

We Are Going to Move

More Ranges out of our store this year than ever before. People are getting so interested in "THE MONARCH," the World's Best Range, they can't help coming in and looking at it before they buy, and when they once see it there is no danger of their buying any other kind of Range. FOR YOUR BENEFIT and those in doubt about the Monarch Range receiving the highest award at the Lewis & Clark Centennial Exposition, we reproduce the following letter which we ask you to read carefully:

What Your Friends and Neighbors Have to Say About the

Monarch
The "Stay Satisfactory"

Springfield, Or., Jan. 18, '06.

Mr. J. W. Kays—
I like the Monarch Range fine. It gives perfect satisfaction and burns the last wood of any stove I ever used. I don't see how I got along with an old cook stove for so many years.

Yours very truly,
MRS. J. D. DORAN.

Several Other Ranges

were awarded gold medals for various improvements, but The Monarch received two. There was no Grand Prize offered, but had there been, the Monarch would have received it, as is evidenced by this letter.

The first time the Monarch Range was ever on exhibition.

Eugene, Or., Jan. 23, '06.

Mr. Kays—
I have used the Monarch Range for over a year, and am very well pleased with it. It heats up quickly and gives perfect satisfaction in every way.

Respectfully,
MRS. ROMEO GILBERT.

J. W. Kays, Eugene, Or.

Dear Sir—In March, 1905, we bought one of the Monarch Ranges for which you are agent, and can say it is an excellent Range. We like it much better than any we've ever used. Hoping you will have good success this year, we are

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your letter of thanks and appreciation in receiving the gold medal, (highest award) on Monarch Malleson Ranges.

It may please you to know, we the jury, awarded the gold medal on first ballot and had there been any higher prize offered, the Monarch Range would certainly have received it.

We found the Monarch the best finished and best constructed Range with more special features than any other Range on exhibition.

Mr. J. W. Kays,
Eugene, Oregon.

I like the Monarch Range real well for the short time I have used it. It seems to do good work with poor wood. I have not a fault to find with the Monarch.

Wishing you success, I am,
Respectfully,
MRS. T. H. WILLIAM.

Gentlemen—In regard to the Monarch Range we bought of you last July, has proved to be as you recommended it so far. It will burn any kind of wood we have tried, including green willow and alder, and does not burn any more wood than a small cook stove. Its baking and cooking qualities cannot be excelled by any stove in the world. With the duplex draft the temperature can be raised or lowered in less than one minute's time.

MR. and MRS. J. J. WILKINSON.

J. W. Kays Furniture Co., Eugene, Or.
Dear Sirs—It is with pleasure I give my opinion of the Monarch Range. We purchased a Monarch last October a year ago, and ever since have used it with increasing satisfaction. It is a commodious and handsomely constructed, consumes less fuel for results obtained, than any other stove we ever used. It is a perfect baker. The over is absolutely impervious to ashes or dirt. The water-heating arrangement is one of the very best. We are enthusiastic admirers of the Monarch.

Sincerely Yours,
H. N. MOUNT.

Mr. Anderson Harlow, when asked how he liked the Monarch, said his wife was well pleased with it; that it was a good baker and took very little wood.

We Ask You to see the Range. You are to be the judge about the good qualities after using it for 30 days, which won't cost you a cent. If you like it at the end of 30 days, you give us the money and keep the Range.

We give $30.00 cash for any old Monarch, no matter how long used.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK

FROM a social standpoint the community is making hay while the sun does not shine, for well it knows that no one will be satisfied to attend tea or to play bridge when the rainy days come to stay. About the middle of the week cards were out for the reception to be given on the twenty-third of this month by Mrs. Mary A. Griffin and Mrs. Roscoe S. Bryson, in honor of Mrs. George Walter Griffin, a bride of this season. A bride is ever the center of interest, so the reception is being looked forward to with a deal of pleasure.

A goodly number of guests again enjoyed the hospitality of the Mesdames Chambers on Wednesday afternoon. The rooms appeared beautiful, decorated with an abundance of spring flowers. The guests first entered the drawing room, where Japanese roses formed the chief decoration; from here they were ushered into the library, where Miss Ruby Hendricks served punch, midst a shower of buttercups. Then the guests were invited to the dining room, where they enjoyed very dainty refreshments. The table looked beautiful, with a centre piece of deep red carnations, while the room was lighted by soft, mellow candlelight. Mrs. David Linn and Mrs. W. L. Cheshire poured, while Miss Maude Kerns, Miss Ermine Church and Miss Lita Dunbar served. The next room to be visited was the parlor, adorned in bridal-wreath, and here the guests took leave of their hostesses, after having spent a very delightful afternoon.

