MUCH DEPENDS ON ATTITUDE OF PUBLIC

Eugene was never in better shape financially than at the present time because Lane county has been experiencing an era of unusual prosperity. That this will continue, despite the present financial stringency, no one who understands conditions can seriously doubt. Our banks are all sound and conservatively managed and their depositors have in most cases no immediate use for the funds they hold. What is necessary now is a little patience on the part of the public until the stringency is relieved in the big financial centers, so that banking institutions in the smaller cities can collect their balances from the larger banks. This will come quickly when the great grain and fruit crops of the Northwest reach the markets of the world, and the gold to pay for them flows westward, relieving the banks that have advanced the money to move them.

The present inconvenient holiday condition will come to an end in a short time and then business will be resumed in the normal way, and conditions in all respects will improve rapidly. The people can all assist in bringing a return of prosperous conditions by going about their business as usual, declining to hoard their money or heeding the words of the croakers whose principal mission in life seems to be to make trouble. Such persons wrecked the large Merchant's National bank in Portland, and probably by their course will bring ruin to scores of erstwhile prosperous businessmen who were indebted to the bank and dependent upon it for the conduct of their business. They have thus struck a blow at the commercial prosperity of the entire state and inflicted a wound that may be long in healing. For themselves the mischief-makers have gained nothing unless some personal grudges have thus been satisfied at the expense of hundreds of innocent persons whose welfare was bound up in the stability of their banking house.

The conduct of the vast business operations of the country depends largely upon public confidence, and in times of doubt and panic it is the duty of every good citizen to do his full share toward inspiring such confidence in his weaker fellows. Personal spleen may be vented at other times; financial reforms may be advocated and political capital manufactured when our business structure is sound and unshaken. At times of unrest and uncertainty like the present the safety of any community depends largely upon whether common sense and cool business judgment is in the ascendancy.

SHOW GOOD WILL BEFORE CHRISTMAS

A little good will before Christmas would be welcome, especially to those to whom the holiday season is a season of hard work and overtaxed nerves. At the risk of being a little ahead of time this paper requests its woman readers not to save all their Christmas good will for their families and friends. Already on one side of the store counters' crowds of restless and impatient shoppers are searching for Christmas presents. On the other side hundreds of men and women are piling and unpling stocks of goods, patiently answering questions, restraining a natural desire to be impatient in reply to impertinence, and altogether having a very unpleasant and nerve-taxing experience.

We ask our readers to do their shopping early, to get as far as possible ahead of the rush, and try to make things a little easier for the clerks and salespeople by being as polite as they expect those who serve them to be.

This is the time of year the employees in the stores look forward to with dread.

The Christmas spirit of good will to all is too often kept in cold storage until Christmas. Why not try this year to use some of it in advance—to make welcome Christmas presents of tolerance and good nature to the girl who tries to find exactly the shade of ribbon you want, or to the young man who hunts all over his shelves to find a smoking jacket for your husband.

And if you will try to do your shopping early in the day, as well as early in the season, you will save crowding and aid scores of tired store employees. A little charity, patience and thoughtfulness will go further toward brightening this Christmas than all the wreaths of holly you can weave.

Harry Thaw's new lawyer began work on the new jury before it was chosen, by having Harry pay his dues to his Pittsburg Golf Club and write that he expected to play with them in the spring. Meanwhile District Attorney Jerome smokes a few more cigarettes.

It's a good guess that the trust magnates are much more anxious to have the President say something to quiet their fears of personal punishment than to say something to quiet the alleged business fears of the country.

It turns out that Anna Gould did not know when she had enough. She is to do another matrimonial turn with a prince, a cousin of Count Boni, her divorced husband, and the Gould men are doing another "cussing" stunt.

The general public doesn't hear much about the cattle tick, but the Department of Agriculture estimates that they cost cattle raisers at least $100,000,000 a year.

As a passenger killer and crippler, the trolley car seems to have the bulge on the steam car, even if it doesn't cut as much ice in the stock market.

The Nashville young man who apologized to the family doctor before killing him, believes in being polite; also in the "unwritten law."

In trying to put Washington on the water-wagon, the temperance legion are at least showing that they are not afraid to tackle a hard job.

Another variety of pickle has been added to the 57 of Heinz—his youngest son has eloped with and married a pretty trained nurse.

The meeting was well attended and many suggestions were given for the directors to act upon. The term of W. H. Sharr, director, having expired, A. P. Churchill was elected to fill the vacancy. L. A. Newton, of the Pacific States Telephone Company, was present and on invitation made a fine address—Nugget.

S. P. MAY RUN TRAINS TO COAST

With the taking over of the management of the Corvallis & Eastern railroad by the Southern Pacific railroad has come the rumor that the West Side Southern Pacific train now running from Portland to Corvallis will continue its run over the Corvallis & Eastern route to Yaquina. For years this change in the schedule has been the subject of talk and now that the C. & E. is in the hands of the Southern Pacific it is probable the change will be made. The Southern Pacific trains, as well as the Corvallis train, are now stopping at the Corvallis & Eastern depot in Corvallis, which has been made a union depot and will be converted into a freight depot.

LOAN & SAVING BANK MAKES STATEMENT

MERCHANTS' NATIONAL BANK NOT ITS CORRESPONDENT—CARRIES RESERVES IN ANOTHER BANK.

To the Public:—In order to correct an erroneous impression which has gained some circulation we wish to state that the Merchants' National Bank of Portland is not our correspondent, but that we carry our reserves with the Bank of California in Portland, and draw all our drafts against the latter bank.

The Bank of California has a combined capital, surplus and undivided profits fund of over $14,000,000, and is the strongest bank on the Pacific coast.

The Merchants' National Bank of Portland has sent us all their collections on Eugene, and we carried a small balance with them to cover the amount of collections sent.

This balance has been running down since the holidays, and the officers of the bank does not expect to draw all our drafts against the latter bank.
