FATHER O'FARRELL ON INFANT BAPTISM

RECTOR OF CATHOLIC CHURCH GIVES HIS VIEWS ON NECESSITY OF BAPTIZING CHILDREN

Speaking at the Catholic church last night on "Infant Baptism," Father O'Farrell stated that it is clear from the Scriptures that the sin of Adam attached to the soul of every human being and as long as that stain rests on the soul heaven is closed against it.

"Christ, the Saviour, came to take away that sin and to open heaven," he said. "He is the 'Lamb of God' who taketh away the sins of the world. He instituted baptism as the means to that end. His words to Nicodemus, 'Amen, amen, I say to thee, unless a man be born again of water and of the Holy Ghost he cannot enter the kingdom of God,' could not be clearer. These words embrace the whole human race, without regard to age or sex, and mean mankind in its broadest sense. If we make a distinction of age, why not of sex? If we exclude children, why not also women?"

The Catholic church, following the example of the Master, takes to her bosom the little children and applies to the sacrament which he instituted to make them partakers of the kingdom of heaven. If nothing defiled can enter heaven, and if the souls of children are defiled with original sin, how else can they become partakers of God's kingdom?

"St. Paul understood the necessity of baptism for children, as is evident from his epistles, unless we contend that race suicide was as prevalent in his time as it is now.

"The early church followed the examples of the apostles, as is evidenced by Irenaeus, Origen, Cyprian and others, and if the spirit of the truth had failed at that age to keep the church from error on so vital a point as baptism, what dependence can we have on the promise of one who had not power to fulfill it? If Christ could not keep His promise to keep His church from error, He were not God and Christianity is a delusion.

"We may smile indeed at a theological opinion, no matter how novel or erroneous it may be, as long as it does not involve dangerous consequences. But when it is given in a case of life and death how terrible is the responsibility of those who propagate doctrines so erroneous? The Catholic church, like the two mothers before Solomon, cries out: 'Keep the child, provided its spiritual life is spared at your hands. Let it be clothed with the robe of innocence even by a stranger. Better that it should live without me than perish before my face.'

"Catholics claim baptism for the child is necessary; some Protestants claim it is not, but admit that they may be mistaken, unless they claim personal infallibility. It is a question of life or death. Are you willing to take the consequences if you err?"

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR MR. CHAPMAN

A surprise and birthday party met at the home of E. F. Chapman and niece at 336 West Seventh street Saturday evening, February 1, it being the 66th birthday of Mr. Chapman. His friends came in on them and completely took him by surprise. The following persons were present: Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Chilson, Misses G. D. Baker and E. L. Kilpatrick, Messrs. Charles and Bruce Powell, Mrs. A. M. Deal, Miss Zella Deal, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Plank, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. King, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wood, Mrs. Bertha Foster, Masters Byron Foster and Earl Horton, Mrs. A. S. Pryor, Miss Minnie Chapman and E. F. Chapman. The evening was pleasantly spent in social chat, army stories, games, and other amusements. At 10 o'clock lunch was served, and at 11 o'clock the guests retired for their several homes, wishing the host many happy returns, which was appreciated by him.

GARFIELD CHANGES RITZCOCK POLICIES

Washington, Feb. 2.—It is the purpose of Secretary Garfield to so conduct the interior department and so interpret the public land laws as to actually aid every bona fide entryman who is endeavoring to establish a home on the public domain. Secretary Garfield holds that the land laws were enacted for a purpose, and so long as the law is not abused, he intends that the entryman shall enjoy its provisions, and so long as he acts in good faith shall have the encouragement and aid of representatives of the department. In other words, Secretary Garfield is proceeding on the theory that every man is honest until proven guilty; he is human enough to recognize that honest men make errors which do not lay them, or should not lay them, liable to the law. A reading of Mr. Garfield's report, made public today, will convince any man that there has been a phenomenal—almost an incomprehensible—change in the manner of conducting the interior department.

A Memory of a Lost Delight.

A fireplace any one may have, and to me the wonder is that our civilization has abolished the very soul from our northern homes. Fire is no longer the joy of the household, but the slave, imprisoned in the cellar. Ah, but it was delicious when the old fashioned family sat together in the great kitchen around the huge fireplace. All the evening we told stories, ate doughnuts, drank cider, all the time paring apples and hanging the long festoons of quarters from the beams. But the dear little mother, she it was who told the best stories while she was knitting mufflers and socks or mending our well worn clothing. There were no parlors at all in those days, and as for thrummed pianos, we had not yet heard of them. At 9 o'clock, honest and drowsy, we knelt and thanked God for life and love and home. Our bunks and beds and trundle beds were all in close proximity, and from every one of them we could see the flames, still jumping up the chimney while the big firelog was slowly eaten through. There was not one millionaire in all the world, and, indeed, we were not worried over the affair.—E. P. Powell in Outing Magazine.

