolled in the law, medicine or music departments. On the present basis of expenditure the speaker said that the university was spending $57,640 a year for teachers' salaries. He emphasized the fact that Oregon was paying less for the support of her university than any were paid too little at present, he were paid too little at present, he said, and it was impossible to secure instructors in a number of departments (the geological department being cited as an instance), because of the low wage scale for teachers.

President Campbell said the university needed more land for its work. "We now have 27 acres," he said, "while the University of Washington has 250 acres. If we had $25,000 we would be able to buy enough land adjacent to the university to satisfactorily accomplish what we desire."

After President Campbell had concluded his remarks he answered many queries put to him. "A number of the members of the grange present spoke."

George W. Wright, who was present, said that he was not inclined to favor the referendum on the university appropriation, that he had graduated at the university and believed in university work, but stated that the public schools should be encouraged to the 12th grade, the education of our youth to be compulsory at least to the 8th grade, and that all normal schools should be abolished and the state university and state agricultural college to be combined, the whole to be called the University of the State of Oregon, to be under one board of regents, and the school of each to be regulated so that certain departments of the university be taught at Eugene and certain departments at Corvallis, but neither course of study to conflict or be duplicated at either place, the same he declared being in the interest of public economy, and affording ample facilities for a higher education. In place of normal schools he favored one Oregon Teachers' College, to be in connection with the university at Eugene, or to be located at Portland—a central point.

W. W. Francis and C. H. Walker both gave short talks on the subject under discussion, and notwithstanding the arguments presented by President Campbell the committee finally decided to take steps to circulate the petition for the referendum. To this end C. H. Walker was appointed corresponding secretary in place of W. W. Francis, who stated that he would be unable to act. A finance committee was appointed to raise the necessary funds for carrying on the work. The committee is as follows: W. W. Francis, W. M. Powers, N. T. Slate, L. J. Parker, H. B. Springer, W. R. Ray, and G. D. Harris.

500 COMING

At the age of 30 your protection policy costs you about $16 annually, and no dividends will ever be declared after you pay in for 60 years (if rates are not increased). You will have paid in $960 and supposing death to occur then, your heirs would receive $1000—see?

But now see again. In 1847 James Cassidy took out a policy in the Mutual Life of New York for $1000; it was a life protection policy, but drew dividends. His annual premium was $22.40. Cost of protection being equal, deduct same ($16 from $22.40), leaving an investment over cost of protection of $6.40 annually. After the recent death of Mr. Cassidy his claim was paid as follows:

Original face of policy..... $1000
Dividend on investment..... 1555
Dividend drawn in cash by Cassidy..... 386
Total..... $2941

We are now giving the same results on 20, 25 and 30 year endowments by paying a little more each year and then draw the same in your own old age.

This ought to bring 500 young men to my office, Room 2, Savings Bank building, within the next 24 hours. No tax.

Mennen's Toilet Powder

Is the pattern powder for the imitations and substitutes gaily described as being "as good as Mennen's."

The utmost that any imitator can do is to counterfeit the external appearance of Mennen's product. The powder itself cannot be imitated because both the ingredients and the process of manufacture are the secret of the Mennen Company.

To prevent imitations of the Mennen package the Mennen Company has invented the "box that lox"—a box that cannot be refilled with an inferior powder to be sold as "Mennen's."

Buyers of Mennen's Borated Talcum Powder can always protect themselves from fraudulent substitutes and worthless imitations by insisting on Mennen's in "the box that lox."

Have you tried Mennen's Violet Borated Talcum Powder? Ladies partial to violet perfume will find Mennen's Violet Talcum Powder fragrant with the odor of fresh-plucked Parma violets. For sale everywhere for 25 cents. By mail, postpaid, on receipt of price. Sample free.
