DROWNED TRYING

TO SAVE SON

Long Beach, Wash., Aug. 6.—Dr. James M. Smith, an osteopath physician, residing at 288 1-2 Washington street, Portland, was drowned in the surf at Long Beach, Wash., about 11 o'clock this morning, and two others had narrow escapes from losing their lives at the same time.
Dr. Smith and his son Leslie, a boy 13 years of age, were in bathing when the boy got beyond his depth in a crabhole that is about 100 feet in width between the beach and a sand bar that makes out into the ocean. Dr. Smith went to the assistance of his son, and grabbed him by the arm, but the strong undertow tore them apart. The lad managed to reach the sand bar, but the father was left struggling in the water, and efforts to rescue him were fruitless.

Mr. Carl Pitcher, of Star, purchased a handsome Kimball organ last week of the