He Told the Reason.

"The aeronaut to get along must keep his wits about him," said an army official. "Under the most adverse circumstances he must not lose his head. Always he must be alert and ready, like—like—well, like a scientist I used to know.

"This scientist gave a scientific lecture in a church one night, and at the lecture's end he said, beaming on his audience condescendingly: 'Now, if there is any scientific question that any of my friends would like to ask, I beg them not to hesitate. I shall be only too happy to answer any inquiry in my power.'

"An old lady in spectacles that gave her a severe, stern look rose and said: 'Why do wet tea leaves kill roaches?'

"The scientist didn't know they did, let alone the cause of the phenomenon. But, never at a loss, he replied: 'Because, madam, when a roach comes across a wet tea leaf he says, 'Hello, here's a blanket!' and wraps himself up in it, catches cold and dies.'—Los Angeles Times.

He Met Shorty.

Nicknames are sometimes descriptive things, and they are oftentimes extremely funny. I was in a small town not many miles south of Boston and, asking for a certain piece of information, I was informed by several that "Shorty" could give it to me, and he seemed to be the only man who could. Not knowing just who "Shorty" was, I made further inquiries and was told that he could be found in the store just across the square.

"Just ask for 'Shorty,'" I was told. "Any one will show him to you."

I went over to the store as directed and looked vainly about for some one who might answer the name. Only one man was present, and he was almost a seven footer. After looking about a moment I started to leave.

FORAKER ATTACKS THE PRESIDENT

New York, Feb. 1.—Six hundred sons of the Buckeye state, residents of New York City, attended the twenty-second annual banquet of the Ohio Society at the Waldorf-Astoria tonight. The speakers were United States Senator Foraker, Leroy D. Tolman, president of the Ohio Society, of Chicago; Judson Harmon, of Cincinnati; John D. Archbold, vice president of the Standard Oil Company; and Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation.

SENATOR J. B. FORAKER. Presidential candidate who threatens to split the Ohio delegation.

charged that President Roosevelt "not only increased the general dissatisfaction, but helped create general business distrust and alarm." The chief cause of the present situation, he said, might be summed up in one word, "muck-raking." A regular crusade has been started, he said, against not only wrongdoers, but the innocent also. The disease was infection, he claimed, and it might spread to congress and all state legislatures.

Foraker said that, assuming that the president meant well, his denunciation of predatory wealth, swollen fortunes, criminally successful and had corporations were of such a denunciatory and frightening character that they had not only increased the general dissatisfaction, but had helped create a general business distrust and alarm.

The speaker asserted that after the crash came "some of the most hated and most abused" malefactors of wealth came to the rescue and to the great relief of the country stemmed the tide, calmed the excitement and restored order. Since then the muck-rakers have been at a discount.

He said a discussion of party politics was ill-advised at such a time, but trusted that he might be excused for saying that he believed the next president will be content and proud to execute the plain, old-fashioned Republican policies instead of his own, and that our prosperity would not only come again, but would permanently abide with us.

IN BRYAN'S PALM

"Destiny Wrote Defeat," Declares Professor Grant Chesterfield

"I took Mr. Bryan's palmograph during the excitement of his last political campaign, and I stated at the time that he was destined to defeat," said Grant Chesterfield, the celebrated palmist and clairvoyant. A number of men and women were waiting to consult him at his parlors, 642 Willamette street.

William J. Bryan's Palm.

"You will notice the scarcity of ray lines in his palm," the professor continued, pointing to the impetuous lying on the table, "and yet the palm is profoundly marked in characteristics. I believe him to be thoroughly sincere in his beliefs and doctrines and this great straightaway stretch of the line of the head reveals his straightforwardness. Notice this line of the heart. It is about perfect, and as a husband and provider there is none better. The will is tremendous and the palm itself is a magnificent battlefield.

"How about the coming election?" "Oh! Now, now, now," and Professor Chesterfield disappeared into his consultation room. It is said by the most prominent men and women of Eugene that in his clairvoyant readings he tells you your name, age and the date of your birth.

The fee asked is 50 cents. His parlors remain open until 9 p. m.

BORN

In Eugene, January 30, 1908, to H. M. Marson and wife, a daughter.

One-sixth of this country's standing timber is in Oregon. It is estimated at 3,000,000,000 feet. At $12 per thousand feet the state's timber is now worth $3,600,000,000. Single logs that in the form of sawed lumber are worth $50 to $100 are common. Six hundred sawmills, employing 15,000 men, besides 7000 men in the logging camps, produce 2,000,000,000 feet of lumber every year, for which the world's markets pay Oregon nearly $45,000,000 for forest products of all classes.
