JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER'S PRESENCE IN COURT DRAWS BIG CROWD

STANDARD OIL MAGNATE SAYS HE KNOWS LITTLE ABOUT TRUST'S AFFAIRS

Chicago, June 6.—John D. Rockefeller's appearance in Judge Landis' court room today was the occasion of a great crowd of people in the court room and in the corridors of the court building, hundreds of people assembling to catch a glimpse of the Standard Oil magnate, and William Rockefeller and the other witnesses summoned to answer Judge Landis' questions regarding the financial and other affairs of the Standard Oil Co., of Indiana. The crowd was so intense and at times so insistent in its efforts to get into the court room that the police were obliged to almost use force to maintain reasonable quiet.

The Standard Oil case was called at 10:27 by Judge Landis, and after a brief statement of the facts in the case by District Attorney Sims, counsel for the defense announced that Rockefeller and the other witnesses summoned by the court were present and prepared to answer the questions asked by the court.

Fred A. Wann, former general freight agent of the Alton railroad, was the first witness. He testified that he had no personal recollection of being given instructions to route oil between Chicago and East St. Louis via Whiting, Indiana.

H. E. Felton, president of the Union Tank line, testified that his company paid three-quarters of a cent a mile on loaded and empty cars. Asked if he sure paid it on empties, he said that this was his recollection. He declared that a major part of the stock of the Union Tank line is owned by the Standard Oil Co., of New Jersey.

John D. Knows Little.

John D. Rockefeller was the next called. At the same moment the Standard Oil attorneys clustered around Judge Landis' desk and whispered conversation that stretched into minutes occurred. Finally an understanding was reached and the attorneys resumed their seats.

"John D. Rockefeller," again called Judge Landis, and the president of the Standard Oil Co. left his seat and walked slowly to the witness chair and was sworn.

In answer to questions, Rockefeller said he was president of the Standard Oil Co., but the position for the past eight or ten years had been purely nominal. He said the outstanding stock of the Standard Oil Co. is about $100,000,000, but he was unable to go into details regarding its business. As it had been a dozen years since he was actively related with its affairs and for ten years past had not even been to the office at all, Judge Landis asked if the Standard Oil of New Jersey is interested in the Standard Oil of—

Counsel Miller for the defense broke in with the customary objection, accompanying it with an extended statement attacking the real purpose of Judge Landis' questioning, and declaring the government has a "purpose" in this investigation.

Landis stated for the defense's information that the government has nothing to do with the inquiry; that is solely to enable the court to find out the wealth of this corporation.

Rockefeller could not say whether the Standard Oil owned or controlled other companies, though it might. He said the dividends of the New Jersey company were about 40 per cent in 1905, and that Archibald or Pratt were the officers of the company who could give the information

HARRY ORCHARD AND HIS GUARDS.

Harry Orchard, the state's chief witness in the Haywood murder trial at Boise, was closely guarded during the days when he testified. While he sat in the courtroom, he was surrounded by the guards who accompanied him on his trips to and from court. The picture shows Orchard and his escort arriving at the courthouse. Number one is E. L. Whitney, warden of Idaho penitentiary; number two, R. Barthel, Colorado mine owners' detective; number three, Harry Orchard; number four, Penitentiary Guard Ackley, and number five, Edward T. Hawley. A Pinkerton man also served on the escort.

WOMAN LAUGHED BUT RUNYAN IS BROKEN IN SPIRIT

New York, July 6.—Chester Runyan, paying teller of the Windsor Trust company, who is alleged to have stolen $95,317 from the company, and Mrs. Laura Carter, the woman who betrayed his hiding place to the police after he had given her part of the stolen funds were arraigned in police court today. Runyan's spirit appeared broken, but the woman was smiling as she went through the ordeal.

$42,000 of the company's stolen funds are still unaccounted for. Runyan had in his possession when arrested $14,410. Of the balance he said he had lost about $16,000 in speculation in stock; that he had given $15,000 to the Carter woman, and he believed she had taken $10,000 more without his knowledge.

