Mrs. Geo. S. Holmes, of South Carolina, president of the Monument Association, made a report of the work done and Representative John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, read a response that had been prepared by Mrs. Lizzie George Henderson, president-general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The monument to Jefferson Davis is the crowning feature of Richmond's great monument avenue. It is the combined work of E. V. Valentine and William C. Noland, of Richmond.

THREE LIVES LOST IN GOTHAM FIRE

Newark, N. J., June 3.—Three lives were lost and heavy damage done by fire this morning in the Newark Turnover hall on James street, and Joseph Hoenke, his wife and child were burned to death.

Hoenke was the janitor of the building and was sleeping in his apartments.

In Western Oregon there are 40 Seventh Day Adventist churches and 45 Sunday schools. The income of these churches during the past year was $12,500, a gain of more than $3000 over the previous year.

WORMS

"I had for years suffered from what medical men called dyspepsia and catarrh of the stomach. In August I purchased a box of Cascarets and was surprised to find that I had 'em'—yes—a bigging equipping me left me. I dug out a doctor's surgery when I showed him my liver, and in a short time the remainder about the same length of a paper worm that had been sapping my vitality for years. I have enjoyed the best of health ever since. I trust this testimonial will appeal to other sufferers." Chas. Blackstock, 129 University Place, West Philadelphia, Pa.

EUGENE TEAM VICTOR OVER THE DALLES

Stubling's Bunch of Ball Tossers

Lose to McCormick's Sunday by

Score of 7 to 5 - DeNeffe Strikes

Out 13 Men and Plays Like a Professional

Stubling's Columbias from The Dalles were again beaten by a Eugene team in a well-played game of ball yesterday afternoon. McCormick's risky colts were the lads that turned the trick this time and the score was 7 to 5. The Columbias started the run getting in the first chapter when two men pranced across the plate. These were the gifts of Umpire Jim Hartley, who did not call the first runner out for cutting third base by at least twelve feet on his way home. While Weed was protesting against the umpire's lack of vigilance the second man slipped home before any one saw him. After that inning the visitors were unable to find Fred DeNeffe's batters often enough to count for anything until the eighth, when they made three more runs, but the Colts were already so far ahead that no uneasiness was felt.

The feature of the game was DeNeffe's pitching. He fanned 13 opposing batters and played like a professional throughout. Marine, the slabster for the visitors, went up in the air in the seventh, and was substituted by Charley Tallafiero in the eighth. The crowd present was not what it should have been, the local management losing money on the game, the expenses being greater than the receipts. The score is as follows:

KEEN INTEREST IN PORTLAND MEETING

(Special Correspondence.)

Portland, Or., June 3.—Tremendous interest is being developed in the convention of the Oregon Development League June 21st and 22d, and large delegations are assured from all sections of the state as a result of the low rates of transportation. An advance meeting of the presidents and secretaries of the different organizations composing the league will be held in the convention room of the Portland Commercial Club (second floor, Sixth and Alder streets) Thursday night, June 20th, at 8 o'clock. The hope of the league officers relative to this meeting is that the active men of Oregon may be able to unite upon plans that will greatly add to the population of the state, and agree upon some scheme which will secure the co-operation of the entire population of the state in getting the full advantage of the colonist rates which begin September 1st and continue until October 31st.

The Portland rose show and fiesta is to be a great attraction, and it will certainly be of much benefit to visitors from all parts of the state of Oregon, as any movement that brings us nearer to nature's beautiful things does us good.

Dr. J. T. McCormac, president of the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce, spent two days last week in Portland, studying the advertising carried on by the league and the commercial bodies, and also to decide upon plans which will result in the greater advertising of the Coos Bay country.

Hon. John Barrett's address before the Portland Commercial Club on "Oregon's Growing Influence in National Affairs" was easily one of the very best development speeches ever delivered in Oregon.

The success of the Livestock Association is assured. Thursday morning at 10 o'clock there will be a meeting in the parlors of the Portland Commercial Club to solicit subscriptions for stock, and Portland owes the perfecting of the organization to the state at large, for every one realizes that the greatest success of the Lewis and Clark exposition was the livestock show; that the greatest advertisement Oregon received at the St. Louis exposition was the fact that "Loretta D." by drawing first prize, proved to the world that Oregon was the world's best dairy country, and now with the location of both Armour and Swift, Oregon and the Northwest should go forward in the development of livestock and supply the Orient and Alaska, the best markets in the world.

The tourist rates, at a little more than one fare for the round trip, and good for Oregon from all parts of the United States, went on sale Saturday in all the ticket offices throughout the country.

WORK ON STOREY-BRACHER SAWMILL

However, there will be quite an army of men at the mill, besides those employed in the logging camps.

