JAPANESE SITUATION AND PACIFIC FLEET

Hero Hobson, of the Spanish war, now a representative in congress from Alabama, sought and obtained a place on the house naval committee; and now he announces that he will devote every energy toward a larger navy, with a special object of securing naval bases and fortifications on the Pacific—not only on the shores of our Pacific states, but in the Philippine and Hawaiian islands. Hobson says the Japanese in the Hawaiian islands are numerous enough to be a menace, and that Japan will soon have a great naval base on the island of Formosa, a short distance from Manila. The late border trouble in China, he declares, was at the instigation of Japan, whose people have a fanatical hatred of all white men, and especially of Americans. They talk of even leading a movement for the expulsion of the English from India—awaiting, of course, a favorable time.

In Hobson's view of it the sailing of our fleet to the Pacific means that America is to be the "bulwark of the world for stopping the progress of the yellow peril." It is the ambition of Japan to lead China, and to organize the vast forces of the Oriental world against the encroachment of all Western, or white races. But "the white races have superior resources for building ships, and the white man's hold on the supremacy of the ocean is the only hope of keeping a world peace."

Though it is diplomatically denied that the movement of our fleet to the Pacific has any reference to whatever to Japan, it is known by all who have had access to administration circles at Washington that but for the uneasiness at the growing pretensions and hostility of Japan the fleet would not have been sent. The object, of course, was not to threaten Japan, but to let it be known to the world that we are prepared to do something ourselves in the Pacific in case of need. And it is a "practice," or "exercise" voyage. Sea defenses are more important to us now than ever before. Our navy can never be smaller than now, but must be increased in power from year to year. Hitherto the army has required more money than the navy, but the two branches of the service for defense are to change places in relative cost. We cannot be seriously attacked by land, nor are we likely to have enemies against whom land campaigns can be conducted. But we must have power at sea, for our defense is to be made at sea, and our attack, too, in case of need.

GENERAL CONDITIONS UNLIKE HARD TIMES

The news of the day is full of items that contradict hard times stories, says the Eastern Oregonian. In a report from New York it is announced that the United States Steel corporation distributed $3,000,000 to its superintendents, managers and heads of departments as Christmas presents.

A dispatch from Cleveland contains word that 250 traveling salesmen of a paint company will be put on the road within a week, following a short lay-off, and that the American Shipbuilding Company, which two months ago shut down its shipyards along the great lakes, has put 5000 men at work in the last few days and will reinstate 5000 more employes the first of the year.

From St. Louis comes the news that more than 3000 men who were thrown out of employment in that city because of the financial stringency, have been ordered back to work.

It is predicted that before the end of January all factories there will be running full and the effect of the financial flurry will not be felt except by the workmen engaged in the building trades.

A pamphlet prepared by the department of justice shows the official efforts at "trust-busting" from the Cleveland to the Roosevelt administration, but the closest examination fails to show a trust actually "busted."

Without taking sides in the controversy as to whether wild bears are dangerous, we desire to call attention to the evidence available to prove that the Wall street breed are the most dangerous bears on earth.

Mixing politics with labor strikes is comparatively new, and is about a safe as mixing dynamite with coal to be used in an engine, but there will have to be a few explosions before some men will believe it.

What does Japan, or any other foreign power, want spies in this country for, when our own officials are falling over each other in their efforts to be the first to expose our weak spots?

Doubtless a congressional investigation and discussion of naval affairs will be welcomed by the makers of the do-nothing program—it will help to kill time, even if it does the navy no good.

Governor Folk has his mother's permission to become president. All he needs now to pull off the stunt is the O. K. of the national convention and a majority of the electoral college.

Maybe the future historian will call this the steel age, though there will be danger, if he has access to the files of some current newspapers that he will write it down as the "steal" age.

Anyway, that Phiadelphia man who spent $100,000 on his daughter's "coming out" party may only have been trying to show that he was not caught in the money squeeze.

At the annual convention of the New York stenographers not a word was said against the evils of dictation, though every delegate was familiar with it.

