MAKE STATEMENT NO. 1 ISSUE AT PRIMARIES

There is nothing to all this discussion about statement No. 1 except this: Shall the people be allowed to vote their preference for United States senator?

Two years ago this plan of popular election was tried, and Mr. Bourne, a Republican, who received a majority of the votes polled over John M. Gear, Democrat, was elected. Only one Democratic legislator refused to vote for the people's choice, and one or two Republican members, if we remember rightly, refused to recognize the right of popular suffrage.

Shall Oregon, having once gained the right to vote directly for their senators, acknowledge the failure of the plan because the people cannot be trusted, or are incapable of making a suitable choice of representative in the upper house of congress?

Why not settle the discussion in Lane county at least by making a plain issue in the coming primaries. Let Mr. Gilstrap and those other aspirants who do not believe in the popular election of senators go before the primaries on that principle, and measure strength with their party candidates who are willing to sign statement No. 1. If there are Democrats who favor the old plan they may also have the opportunity to place the sentiment of their party in the primaries in a similar manner.

Make the issue plain and clear and let the majority vote decide how the people of Lane county stand on this question.

OUTSIDE VIEW OF UNIVERSITY SUPPORT

The following forcible editorial from the Moscow, Idaho, Journal, gives a good outside view of the attempt to cripple the University of Oregon by defeating the University appropriation by a referendum vote at the coming election:

"Considerable interest is felt in Idaho concerning the proposed effort of some of the farmers of the Willamette valley of Oregon to invoke the referendum against the appropriation made by the last legislature of the state in support of the State University at Eugene. The support of this educational institution has heretofore been fixed at $17,000 per annum. The new act raises this sum to $125,000 per year, and it is against this increase that the farmers are making their objection.

It is to be hoped for the sake of higher education in Oregon, and for the good name of the farming community everywhere, that this plan, intended to at least defer this appropriation and possibly defeat it entirely, will not be carried out.

Oregon needs the State University and her people are abundantly able to support it up to the point of effectiveness where it can accomplish something, and its services will be worth much more than what they cost. In these times when higher education is a prerequisite for a successful career, it would be a great mistake for any state to dispense with or cripple its chief educational institution.

No city would wish action would be taken in the people directly affected, but it would be incalculable harm to the state beyond its borders. Progressive American people who are looking for new homes in the Pacific Northwest would shun a state that has put such a blight upon its future.

"Not only will these farmers who propose to invoke the referendum in this instance harm the state in the estimation of the people outside of its borders, but they will cast odium upon farmers generally. Agriculture is reaping more benefits today from higher education than any of the trades, mechanics or commercial interests.

"If the farmers of Oregon don't know this they should study a little. They should keep abreast of the farmers of other states, and then they would be enthusiastic advocates of higher education and be willing to pay reasonably well to sustain it."

No use for North Carolina to be putting out those alluring stories of travelers being attacked by ferocious wolves and panthers—Teddy has all the hunting he can attend to for some time right at home. The senatorial jungle gets more dangerous every day.

From the vote of 192 to 5, by which the lower house of the Mississippi legislature passed a drastic anti-bucket shop bill, it might be inferred that this form of gambling is not popular in the land of Vardaman.

This Miss Smyth, a Boston lunch room waitress, who has just inherited $200,000 as a descendant of the left-handed wife of George IV of England, had an idea all the time that she was not a plain Smith—note the "y."

Who said these foreigners do not value their American wives? One of them has just sued his father-in-law and three others for $1,500,000 damages for having conspired to cause his wife to divorce him.

This "why-I-failed" magazine talk of Tom Lawson's offers a pointer to the bunch of presidential candidates on how to get a little coin after the other fellow walks off with the nomination.

If Hon. Joseph Choate knew what he was talking about when he denied the existence of lawyers who aid malefactors to evade laws, there has been an awful lot of lying going on. Maybe Joe is only a little sore.

Harriman has made a peace treaty with George Gould, presumably that may be able to devote his entire attention and resources to his war with the Roosevelt administration in the courts.

It's a good guess that the Trenton (N. J.) barber who keeps a live snake in the shop for his customers to pet while awaiting their turn, is patronized exclusively by teetotalers.

Oh, no; this Spanish diplomat who says we are bound to have war with Japan and also bound to be licked, is not prejudiced—only ignorant.

Every Republican politician on the fence is now holding a stop-watch on the Hughes boom, to get a line on its speed.

COTTAGE GROVE CHILD BURNS TO DEATH

Cottage Grove, Feb. 1.—Laura, the 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hayes, died early this morning from the effects of burns received yesterday. Her mother stepped to a nearby neighbor and instructed the child to warm by the stove before going shopping. The stove door being open the little girl's dress caught fire and she was soon enveloped in flames. The child's screams attracted the mother, who rushed to the rescue, but reached the little one too late, as nearly all its clothing was burned off. Medical aid was procured at once, but the child was too badly burned to recover.

SAWING OUT TIES FOR ALBANY RAILWAY

The Albany Sawmill company will start up next Monday on a regular run with some orders ahead, running during daylight. Mr. Amos Hiatt, head sawyer, will be down tonight to take charge of the work. The first contract to be filled will be one for some ties for the new Albany street railway system to be delivered by the Welch people, to be installed along Second and Sixth streets. The company has half a million feet of logs in the pond, and more are being received daily from the logging camp up the Santiam. The tie part makes the street railway look like business.—Albany Democrat.

OBITUARY

One by one the pioneers who braved the hardships of the wilderness to find a home by the Pacific and save Oregon in the United States are passing to the great beyond. In the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Sovereign, one of those brave women who, with undaunted courage, followed her partner in life to make a home in the new West, is numbered with those who have gone before. She was a brave heart, yet true and tender, and always ready to help those in sorrow and in need, and lived a noble, heroic, earnest Christian life, and has simply gone to her eternal rest. Mrs. Sovereign's maiden name was Elizabeth Blachley. She was born in Ohio on April 11, 1824. In her early womanhood she was married to Hiram Tyler and in 1854 they started for Oregon across the plains, coming by way of California. While on the Truckee river in Nevada her husband took sick and died, leaving her and her little daughter alone. They made their way with the other emigrants to Sacramento, and thence came to Oregon. On May 26, 1856, she was married to George Sovereign, who died about eight years ago. Mrs. Sovereign had two children by her first husband, Mrs. B. S. Hyland of this city and another daughter who died in infancy. By her husband, George Sovereign, she had one son, George Sovereign, who lives on the old home place near Junction; two daughters, Hulda, afterward Mrs. Thomas Cheshire, now deceased, and Mrs. Fannie Jackson, who died three years ago at the home of her mother in Eugene. Mrs. Sovereign had lived in Eugene for over 30 years. She was a devoted Christian, having joined the Baptist church when 14 years of age and afterward united with the Christian church, of which she had since been a consistent member. The funeral service was held from the house at 47 West Fifth street Sunday at 11 o'clock, services being conducted by her pastor, Rev. J. S. McCullum, and interment was made in the Odd Fellows cemetery.