A Sixty-Acre Site
The company has acquired sixty acres of land for the millsite, having purchased several small tracts adjoining the park tract. There is a lake on the land, and this, with some improvements, will be utilized as a log pond into which the logs from the cars will be dumped and drawn up to the mill from there. Workmen will at once begin clearing the land for the mill. The site is wooded and the trees will be cut down and converted into cordwood.

Establish Logging Camps
Logging camps will soon be established in the timber along the Mohawk, where the company has a large tract, enough timber to keep the mill in operation for years to come. The loggers will prepare the logs for the mill and pile them along the Wendling branch of the S. P., and when the mill is ready for operation next fall they will be loaded on cars and shipped here.

Live in Smith Residence.
Mr. Palmer took possession of the E. C. Smith residence in this city, which he has leased for $150 per month during the summer and fall, and his family will arrive from New York within the next ten days or two weeks and occupy the house. Mr. and Mrs. Smith left this morning for an outing in the mountains up the McKenzie, and will be away all summer. Mrs. Smith leaving in a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Robinson, of Hawaii, for an extended trip through the East.

POET WILL SEEK TOGA IN OREGON

Joachim Miller Will Come North to Run for Seat in United States Senate—Will Live in Lane County.

Oakland, Cal., June 1.—Joachim Miller intends soon to desert his home at Fruitvale and take up his residence in Oregon. The aged poet says his mining ventures have resulted so successfully that he has concluded to enter the political arena and his purpose in removing to Oregon is to establish residence there and make an effort to land in the United States senate.

Miller expects to leave for the north in a few days, when he will set industriously to work to build his political fences with the view of becoming a figure in national politics.

Miller will establish a residence on his mountain ranch on the Suislaw river, in Lane county.

Expensive Hobby of a Rothschild.

WHALE HEADED STORK.

ORDINARILY when an author publishes a book he expects to make something out of it. The Hon. Lionel Walter Rothschild of London and Tring Park, England, does not depend on literature for a living. Like some other members of the famous family of financiers, he has a hobby, and a rather expensive one at that. In the collection of rare animals and insects and in publications about them he has spent what to many would seem a very comfortable fortune. His zoological museum at Tring Park is perhaps the largest private museum of the kind in existence. He edits reports on the collections of this museum which cost him a great deal, but he is now engaged in the publication of a book about "Extinct Birds" which is a sort of literary and scientific luxury promise to beat the record. This work is said to have cost the author about $100,000, and only 300 copies of it will be issued. These will be printed in English and sold at $125 a copy. Thus, even if he sold all of the books at the price named, he would be a loser to the extent of over $80,000.

But $80,000 is nothing to the eldest son of Baron Rothschild. He spends about as much as that every year in keeping up his wonderful zoological gardens and museum. He has fitted out expeditions to go hunting in the tropics for rare animals, paying high prices where necessary to obtain them and buying out whole collections sometimes just to obtain one extraordinary specimen. His younger brother Charles, whose hobby is the collection of fleas, once commissioned some arctic whalers to obtain for him specimens of the fleas of arctic animals, and there was a story that Charles had offered a prize of $5,000 for a single example of the flea of the arctic fox. This was denied, but it was not denied that he had made special inducements to the arctic fishermen to find for him specimens of insects from the polar regions. Charles Rothschild has manifested strange devotion to his singular hobby. He says that every mammal and bird has a particular kind of flea and that some of them have several kinds, so that the flea affords him as diverse material for a collector than any living creature. He has fleas from every corner of the world, over 10,000 different varieties. It affords him as great delight to secure a new kind of flea as it does J. Pierpont Morgan to obtain a rare specimen of the work of an old master.

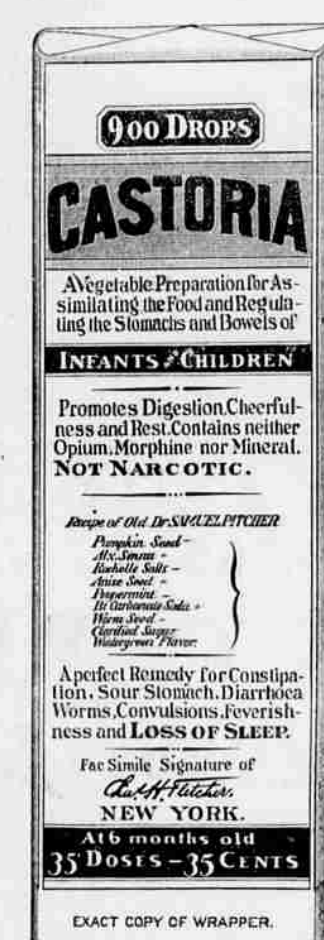

In the publication of the work on extinct birds great care has been taken to render it so far as possible imperishable. The most expensive paper is used, and the blocks for the color plates cost over a thousand pounds. Among the birds now extinct, or practically so, of which the book has illustrations are the great auk, the whale headed stork, the King Albert's bird of paradise from New Guinea, the Labrador duck and Mantelli's owl.

