

RHEUMATISM CAN NOT BE RUBBED AWAY

Rubbing with liniments, blistering the affected parts, the application of heat and other means of external treatment, are usually helpful in relieving the pains and aches of Rheumatism, but such remedies do not cure the CAUSE of the disease, and are therefore in no sense curative. The cause of the disease is an excess of uric acid in the blood, brought about by indigestion, poor bowel action, weak kidneys, and a general sluggish condition of the system. The circulation deposits this irritating poison in the different organs, tissues and joints of the body, and soon the painful symptoms of Rheumatism are produced. The pains at first may be wandering and slight; but as the blood becomes more fully saturated with the uric acid poison, the symptoms become more and more chronic. The slight, wandering pains become sharp and cutting at the least exposure to dampness or cold, or any constitutional irregularity, the bones ache, the muscles are stiff, and where the acid poison is allowed to accumulate in the blood the joints often become so clogged with corrosive matter that they are left permanently stiff and useless. Rheumatism can not be rubbed away, nor can it be conquered and driven from the system until the acid-laden blood has been cleansed and purified. No other medicine does this so effectively as S. S. S. It dissolves and removes the impurities and sends a stream of rich, strong blood to the affected parts, which soothes the irritated nerves, inflamed muscles and flesh, and the sufferer obtains relief that is permanent because the real cause of the disease has been removed. Special book on Rheumatism and any medical assistance free.

AMUSEMENTS

No local play ever can afford to miss the performance of "A $10,000 Beauty," at the opera house on the night of February 5. It will be interpreted by that famous light comedy organization, the Lewis-Lake company, with positively all of the original cast and the same massive scenic effects shown in the large cities. The electrical display alone put forth during the action of this merry musical play will, it is said, be worth far more than the admission charged. The great sale will start Saturday morning. The hearts of the local play-goers will be gladdened by the announcement that this big musical comedy organization, the Lewis-Lake company, will appear here for the first time here, Wednesday, February 5, at the opera house, giving the musical comedy, "A $10,000 Beauty," for the first time here. The show carries twelve or fifteen girls who dance and sing equally well. The principals are all talented and well-known people.

MISS MARJORIE LAKE IN "THE $10,000 BEAUTY" AT THE EUGENE THEATRE

Fame comes quickly—how many men have gone to bed practically unknown and have risen in the morning to find themselves famous. In these days of telegraph and cables and enterprising newspapers news travels fast. The inventor who has been working in his attic for years trying to discover some little wheel or spring to make his machine perfect suddenly finds it, the artist, who has been painting in some obscure back parlor becomes inspired and produces a masterpiece, the unknown lawyer, makes a great speech in defense of his client, the dramatic author, who has been plodding for years, writes a play which catches the public and is the season's success, and so on and so forth; their successes are telegraphed to the four corners of the earth, and their names become household words. So it is with the actor, and so it has been proved again with Mr. Bernard Daly.

BERNARD DALY IN KERRY GOW

Mr. Daly, always a favorite in smaller roles, has electrified the public as a star. The beautiful play, "Kerry Gow" is the vehicle his manager, U. D. Newell, has chosen to present him this season and Mr. Daly has more than fulfilled the hopes of Mr. Newell and also of Joseph Murphy, who became famous in the same role.

Not a little of Mr. Daly's success may be attributed to his phenomenal tenor voice, which has a range from C below the staff to E natural above. Mr. Daly's rendition of the numerous Irish songs fairly rouses his audiences to enthusiasm. The story of "Kerry Gow" is as well told, the heart throbs of Dan O'Hara, the village carrier, for the pretty colleen Norah Drew, are as pure as the grass on the hills in County Kerry. The moulding on the stage of the horse-shoe by Dan is always interesting.

The company supporting Mr. Daly is excellent in every respect and the scenic production is adequate.

At the Eugene theatre, Monday night.

THE DOCTOR OF OSTEOPATHY

What His Title Means—How He Gets It and the Peculiar Abilities Acquired in His Long Course of Training

The graduate of a recognized college of osteopathy, after a long and exhaustive study of the highest authorities in anatomy, physiology, pathology, diagnosis, therapeutics and all kindred branches, is awarded a diploma that gives him a legal right to the title of Doctor of Osteopathy. That is the only title that he wishes, for he makes no pretense of practicing medicine, the word medicine being generally accepted as meaning drug.

The abbreviation of the title of Doctor of Osteopathy is D. O., and the province of the D. O. is to help nature, in the human body, to right herself. He believes that drugs are not only unnecessary, but distinctly damaging, and that the body is a very perfect machine that will run along smoothly if supplied with the proper fuel (food), and if none of its parts get out of position.

Requiring the Structure. But, while the most perfect of machines, it is also the most delicate, and derangement of its parts can be brought about in scores of ways. Falls, jars, strains, undue exertions, and local contractions or relaxations due to changes in temperature, are only a few of the things that may cause trouble in this delicate mechanism. Sometimes the effects are immediately apparent, sometimes long delayed.

It is for the especial work of finding the derangement and rectifying it that the osteopathic physician is trained. He is a master mechanic, and when anything is wrong with the machine it is the master mechanic whose services should be called in. If some little part has slipped out of place, the resulting trouble may be at a distant part of the mechanism, and only the trained expert would be likely to attempt repairs in the wrong place and work further damage. But the skilled workman does nothing until he has made thorough examination and found that little part that has slipped out of place. Then his training enables him to replace it. That is the work of the osteopathic physician.

If you want an opinion as to the value of osteopathic treatment do not make the mistake of consulting any one whose whole training has been along other lines. Ask some one who has had experience with the system and knows, or, better yet, go to a good osteopath and give him the opportunity to demonstrate the thing to you.
