THAW MURDER TRIAL.

The lunacy commission has declared Harry Thaw sane, and its decision marks another step in the progress of the most remarkable murder trial in the annals of our courts. While most persons have lost interest in the circumstances surrounding the tragedy, many are now watching the proceedings, merely curious to know how far such a farce may be carried in the courts of a great state. They read in the newspapers about medical experts of national reputation testifying one day that the defendant is sane and on the next asserting, under oath, with no new evidence to consider, that he is insane, simply because the counsel employing them has changed its plan of attack or defense; and naturally a majority of readers are disgusted to think that a high court would allow the prolongation of proceedings that savor only of the burlesque or mock trial, lacking all the essentials of fair and impartial but strict weighing of relevant evidence and application of the statutes thereto.

As a matter of fact, there is little thought wasted on the defendant, a gilded youth whose father's money has been his undoing, by the public, but for the girl, Evelyn, since her pathetic story was told, and her great sacrifice in revealing the secrets of her life to justify her husband's act, became an element in the trial, millions have hoped that young Thaw might be freed, perhaps to lead a better life, and thus in some manner reward an example of woman's devotion that has seldom been equaled. No woman could have been very bad at any time who possessed the qualities that Evelyn Thaw has shown since her husband became the executioner of her persecutor, and there must have been at least a latent element of manhood aroused in Harry Thaw when he nerved himself to do the act, wrong though it was in the sight of the law.

This case might have been tried in a few days, without all this expert testimony, but for the vast wealth of the defendant's family that the attorneys were anxious to divide, and the splendid opportunity it gave the spectacular Jerome to revel in the glare of newspaper notoriety.

TYPHOID MAGAZINE

New York physicians have a woman detained in a hospital who is a puzzle to the profession, being apparently a sort of typhoid magazine. Six years ago she was taken down with the disease and recovered. The woman has followed the occupation of a cook, and wherever she went to work some member of the family was stricken down with the disease. This became so noticeable that the physicians began to suspect there was something about the woman that spread the malady. An investigation disclosed the fact that the germs were in her system all the time, though she herself was immune. They have the woman under observation and are holding her, but they do not know what to do with her.

There is no law for holding such a human breeding farm of disease, and yet it would be dangerous to permit her to go out and seek work.

How the disease has been communicated by the woman is not apparent, but the doctors have no doubt she has communicated it in some 25 cases, and they feel she cannot be permitted to proceed with any such mission. Moreover, the case raises some highly interesting questions, and the scientific men desire to study it more closely to determine whether such conditions are likely to prevail with any other persons. The origin of typhoid outbreaks is often mysterious, but if the germs can be carried about by persons apparently well there need be no surprise about its appearance anywhere, suggests an exchange.

If the editor of the New York Press knows as much as he thinks he does many would-be candidates are wasting time and money. This editorial Solomon says the Republicans must choose between winning with Hughes or La Follette and losing with anybody else.

For the past twenty years, according to the census bureau, a divorce has been granted in the United States every three minutes, and the average is rapidly increasing. That ought to make courting couples sit up and take notice.

This country is not a victim of over-prosperity; the trouble all comes from over-speculative gambling and trust manipulation, which must be lessened, or there will be sure enough trouble all along the line.

That the newspapers controlled by F. F. Ryan should stand by Grover Cleveland is merely a case of cause and effect. Grover stands by Ryan and his big investments, notably the Equitable Assurance Company.

Naturally we hope that the Panama canal will be completed without the taint of graft, but it is entirely too early in the game to be as cocksure of it as some of those junketing congressmen profess to be.

If U'Ren, the great reformer, could get at the weather clerk and secure a referendum of his evident decision to prolong the rainy season all summer he would earn our everlasting gratitude.

Not even the Greeks bearing gifts were more deserving of being carefully watched than are the railroad gamblers who are shooting hot air about co-operating with the people.

In the spring the sap rises in everything living. When it settles at the top it makes a sap-head, and a sap-head is about the worst brand of fool known. Beware!

HERE AND NOW

Here, in the heart of the world;
Here, in the noise and din;
Here, where our spirits are hurled
To battle with sorrow and sin—
This is the place and the spot
For knowledge of infinite things;
This is the kingdom where Thought
Can conquer the process of kings.

Wait for no heavenly life.
Seek for no temple alone;
Here, in the midst of the strife,
Know what the sages have known.
See what the Perfect One saw—
God in the depth of each soul.
God as the light and the law,
God as beginning and goal.

Earth is one chamber of Heaven,
Death is no grander than birth;
Joy in the life that was given,
Strive for perfection on earth.
Here, in the turmoil and roar,
Show what it is to be calm,
Show how the spirit can soar
And bring back its healing and balm.

Stand not aloof nor apart,
Plunge in the thick of the fight.
There, in the street and the mart,
That is the place to do right.
Not in some cloister or cave,
Not in some kingdom above,
Here, on this side of the grave,
Here we should labor and love.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

NEW COMMANDANT CHOSEN FOR CORVALLIS

Captain Ulysses Grant McAlexander of the Thirteenth Infantry, regular army, is to become commandant and instructor of military science at the Oregon Agricultural College next fall, having been appointed by the war department. He is now official inspector of land grants for agricultural colleges and is just beginning his annual tour of inspection in that capacity, starting at New Orleans. He will inspect the O. A. C. cadets March 8, returning to Washington, D. C., and then return to Corvallis in time for the opening of the college in September.—Gazette.