The Hon. Lionel Walter Rothschild, though thirty-eight years of age and though occupied with business cares and his duties as a member of parliament, has attained reputation as a scientist. The study of animals and insects and their collection are with him no mere hobby, and he has written several works on natural history which have been accepted as authorities in their field. He was one of the first Englishmen to employ the zebra for driving and farm purposes. He started the staid British public a few years ago by driving zebras four abreast through the streets of London. His collections embrace a wide variety of specimens belonging to the animal kingdom, living and dead, but perhaps he takes the greatest interest in birds. Among stuffed specimens of the latter in his museum at Tring Park is an example of the great auk, with two eggs, bird and eggs together being valued at about $1,700. Another rare and extinct bird in the museum is the grotesque white headed stork from the White Nile.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. P. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."

Dr. E. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Erague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merit."

Dr. Norman M. Coer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "During the last twelve years I have frequently recommended your Castoria as one of the best preparations of the kind, being safe in the hands of parents and very effective in relieving children's disorders, while the ease with which such a pleasant preparation can be administered is a great advantage."

STATE CLOSES IN IDAHO LAND CASES

Moscow, June 1.—After the introduction of some documentary evidence tending to prove, as the prosecution contended, the overt acts alleged in the indictment, the prosecution rested "its case in chief" this afternoon. Twelve days were consumed by the government in presenting its evidence. Two were consumed in the securing of a jury. The defense announced that it will not take more than three days for it to present its evidence. In that event the case should be in the hands of the jury before Saturday night.

INDUCED WOMAN TO SWEAR FALSELY

Moscow, Idaho, June 1.—Testimony tending to show that J. B. West, former register of the Lewiston land office, was bribed by the Lewiston National Bank officials to expedite the "putting through" of the land office entry men of the bank officials was the sensational statement made on the stand this morning by Mrs. May J. Harris, of Spokane, while testifying in the North Idaho land conspiracy case. She said that when she demurred to swearing falsely, in order to take up a timber claim, Clarence W. Robnet, bookkeeper at the bank, co-conspirator in the case at bar and convicted last fall of subornation of perjury, said to her in substance, "Oh, that's all right; all you have got to do is to keep still. Mr. West will put you through—we have got them paid for that."

The witness later declared that when she refused to take up a claim demanded of her by Robnet he said to her, "If you don't I'll make trouble for you I'll put you behind the bars."

GAYNOR-GREENE LOSE ON APPEAL

New Orleans, June 3.—The sentence of the lower court in the Greene-Gaynor case, involving over $500,000 because of a fraud in government contract work in Savannah harbor, was affirmed today in an opinion handed down by the United States circuit court of appeals. The sentence is four years' imprisonment each and fines aggregating $275,000.

There is a protest going up at La Grande because there is no pretense of making Gardiner, the convicted and sentenced brother of city councilmen, to serve his time in La. He is at large, although his sentence is not served, and has been ever since sentenced.

RECORDS SHATTERED BY QUAKER TEAM

Boston, June 1.—Five star athletes from the University of Pennsylvania won the intercollegiate championship in the Harvard stadium today in what proved to be a series of wonderful athletic performances. New intercollegiate figures were written in six of the thirteen events and one more record would have gone down, that of the high hurdles, had not the officials decided that the runners were too much favored by the wind.

Pennsylvania was given a splendid fight for first place by seven men from the University of Michigan, winning by only four points. The Pennsylvanians scored 33 to 29 for Michigan. Yale was third, with 23 points, and Cornell fourth with 15 points; Princeton had 10, Syracuse 8 and Harvard 7.

Intercollegiate records were broken in the mile, the shot put, quarter mile, two miles, high jump and pole vault. Garrison, of Michigan, ran the high hurdles in 15 1/2 seconds, but Kraenzlin's record of 15 3/4 seconds will remain the intercollegiate figure. Several of the other events were almost up to new marks; the 100 yards being run in 16 seconds and the half mile in 1:37 7/8.

Captain Garrels, of Michigan, led the field with 13 out of the 25 points for the Westerners. Garrels won both hurdle events from such fast men as Shaw of Dartmouth and Hubbard, of Amherst, and also showed his strength in the shot put by getting second place over Stephenson, of Harvard. Haskins, of Pennsylvania, won the mile and half mile and Cartmell, of Pennsylvania, won both the 400 and 800 yard races. Haskins' victory in the half mile run decided the meet for Pennsylvania.
