AMUSEMENTS

"Parasol" in whatever shape it is presented, whether with all the beauty of Caruso's notes and Conradi's operatic orchestra, or in the blazon translation depicted by Henry Savage, or whether in the form of English music drama as it will be seen at the Eugene theatre Saturday, February 15th, it will always remain an education in itself. No one can deny the beauties of the wonderful story. There is about it that pristine atmosphere of mysticism, that charm of medievalism, that constant succession of symbolic utterances and acts which make it impossible to class it with anything modern, and which lifts it to the realm of classic.

In modern thought and aims, the teachings of the piece may seem quix-

MARRIED

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents on College Hill February 12, 1908, at 8 p. m., when Miss Conale Condona Closs, of this city, was married to Percival Howard McDonald, of Philomath, Or. The bride is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Closs, of this city. The groom is the brother of Rev. Geo. E. McDonald, former pastor of the United Brethren church of this city. The ring ceremony was used by the Rev. C. C. Bell. Only the immediate family witnessed the wedding, and shortly after receiving congratulations a dainty lunch was served.

otic, but of such strength is the play, so beautiful are the passages, one is forced to attention, and as the story is unfolded act by act, the listener forgets the outside world, forgets the noise and bustle of the market place, the furor of the streets, and is carried on with the Knights of the Holy Grail in their pursuit of that highest life where the eternal motto of faith, hope and love is the beacon life and the death on the cross an example.

"Parasol" patrons should bear in mind the unusual hour of commencement—the performance will begin promptly at 7:45, and the management requests that every one be seated by that time, as none can be allowed to their seats during the action of the play.
