NEWSPAPERS MUST STRIKE HAPPY MEDIUM

A man, who, by the way, is a close and consistent reader of all of the newspapers that he can get an opportunity to peruse, and whose knowledge in regard to general questions and issues of the day is remarkably good for that reason, was heard to complain that the newspapers gave too much space to San Francisco, to the trial at Boise, to the war rumors and to the thousand and one other subjects that make up the news of the day. He thinks that if just about half of the space was devoted to boosting for their communities the newspapers would be the real help. Now there's a lot of truth in what he says.

Discussing a similar point of view a California exchange states that it is probable that such a man would be the first one to criticize the home papers if they took that stand, and he would probably be the first one to make invidious comparisons between the home papers and those from other cities. The issues in the graft cases are teaching great lessons to the people of the country in their settlement. The trial at Boise may be preliminary to the awakening of the people to the fact that the industrial troubles must be settled by the government and the people, and not by the parties to the troubles in a conflict which sets aside and ignores law. The governmental questions are important to people who are desirous of being good citizens.

It is possible that sometimes a little too much is published to suit certain persons on certain subjects; in other cases possibly not enough is published to satisfy them. Wise is the editor who strikes a happy medium. Each one must work according to his own lights.

But when the person referred to suggests the giving of more space to the "boosting" of this section he should consider what the people themselves are doing. Certain men have formed associations and are advertising the county. The press is doing its part. Every news item brims with advertising of the resources and opportunities. Editorial comment has been made at the risk of repetition and attracting the accusation of playing a fad. But still there are some people who think the members of the promotion and publicity committees and the newspapers should do all the work. What are these critics doing themselves?

We hear a great deal about the value of the corn, wheat and cotton crops, but there are others, the fruit crop, for instance. Take the state of California alone, where the estimated value of the orange and lemon crop this year is placed at $30,000,000, according to the Los Angeles Times. So far this season 26,406 carloads of oranges and lemons have been marketed east of the Rocky Mountains. Of these 23,336 were oranges and 3,070 lemons. Based upon the capacity of the cars compared with last season's this would amount to over 28,000 carloads, for this season the cars have been packed tighter, each carrying more boxes than ever before. Approximately one-third received from Southern California fruit goes to the railroads for shipping charges at the rate of about $380 a car, or a total of about $10,000,000. The other $20,000,000 is divided between the growers and shippers and for charges of packing and material.

Don't overlook the fact that Eugene is bound to grow into a real city just as fast as men and money can make it one. The hundreds and thousands of dollars worth of public and private improvements now under way constitute the first step in that direction and there will be no cessation of building activity until the Greater Eugene is realized. Our resources and trade would justify a city here twice its present size, and we will reach that mark within three years.

Reduced to plain English the demands now being made by high financiers through that portion of the press under their control or susceptible to their influence is: Give us immunity for all past law-breaking and license to ignore laws whenever it is to our interest to do so, or we'll plunge the country into a financial and industrial panic. Meanwhile the administration stands pat on the slogan of the masses: "Lock up all convicted law-breakers."

The plumbers of Goldfield, Nevada, are striking because they can't get $9 for eight hours' work a day. This indicates that labor union tyranny is as unjust and unreasonable as capitalization tyranny when it possesses the power to enforce its demands.

Wives with the habit of throwing the "I am going back to mother" thing at their husbands would better take warning from the fate of the Cincinnati wife who was shot dead for trying it on. If you must do it, do it without talk.

King Edward is to receive a largest diamond known as a gift from the Transvaal colonial government. Once upon a time Eddy would quickly have turned it into coin, but he isn't the cut-up and spender that he used to be.

The storm-stricken people of the lower Willamette valley would do well to move down to Lane county, where they will be assured that the cyclone and thunder storm will never destroy their property or endanger their lives.

While the race of mowing machines to be pulled off at the Du Page (Ill.) county fair is ostensibly for charity, it may in reality be a training stunt—the harvester trust will need a lot of speed to beat out Uncle Sam.

Official announcement has been made that pufjanism has been eradicated on the island of Leyte, one of the Philippines, and accompanying it was a naive statement that only four pufjanies were now alive on the island.

Lawyer Guggenheimer, of "New York, went all the way to Paris to express the fear that the Roosevelt-busters were engaged in a little job of king-making. Better come home, Guggy, and help head 'em off.

Gee! The grub must have been something fierce at that West Virginia hotel, the proprietor of which bit off one of the steward's ears.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

The shades of night were falling fast When through the village streets there passed
A score of people, all who asked:
"What's the score?"

