SOMEWHAT PERSONAL AND POLITICAL, ALSO

Let us see—Was not Editor Fisher a rock-ribbed, double-distilled, 100-proof, all-wood and a yard wide Democrat during his sojourn in Idaho while connected with the Boise Capital News, and now in so brief a time he is not flopped and since his arrival in Eugene becomes a political Independent, a man without a party.

Fill the personal views and personality of the editor of The Guard is of no particular public interest, since we long ago smothered whatever ambition to hold public office we may have cherished, as most American citizens do at some stage of their career, we want to here and now plead guilty to the charge of being a political free lance, a mugwump or whatever other name one cares to designate a man by who has become disgusted with so-called party politics.

Chairman Fowler, of the house banking and currency committee, brands as "maliciously false" the story that he pledged himself to report the Aldrich currency bill to the house, in order to retain his chairmanship. Wonder if that means he will pigeon-hole the bill if it goes to his committee after the senate passes it?

Rather nervy for the Equitable Life to send a representative—lobbyist, in fact, to Washington to oppose certain financial plans and advocate what it wants. Paul Morton has a fine job, and the best way for him to keep it is to see that the Equitable sticks to legitimate business.

According to one of the would-be financial sharps, the money panic was not properly due until 1910, but was forced by circumstances. The wonderful thing about this is that a man with all that knowledge should be writing "pieces" for the papers for a living.

However, wise railroad managers will not be in a hurry to take advantage of the legal right given them by that supreme court decision to discharge men for no other reason than that they are members of a labor organization.

A cynical bachelor's remedy for the divorce evil is to abolish marriage. Having exercised the right of doing it personally, he should let it go at that and not try to force bachelorhood on others.

Notwithstanding the notion of some of the practical politicians that Taft was a "tenderfoot," he's been making a noise like a pretty slick political manager since he got into the game personally.

C. W. Post, of Battle Creek, Mich., seems ambitious to beat the advertising record of Tom Lawson, and the papers that get the ads would gladly welcome others, with the price, to the competition.

embodied in "the greatest good to the greatest number."

While it is true that there will always be political parties, and they are no doubt a necessity to a republican form of government, blind adherence to the organization and name, regardless of the principles involved, is sure to result in the building up of personal machines and corrupt practices, having for their object the spoilation of the people.

The absolute sophistry and inconsistency of the opposition to statement No. 1 and the popular election of United States senators has never been more apparent in any of the discussions of the subject than in recent efforts to overthrow that statement in Oregon.

In one breath certain political writers of the old school in Oregon declare for the popular election of United States senators, because that principle is now deeply rooted in Oregon politics, and in the next breath the same writers cry out against statement No. 1 by which the people are to select their senators.

It is impossible to conceive how sincere thinkers, although bitter partisans can present these two extreme but contradictory views to the voters in one and the same breath. It seems as though they would know in advance that the intelligent voter would see through this sort of veiled hypocrisy.

H. M. Calk of Portland, one of the leading Republicans of the state, has adopted statement No. 1 and the popular election of the United States senators as his platform and will make the campaign on that principle, believing that it is the only method by which the people may secure fair and honest representation in the United States senate.

It is hoped that every Republican voter in Oregon supports and helps elect Mr. Calk to the senate, to vindicate this principle and to administer such a rebuke to the opponents of the principle as will not be forgotten soon.

The opponents of statement No. 1 by which the people are to have the absolute power in the selection of their senators place party above the people; they regard selfish interest as greater than public interest; they place personal ambition higher than the common welfare; they are willing to overthrow the popular will to gratify their own petty desires.

Let Oregon elect a statement No. 1 senator and show the old school that a new day has dawned in the west—a day of popular rule, a day of honest elections, a day of political independence!

COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL.

For some time past the Eugene Commercial Club has been considering the question of a county high school and a committee was appointed to investigate the matter a short time ago. The report adversely on the proposition to establish one high school for the entire county but evolved a plan for supporting high schools by levying a tax upon all property of the county and the money so raised is to be used to pay the tuition of the pupils who attend those schools.

With preachers publicly divided as to the wisdom of naval expansion, mere laymen cannot be expected to be of one mind on the subject.

OPPOSED TO PEOPLE'S RULE
