It is until after the final count of votes will tell for the capital prize. She not only has the hearty and substantial support of her home town, but is getting votes from the surrounding districts where other candidates failed. Her popularity is increasing and her rivals will have to do some really good work to overtake her, as she is a born and intelligent worker who will not be discouraged, for she plans to get in a great many more votes before the contest is ended.

Nearly every candidate in the race figured in the total of votes that were cast in the past week. No one in particular cast any very large amount, not enough to give her a decided advantage over her competitors.

After looking over the group of votes cast, it is seen that the group of votes cast in the past week will figure to a very large extent on the last night of the contest. All candidates are keeping well in the race, and extending good judgment in doing so.

It is felt that the race with people who have no particular favorite in the race, is a fair one, and that the best of them will win their votes for the position with the greatest number of votes.

The final struggle for the $1000 in prizes to be awarded by the Eugene Daily Guard on the night of February 28th at 7 o'clock is becoming intense.

Miss Idah Hendershott, who has been doing some very effective work lately, cast enough votes during the past twenty-four hours to place her name first over the 100,000 mark, and in a position which if she can re-feel, when doing so that they are supporting a winner.

With the end of The Guard popular ladies' voting contest only eleven days off, many of the contestants who are anxious for their names to be announced as winners when the final count is made are scouring every nook and corner in Lane county to secure every possible vote to increase their reserve force. There will be ten winners, and you might as well be one of them. Get your friends to subscribe for The Guard this week, as votes count on new subscriptions 50 per cent more than they did last week. Subscribers who subscribed for The Guard since the opening of the contest and renew their subscriptions in order to secure a greater number of votes, will be termed new subscribers on this special offer.

It is getting to be the one serious question now with the candidates themselves as to whether their chances equal their opponents, and whether their reserve fund is enough to pull them through.

The best idea is to go on right now to recount your reserve fund and decide that you have only half enough votes to win, and with that thought in mind make a concerted effort during the remaining days to secure the other half.

It would be a good thing to feel safe just now and as the contest draws to a close a more determined effort will be made by every contestant who sees a chance of winning.

Don't fail to read the last special offer of votes—50 per cent increase on all new subscriptions.

Miss Fay Clark, of district number one, whose picture we present today, is very desirous of winning one of the vacation trips to Los Angeles offered as a prize to the first district contestant. While giving proper attention to her other duties, she is very anxious to have her name announced as a winner, so that her friends who are supporting her will not be disappointed when the final count of votes is made.

Miss Clark is very popular with the younger set in Eugene, and has many influential friends, so that in her aspirations she has many people to draw on for subscriptions and contest votes. Miss Clark will appreciate being remembered by her friends when paying their subscriptions, and it is safe to predict that she will hold her own if her friends do their part.

Last Special Offer Strikes Popular Chord

Many candidates, after reading of the 50 per cent increase in votes on all new subscriptions, which was announced last Friday, called or telephoned to inquire if there wouldn't be a better offer than this one next week, the last of the contest. In answer to these inquiries we will positively state that the offer now in force for new subscriptions is absolutely the last offer of any increase of any kind that will be made, and subscriptions must be absolutely new. A change of name at the same address, or a change of address, will not be accepted as a new subscriber. A stop order followed by a renewal will not be considered a new sub-

The Daily Guard's Popular Ladies' Prize Voting Contest
VOTE COUPON

Miss _____

Address _____

District _____

Cut out and fill in with the name of the young lady you wish to vote for. Send or mail to Contest Department, The Guard, and it will count for one vote.

Not Good After February 28.

The conditions of the special offer will be strictly adhered to. Just remember that NEW, paid-in-advance subscriptions, with which special votes are given, are the votes that count, and it is the candidates who take every advantage of them are going to figure when the prizes are being awarded.

In order to offset any false rumors that are being circulated by some designing individual, regarding the fairness of the contest, every one that is interested in the outcome of the contest is invited to call at the Guard office when the count of votes is being made daily at 3 p. m. and satisfy themselves that every feature in connection with the contest is being conducted in a fair, impartial and business-like way.

The publisher of The Guard guarantees the absolute fairness of this contest, and will pay liberally for any reliable information tending to show that any employe or attaché of the paper has violated his instructions in this regard.

From now on the real contest will be waged, and the heavy polling of votes, which will decide the contest will be done.

The Guard management has no more idea than any outsider who will win these prizes, owing to the large number of coupons being held in reserve, and the earnest work now being done by all interested—but it does know they will be awarded to the candidates polling the largest number of votes, under the rules of the contest as published daily.

WHERE MISS GLORIA FAILED TO MAKE GOOD

The Grants Pass Outlook gives Miss Gloria Dare the following "roast": "There was a fair-sized audience at the opera house Monday in attendance upon the benefit given for the local band. For the sake of the 'boys' we would wish the audience had been larger; but out of regard for the feeling of the playing public we wish it had been several times smaller. Possibly Miss Gloria Dare did her best; we credit her with that much anyway; but as a matter of fact her part of the performance was quite as desolating as her stage gown, and that was the limit. Her voice was quite out of commission as the result of a cold, and neither in song or recitation could she enthuse the audience. The numbers were all light and airy—decidedly so."

"I have found a cure for the misery malaria produces," says R. M. James, of Lowell, S. C. "It's called Electric Bitters and comes in 50 cent bottles. It breaks up a case of chills or a bilious attack in no time and it puts yellow jaundice clear out of commission." This great tonic medicine and blood purifier gives quick relief in all stomach, liver and kidney complaints, and the misery of lame back. Sold under guarantee at W. A. Kuykendall's drug store.