On last Tuesday evening Miss Judie Newman was taken by surprise at her home on South Willamette street, by a number of her girl friends. The occasion was a very elaborate supper, served at 6 o'clock, in honor of her birthday.

Mrs. J. M. Williams was given a surprise house warming on Monday afternoon by several of her friends. At 6 o'clock the ladies were joined by their husbands, and all adjourned to the basement room of the Presbyterian church, where the K division of the Ladies Aid society served them with a very delicious supper.

Mrs. Jerry Horn and daughter, Miss Lela, of Portland, have been frequently entertained while visiting here last week. The Thimble club, of which Mrs. Horn was a member when living here, entertained for her on Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Bessie Day. Mrs. Jessup, of Salem, was a guest of the club. The ladies devoted the afternoon to fancy work, but towards evening they bused themselves in preparing a delicious supper, to which the husbands of the members were invited.

A number of young ladies who have formed themselves into a sewing club, had planned a picnic, but as the weather was not propitious for a rustic picnic, it was held at the home of Miss Ruby Hendricks. The afternoon was spent with music and sewing, and later a picnic luncheon was spread. Those present were: Mrs. W. J. Huddle, the Misses Elma Hendricks, Mollie Auten, Grace Parker, Ethel Williams, Ruby Hendricks, Amy Dunn and Miss Dilley, of Stanford University.

The recital given at the Ellers Piano House on Tuesday evening by the advanced pupils of Mrs. Rose Hollenbeck, was a musical treat. Miss Lela Horn gave a reading which was greatly appreciated, and, in fact, the whole program was enjoyed by all present.

The association of the Eugene barbers are planning a social evening for May 1st.

Mrs. Charles Hardy was hostess to the Wednesday Afternoon Bridge club this week.

On last Saturday evening Miss Camille Carroll entertained with a luncheon for the freshman and sophomore members of her sorority, Beta Epsilon. Miss Carroll has already proven herself a charming hostess and her luncheons are very popular. The guests were the Misses Winnifred Cockerline, Adele Giff, Katherine Fullerton, Sue Hayes, Adah Allen, Irene Simington, Rachel Vogel, Eva Allen, Frances Obertoufer and Edith Johnson.

The Thursday Afternoon club met this week with Mrs. L. T. Harris. Whist was played for several hours, after which Mrs. Harris served luncheon. Mrs. Titus was received into membership of the club.

Mrs. Lester L. Luckey on Friday evening entertained a number of little girls in honor of Miss Bessie Baker, who has been staying with her for some time past. A delightful evening was spent at various games and refreshments were served. Gracie Bingham won the prize in the guessing contest. Those present were: Helene DeLano, Bessie Henderson, Gracie Bingham, Leone Griffin and their teachers, Misses Kinsey and Zeigler.

Wednesday afternoon a number of Catholic ladies met at the home of Mrs. Norbert Aya, at the corner of West Sixth and Madison streets, and organized a sewing circle. A delightful afternoon was spent at sewing and fancy work and refreshments were served. Mrs. Helzman assisted Mrs. Aya in entertaining. It is planned to meet at regular intervals at the homes of the several members of the society.

Mrs. Louis Aya was given a pleasant surprise last night when a number of her relatives and friends walked in on her unawares at her residence on West Eighth street and spent a very pleasant evening with her. Various amusements were indulged in.

GEO. A. DORRIS SHIPS ASPARAGUS TO PORTLAND
Former Eugene Politician and Lawyer Making a Success of Farming. Has 16 Acres of Asparagus.

Geo. A. Dorris, who withdrew from politics and the practice of law a few years ago and is devoting himself to the pursuits of agriculture and horticulture, has one of the best farms in Oregon on the north bank of the Willamette river about four miles east of Eugene and just above Springfield. He has the most productive hop field in Oregon, a fine orchard of various kinds of fruit, an English walnut orchard, and he has recently planted 16 acres in asparagus. He sends most of his asparagus to Portland, and sells it for 15 cents a pound. It is a finer quality than any we have seen in the grocery stores in Eugene this season. He brings $15 worth at a time in his buggy to Eugene and sends it to Portland. It is one of the most profitable crops raised in Oregon, and there is an almost unlimited demand for it at good prices. From his hops, fruit, nuts and asparagus Mr. Dorris will soon have a large income, much larger than any lawyer in this part of Oregon. —State Journal.

