PRESIDENT KERR

ONCE POLYGAMIST IN SALT LAKE

That an attempt was made by interested persons or their agents to prevent the selection of William J. Kerr, former president of the Utah Agricultural College, as president of the Oregon Agricultural College, on the ground that he had once been a polygamist, has been developed by an investigation as to the truth of a story in recent circulation.

On learning of the rumor the Telegram wired its correspondent at Salt Lake City, receiving in reply the following dispatch:

"William J. Kerr, elected president of the Oregon Agricultural College, went into polygamy more than a score of years ago, but is regarded in Utah as one of the few men who obeyed literally the Woodruff manifesto of 1890. His plural wife is divorced, with a division of property. He was appointed president of the Utah Agricultural College to succeed J. M. Tanner, who was compelled to resign under federal pressure, because of polygamous living. Kerr is highly regarded as a man and as an educator in this state."—Portland Telegram.

AMUSEMENTS

"Salome," Oscar Wilde's beautiful tragedy, with Wilfred Rogers and a notable company, will be the attraction at the Eugene theatre tonight.

This sensational play which so horrified New York and London, has proven the greatest dramatic event of the season in San Francisco. "Salome" ran for four consecutive weeks at the Colonial theatre in that city, and so successful was the production that the original company was placed on the road, and is now touring the principal cities of the United States, being greeted by large and appreciative audiences everywhere.

"Salome's" assumptions production in San Francisco brought to light a new tragedian upon the dramatic horizon, Mr. Wilfred Roger. Mr. Roger's wonderful impersonation of the character of King Herod won for him the title of America's new tragedian, and the public and press of San Francisco were unanimous in their praise for a more intellectual interpretation of the character of Herod's type was never given on this coast.

"Salome," the latest bid for public

ELIZABETH STUART AS SALOME

favor, will be seen to all its entirety, with not a single scene omitted from the kissing of the head of John the Baptist to Salome's dance of the Seven Veils, declared by critics as the most sensational dance performed on the stage today.

Shows may come and shows may go, but Murray and Mack, like the green bay tree, seem to flourish forever. They are the same old rollicking pair this year. While their piece is new and all the characters surrounding them are new creations, they themselves have retained their world-famous makeups. Mack will be seen as the short, fat Irishman, and Murray the tall individual, who is kept busy keeping his friend out of trouble. They will introduce many new specialties, and their stage director has created many new ensemble numbers for the company and chorus. All things considered, they think this is the best organization they have ever had. At Eugene theatre May 8.

BORN.

In this city, May 3, 1907, to Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Doods, a son, weight 8 1/2 pounds.

SILVER TEA

To another silver tea
We invite you all to come
On Wednesday next, the 5th of May,
At Mrs. Frank Page's home.

At number eight and twenty-two
On South High street 'twill be,
Mrs. Lilley welcomes you,
And Mrs. York you'll see.

Come ladies and gentlemen, one and all,
Your silver bring to swell the fund
We're sure that not in vain we call,
For our church's sake you will respond.

Clean up and paint with Phoenix paint.