The night wore on, the curfew bell Began to toll its huddling knell,
Still up the street was heard a yell:
"What's the score?"

Far, far from home in other climes Amid the crash of war at times
'Tis said the soldiers' voices chime:
"What's the score?"

Perhaps in that far distant land, Where angels flit on every hand,
We'll hear them shout to beat the band:
"What's the score?"

ESSAY OF 250 WORDS

A schoolgirl was required to write an essay of 250 words about an automobile. She submitted the following: "My uncle bought an automobile. He was riding out in the country when he busted going up a long hill. I guess this is about 50 words. The other 200 are what my uncle said while he was walking back to town, but they are not fit for publication."

War With Japan Would Be a Crime.

By Admiral BARON YAMAMOTO of Japan.

It is now over fifty years since America first opened intercourse with Japan and introduced us to the nations of the west. We all know what we owe to the United States for the development of our industries and commerce and also for the education of a number of our countrymen. WE ALSO ESPECIALLY APPRECIATE THE SYMPATHY SHOWN US BY THE AMERICANS DURING THE LATE WAR.

Our interests, commercial and otherwise, are so INTIMATELY INTERWOVEN and the cordial relations between us of fifty years' standing are of so firm a nature that I can confidently affirm that THEY WILL NEVER BE DESTROYED by mere trifling incidents.

IT IS TRUE THAT LATELY SOME LITTLE DARK CLOUD DID APPEAR IN ONE QUARTER OF THE SKY, BUT IT IS NOTHING BUT A LOCAL SQUALL AND DOES NOT IN ANY WAY REPRESENT THE GENERAL STATE OF THE WEATHER. AND EVEN THIS SLIGHT CLOUD WILL SOON BE DISPERSED.

By General STEWART L. WOODFORD, Former Minister to Spain.

In the seventy years of my life I have seen two wars brought on by the thoughtless and ill considered action of the newspapers. THOSE WARS MIGHT HAVE BEEN AVOIDED.

TODAY ALL THE INTERESTS WHICH CENTER AROUND THIS NATION—THE THOUGHTFUL BUSINESS MEN—ARE OPPOSED TO BEING AGAIN DRAGGED INTO A USELESS AND AN UNNECESSARY WAR.

War between the United States and Japan would be a crime against history. War between us and Japan would be a crime against religion, for in no place in the world is more toleration shown to religions of all kinds, and we have established our religion in the land of the mikado.

War between us and Japan would be a crime against commerce. Between us let there be rivalry, let each do his best, and may that SPIRIT OF FAIR PLAY exist which says let the best man win.

War between Japan and the United States would be against the spirit of the age.

By Viscount AOKI, Japanese Ambassador to the United States.

I have said time and again that THERE IS NO JAPANESE-AMERICAN SITUATION. There exist between the two governments no differences or ill feeling of whatever sort. All this talk of possible trouble between the two nations, so devoted to each other, is a MERE PHANTOM CREATION OF WILD IMAGINATION that ever seems to haunt the minds of irresponsible story makers and trouble hunters.

There is not the slightest cause for anxiety in the American-Japanese relations, and if there is any it is not because of the actual existence of any difficulty between the two countries, but because of the dogmatic influence of some UNWARRANTED PRESS TALK that often tends to drive even the calmest temper of the public into a whirl of tempestuous rage.

By Rear Admiral JOSEPH B. COGHLAN, U. S. N., Retired.

We of this country are jealous of the friendship of Japan. We discovered it. The friendship which was framed between us even at that time, when hereditary feelings made each of us look upon the other as barbarians, has grown greater as we learned the STERLING WORTH of the other.

Japan has even since then been ready to accept and adopt the BEST OF OUR IDEAS, and we have been and are adopting what we think are some of the best of hers. One bad one she has taken from "yellow journal" talk and "faked" interviews.

THAT THIS FRIENDSHIP, FORMED WITHOUT BLOODSHED AND SO BENEFICIAL TO BOTH COUNTRIES, MAY EVER REMAIN FAST AND FIRM IS, I AM SURE, THE FERVENT WISH OF ALL CLEAR HEADED PEOPLE OF BOTH COUNTRIES.

VIKING PAGEANT AT ASTORIA REGATTA

A huge parade in which the regatta, Saengerfest and labor unions will figure largely has been arranged for the afternoon of Labor Day, following which the land and water sports of over a hundred varieties will cause intense interest among thousands who will visit the city during the combined celebration and the pulling off of numerous events for valuable and numberless prizes. The city is being put in shape for the thousands who will be here and everything will be ready for the opening day.