LORANE ITEMS.

(Special Correspondence.)
Lorane, April 4.—McKernan & Fidler are sawing shingle timber and they expect soon to run their mill.
Messrs. Addison, Ward and Geo. Schneider went to Eugene on business last week.

The Odd Fellows seemed to be especially happy and busy last Saturday getting ready to make the occasion of M. B. Stone's initiation in the evening a pleasant one.

L. E. Willard has sold his farm to Geo. Schneider, but has not yet decided on a future location for himself and family. They will be greatly missed in our neighborhood and the kind wishes of many friends will follow them.

Uncle Joe Landrith was taken sick last Thursday evening and died Monday, April 1, at 4:30 p. m. The funeral was held from the M. E. church Rev. Buche officiating. He crossed the plains with his parents from Missouri, was 63 years of age and leaves a wife and daughter and many friends to mourn his loss. He was buried in the Odd Fellows cemetery.
Roy Foster has gone back to Eastern Oregon.

Our minister, Rev. Buche, having to fill an appointment on Silk creek last Sunday, the Sunday school and Epworth League joined in a pleasing Easter service.

The surprise promised by the Ladies' Aid was greatly appreciated, they having cleaned the church, carpeted the rostrum and brightened the pulpit and organ with a coat of varnish. The committee on decorations had added to this the artistic arrangement of beautiful flowers and the effect was charming.

Mrs. Atkinson went to Eugene yesterday to help care for her granddaughter, Miss Hildred Inman, who is seriously ill there. The sympathy of anxious hearts went with her, for Hildred's former home was here and she was greatly beloved.

PLEASANT HILL ITEMS

(Special Correspondence.)
Pleasant Hill, April 4.—Farmers in this part of the country are anxious for some pretty weather, so they can finish sowing grain.

Elder E. J. Emmons preached to a large audience last Sunday.

The Sunday school has elected officers for the ensuing term as follows: Superintendent, W. L. Wheeler; assistant superintendent, Mrs. Wiltse; secretary and treasurer, Eddie Baxter; assistant secretary and treasurer, Lora Furrow; organist, Lora Wheeler; chorister, W. L. Wheeler.

P. N. Shelley purchased a two-year-old colt from V. S. Bond, price, $75.

Quite a number are on the sick list. Professor Inlow took Easter dinner with Elder Wiltse.

JUST BECAUSE

Your cough is only in the throat and does not trouble you now, don't think that it needs no attention. When it has not had much of a start is the time to check it. The slightest cough easily leads to pneumonia, bronchitis and consumption. A bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will cure that cough. The price puts it within reach of all. For sale by Linn Drug Co.

HARRISBURG NEWS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Miss Lizzie Arnsperger was in Eugene the latter part of the week on a visit with relatives.

The Harrisburg flouring mill is again shut down on account of the lack of shipping facilities.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Howard were down from Springfield Sunday last on a short visit to relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Bucknum, of Coburg, were here Sunday last, looking after some business matters needing their attention and visiting relatives.

Mrs. F. Long, of Eugene, came down Friday last, and has been visiting relatives here since, and assisting in the care of her brother, Roy Willoughby.

Mrs. L. B. Gibson and little son went to Springfield and Wendling the latter part of last week for a visit of several days' duration with relatives and friends.

Miss Fannie Colvin, of Eugene, was here the first of the week on a short visit with friends. She was one of the teachers in our public school last year, and her friends were glad to see her again.

U. S. Gleason, of Hubbard, was here Sunday last on a short business visit. While here he arranged to enter into partnership with R. C. Roberts in the jewelry business, and it is their intention to establish a store in Junction City in the near future. Mr. Roberts contemplates some very good improvements in the arrangement of his store, and we have no hesitancy in saying that the new firm will meet with splendid success.

Died.—At the home of his sister, Mrs. Geo. E. McCulloch, Monday, April 1, 1907, Roy Allen Willoughby, aged 29 years, 1 month and 16 days. Deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Willoughby, and was born on the farm near this place, and had lived in this locality all his life. He is survived by a wife and little son, besides his parents and brothers and sisters. He had been ill for more than a year, and during that time had been under the care of a physician. At times his condition seemed to be improved, but he would again take a backward, and each time grew weaker until the final end came. His death in the prime of life causes a deep wound in the hearts of those loved ones left behind which time alone can heal. None but those who have sat in the shadow of the great bereavement can justly weigh such sorrow as this. Those who have gone down into the valley of suffering and stood for months by the side of a loved one, as hope after hope dropped away as the petals fall from a fading flower, know that such anguish cannot find solace in the tenderest words. The funeral services were held at the M. E. south church yesterday afternoon, conducted by Rev. D. E. Baker, and the remains were laid away in the I. O. O. F. cemetery, followed by a gathering of sorrowing relatives and friends.—Bulletin.

WHY

have a torpid liver when Herblene, the only liver regulator, will help you? There is no reason why you should suffer from dyspepsia, constipation, chills and fever or any liver complaints, when Herblene will cure you. F. C. Bitten by a Spider.

Through blood poisoning caused by the bite of a spider, John Washington, of Rosqueville, Texas, would have lost his leg, which became a mass of running sores, had he not been persuaded to try Bucklen's Arnica Salve. He writes: "The first application relieved and four boxes healed all the sores." Heals every sore. 25c at W. L. DeLano's drug store.