THE STAGE

The story of "A Gilded Fool," which Nat C. Goodwin will present on the occasion of his first visit to Eugene next Monday night, deals with a young New Yorker named Chauncey Short, who has suddenly become possessed by inheritance of an immense fortune. He meets a Miss Margaret Ruthven, daughter of the senior partner of the stock bro-at the chance. The firm then becomes Ruthven, Strange & Co., Short being the "Co.," and advancing large sums of money. Strange proceeds to wreck the firm, but not before Short discovers his dishonesty, and by cleverly manipulating the stock market—that is, buying up a certain railway stock while Strange was selling it—he saves his own fortune. In the end

kerage firm of Ruthven & Co., and falls in love with her. She receives his attentions coldly because she declares him to be an idler, without ambition or business activity. To win her good graces Short decides to go into business. It appears that the "Co." of Ruthven & Co. is one Bannister Strange, formerly of England, and with a record for integrity not above reproach. He suggests to Short that he might be taken into the firm, which is at the time in straitened circumstances, and Short jumps of course he wins the girl he loves. Through the play there figures a Rev. Mr. Howell, who is ostensibly soliciting contributions for missionary work, but who in reality is a detective from Scotland Yard, on the trail of Bannister Strange, and who finally gets his man.

Mr. Goodwin's leading lady this season is Miss Edna Goodrich, who is said to be not only an extremely clever actress, but a young woman of extraordinary beauty. She has been called the most beautiful young actrix on the American stage. Others in Mr. Goodwin's company are William Beach, Neil O'Brien, O. G. Lonsdale, Gordon Johnstone, Norman Thorpe, Carey Livingston, H. B. Snyder, and the Misses Nellie Mortyne, Alice Wilson, Suzette Jackson, Rose Snyder and Evelyn Walls.

At the Eugene theatre Wednesday night Raymond Hitchcock will be seen in a new comic opera in three acts, "A Yankee Tourist," produced under the direction of Henry W. Savage. For two years Mr. Hitchcock has been appearing in straight comedies and farces, but there has been an insistent request for him to return to the musical stage, hence this step has been taken. "A Yankee Tourist" is founded on the farce by Richard Harding Davis, "The Galloper," into which two songs were first introduced and the interpolations proving so popular Mr. Savage decided to make a comic opera of the book, and to accomplish this he called to his aid Wallace Irwin, one of the foremost lyricists of this country, and Alfred G. Robyn, whose musical compositions are known and highly appreciated the country over. These two gentlemen, in conjunction with Mr. Davis, have given to Mr. Hitchcock a vehicle in which his capabilities may be exploited with a safe assurance of success. Mr. Hitchcock is altogether different from the average comedian. He is the one man who has the power to amuse and interest without resorting to ordinary tactics and he is the one comic opera comedian who has made the entire country laugh and used no grotesque costumes nor facial mannerisms to aid him. On his own personality he has scored the most pronounced success and it is believed by his friends and admirers that in "A Yankee Tourist" he will score new and more positive triumphs. Mr. Hitchcock has two or three songs which have been written for him, and they should prove as lasting in public favor as others he has sung. In the cast with which he has been surrounded by Mr. Savage will be found Flora Zabelle, Helen Hale, Walter Lawrence, Susie Forrester, Catherine, Harry Stone, Herbert Cawthorne, Eva Fallon, Phillips Smalley and just such a chorus, sprightly and pretty, as might be expected to form a frame for any picture Mr. Hitchcock might be the centre of.

INSTANTLY KILLED IN A LOGGING CAMP

George Eisenhart, who has been logging in the woods near the Chambers Lumber Company's mill above Cottage Grove was struck by a log and instantly killed on Wednesday of this week. It appears that he was snaking a log down the hill, walking beside it driving the team, when the front end encountered an obstruction, swinging the rear end of the log suddenly up and around, striking George on the head and killing him instantly. Undertaker Marion Veal was "phoned for and went up and brought the body to this city yesterday and will ship it today to his home in Chico, California, for burial.—Leader.

STUDENTS WILL SURVEY FOR CITY PIPE LINE

During the April vacation next week three students, Walter Moore, William Barker and William Woods, under the direction of C. A. McClain, instructor, and Professor E. H. McAlister, head of the engineering department of the university, will run the levels 35 miles up the McKenzie river for the city of Eugene, in order to determine the fall which can be obtained and the most feasible route for a pipe line for a gravity system of water works. The work will probably take the whole week. The men donate their time, their expenses being paid by the city.

WHI NOT SURVEY CANAL

The plan to have crews of students survey the proposed canal between this place and the Long Tom has fallen through, at least until next fall. The students and engineering department desired to do the work, but arrangements could not be made in time.