Editorial impudence and irreverence can go no further, now that the Washington Herald has suggested the writing of a comic opera on existing naval conditions.

A senator may orate most energetically against all abuses, including nepotism, and still put his relatives on the public payroll—in fact, most of them do.

It's now up to Senator W. J. Bryan, of Florida to show whether he owes his job to his name alone, as some pert paragraphers have insinuated.

"Did Fulton swear right?" asks a headline in yesterday's Portland Journal. We'll bet he did when he first heard of Schuebel's appointment.

Just at this time should Rear Admiral Brownson get sick he would probably think twice before calling a naval physician to prescribe for him.

The school census of Salem shows 2862 children of school age.

LET PEOPLE KNOW ABOUT IT

If you have done a splendid thing,
Get on the roof and shout it;
Don't fail to make the welkin ring,
Let the people know about it.
Don't merely sit around and wait
For other men to sound your praise;
They'll never know that you are great
Unless the hubbub which you raise
Convinces those who doubt it.

If you have talent don't neglect
To draw attention to it;
Don't wait in silence and expect
That some one else will do it;
Get out and boast, a few may say
That you are o'er supplied with gal,
But don't forget that even they
Will, talking of you, after all,
Bring notice to you through it.

OREGON LAND FRAUD TRIALS NEXT WEEK.

Everything will be readiness for the opening of the trial of John H. Hall in the Federsly court Monday morning. Francis J. Heney has telegraphed T. B. Neuhausen, special inspector for the Interior Department, that he will reach Portland on Saturday, and it is expected that Judge Hunt of Montana, who has been assigned to try the land fraud cases, will arrive on Sunday.

Irvin Rittenhouse, who has been Mr. Heney's private secretary throughout the land fraud trials, will arrive today. Next to Mr. Neuhausen, Mr. Rittenhouse is one of the best informed employes in the Government service on land-fraud matters.

It is also expected that Detective Burns will attend the Hall trial.—Oregonian.

NOT ENOUGH WATER TO FLOAT ALL LOGS

Jesse Nicolle, of the logging firm of Fellman & Nicolle, operating on the Siuslaw river and tributaries, after a business visit in Eugene, returned to the Siuslaw yesterday. He stated while here that the recent freshet took about half of the firm's logs down the river, but was not high enough to take out all that the firm has banked. There has probably been more water in the river this winter than usual, but it has been a steady flow with no freshet high enough to take all the logs to the booms at Acme and Florence. However, it is expected that before the winter is over there will be another freshet or two and all the logs will reach their destination.

NORMAL SCHOOL OFFERS SPECIAL OPPORTUNITIES

The Southern Oregon State Normal school at Ashland offers special opportunities for teachers to review for the teachers' examinations in February and August, and to take work in pedagogy and special methods in teaching the various grades of the training school. Since the public schools of Oregon are calling for teachers who can teach manual training, many are taking advantage of the industrial work lately installed in the school. Expenses of board and lodging and tuition nominal.

The State Normal School at Ashland is enjoying the largest appropriation of state funds ever granted a normal school in the history of Oregon. Catalogues sent on application to the president. j31

AS TO ACUTE DISEASES

In many quarters of the country osteopaths are not very numerous; as a result, the news of their good work having spread, they are kept busy treating patients who come to their offices suffering from diseases that have become chronic, so that the impression has grown that osteopaths treat chronic diseases only.

In many quarters of the country where osteopaths have become numerous the doctors of this new school have become the regular family physician. They have been called in alike for the troubles of children and parents, and their marked success in the treatment of diseases of every character makes their services much sought after. Any one who wishes a thoroughly convincing demonstration of osteopathy's effectiveness should call in an osteopath when some member of the family is suffering from an acute attack; and it is quite certain that the osteopath will thereafter be the family physician.

Dr. H. L. Studley, osteopath, office over Chambers Hardware store, Phone Black 1326. Residence, 734 Ferry street. Phone Red 3197.