Mrs. Carter admits she received $15,000 which she deposited in a bank and intends to keep it there if she can. She alleges she betrayed Runyan because she felt sorry for Mrs. Runyan.

Runyan was arraigned for grand larceny and the woman was charged with receiving stolen property. Both waived examination and were held for the grand jury. Runyan was held in $15,000 bail and the Carter woman in $10,000, which neither was able to furnish.

The woman tells many conflicting stories regarding her connection with the affair.

MOYER MAY TURN STATE'S EVIDENCE IN BOISE TRIAL

Special newspaper correspondents at Boise state that however strenuous the denials may be, it is a fact Moyer is still a problem with defending counsel. He may be called by the defense and he may prove a reliable witness. But Moyer has been an occasional cause of anxiety to defending counsel, and efforts have been made to persuade him to "come through" for the prosecution, and six weeks ago the people responsible for these efforts were almost confident of success. And the rumor current in Boise among bankers, business men and physicians that Moyer had finally decided to "come through" for the state was corroborated by the statement that the efforts to persuade Moyer to "come through" are still being made. And they are.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS IN BRIEF FORM

Barney Oldfield, the celebrated automobile racer, brooding over his troubles, growing out of the recent automobile races held at the Irvington track last Wednesday, who was arrested Thursday on a charge of fraud, attempted to commit suicide by leaping from the window of his room at the Hotel Portland at 2 o'clock this morning, but was restrained by the intervention of his wife and Detective Joseph Reising.

Two ten-story additions, costing $500,000, will be made at once to the Hotel Oregon at Portland, making it the largest hotel on the Northwest coast.

FRENCH BATTLESHIP SUNK AT SLIP

Toulon, France, July 6.—The battleship Hoche was sunk at the slip to prevent a fire which had broken out from reaching her magazines. This is the third conflagration on board the ship at Toulon within a month, and the cause is unascertained. A rigid inquiry is being made.

CHERRY CROP MUCH GREATER THIS YEAR

ALLEN CANNERY HAS ALREADY CANNED FIFTY PER CENT MORE THAN LAST YEAR.

Prospects Good For Doubling Output

—Cherries For Cocktails Are Being Preserved in Barrels For Shipment—Raspberry Crop Is Coming In—They, too, Are Plentiful.

Royal Anne cherries are still coming in at the Allen cannery at a lively rate and the season will not end much before the close of next week. Manager W. G. Allen says the crop is much greater this year than last, already the cannery having put up fifty per cent more than during the entire season a year ago. Last year the output of the cannery was 100 tons and the prospects are good for 200 tons or at least 175 tons before the season ends. The cherries are also of an excellent quality, big and also of excellent flavor.

The cannery is now putting up 350 cases a day and employing 75 or 80 persons steadily. Most of these are women and girls, although there are a dozen or more men to do the heavy work. In the store room of the cannery there are on hand 5000 cases of quart cans, 120,000 in all. These will all be filled before the season is over. There have been several times that many already filled, making the output this year much the greatest in the history of the cannery.

Cherries For Cocktails.
The work of picking cherries with the stems on and putting them up in barrels for shipment to the eastern cities, where they will be sold to be used in cocktails, has commenced, a carload of them having been shipped already. There is a great demand for the Oregon Royal Annes for cocktail uses and they always bring a very fancy price.

Working on Raspberries.
The raspberry crop is coming in rapidly, in fact more so than is desired, as the capacity of the cannery is not large enough to handle them properly until the run on cherries is finished. The berry crop, too, is very large this year and there will also probably be a record run on them.

A new postal law requires a one cent stamp on every paper sent out by a newspaper to any Canada points. Heretofore under an international agreement newspapers have been sent at the regular pound rates. This means that it will cost subscribers in Canada 52 cents a year more for weekly papers and $3.13 more for dailies.
