MARCOLO ITEMS

(Special Correspondence.)
Marcole, Feb. 19.—At the masquerade given by Mr. Weber the 14th everybody had an enjoyable time. All who did not get their grain down last fall are now rushing in it while the good weather lasts. The S. P. Co. has discharged part of its crews in the logging camps and as they have logs enough cut to run for about two months yet will not close the mills until they have sawed all the logs already cut. The new drug store is progressing rapidly, and will soon be finished. It will not be very large, but will be large enough for Marcole for some time to come. Planos at factory cost at Ellers Plano House Closing Out Sale. Cash or easy payments. 24 W. 7th St.

STATE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS MEET IN CONVENTION

The eighteenth state convention of the Oregon Christian Endeavor Union will hold its first session at the First Christian church in Eugene this evening at 7:45, and continue until after Sunday. A large number of delegates arrived here on this afternoon's train from the north and were met by the local reception committee, the members of which wore white caps, so that the visiting delegates might easily find them. The delegates as they arrived were taken to the Congregational church, where they registered and then prepared for the meeting tonight. President T. C. Hurd, of Corvallis, and other state officers arrived this afternoon and other officers and many more delegates will arrive on tonight's trains. Entertainment for over 200 delegates has been provided for and the committee thinks this will be enough, the usual attendance at the conventions being from 150 to 250 delegates. The local societies have made extensive preparations for this convention and it promises to be one of the most successful in the history of the state union.

All the day meetings will be held in the United Brethren church at the corner of East Eleventh and Ferry streets and the night meetings at the First Christian church at the corner of Willamette and Eleventh streets. The registration of delegates will be done at the Congregational church at the corner of West Seventh and Charnelton streets. The program of the convention is found on another page in this issue.

History of C. E. Work in Oregon.
John A. Rockwood, state president of the state union from 1902 to 1906, gives a history of the C. E. movement in Oregon as follows:

It was in the year 1886 that the first Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor in Oregon was organized, five years after the famous first society in Dr. Clark's church in Portland, Me. About the fifth anniversary of the founding of the Williston society in February, 1891, the pastor of the Lincoln street Congregational church of Portland, Dr. Rev. Daniel Steyer, seeing the need of training the young people in his church, called them together and helped them to organize the first society in Oregon. There had been other societies of young people before, but this is the first one, as far as records can be found, to embrace the essentials of the young people's societies as suggested by Dr. Clark. By this month, February, 1895, may be set to be the 22d birthday of Christian Endeavor in Oregon.

The Christian Endeavor Society spread in Oregon very much the same way as it did in the rest of the country. The first period, that of the remarkable growth, extended for six or seven years after its first organization. During the first few years the movement was general in all the denominations, but after a time the societies in the Methodist church withdrew from the general organization and formed the denominational Epworth League. Likewise most of the Baptist societies became the denominational Baptist Young People's Union. The principal denominations in the state in which the Christian Endeavor Societies exist are the Presbyterian, Congregational, Christian,

Evangelical, United Brethren and a few of the Baptist.
After the first wave of enthusiasm, many societies, in a reaction naturally set in, and many societies that did not have lasting qualities were given up. But soon they came to their permanent place, which is a department of the church. In the first enthusiasm its power was perhaps somewhat magnified, but now its place has become pretty well settled as being the department of the church for the training of the young people to prepare them for the duties of the church.

It was several years after the first societies were organized before a union of the Young People's Societies was suggested. In the autumn of 1889 the representatives of a few societies, mostly from Portland and vicinity, met together in Grace Methodist church in Portland and held the first annual convention. This meeting was the beginning of the state union. At first it was little more than a local union, but in a short time, with the rapid gain of the societies, it became a state union in fact.

Among the leaders of those early days were several well-known names. Rev. W. H. Landon, then pastor of Calvary Presbyterian church of Portland, but now a professor in the theological seminary in San Anselmo, Cal., was one of the movers. The first president was Dr. C. R. Templeton, now a prominent member of the First Presbyterian church of Portland. The first secretary was one of the most enthusiastic leaders of the early days, E. S. Miller, then a prominent member of Grace Methodist church. It was due to his enthusiasm and push that the union was put on a firm basis. He was president for several terms, and gave a great deal of his time and thought to the Christian Endeavor work, even to the neglect of his own private business.

In a few years the annual convention came to be one of the most important meetings of the church year. The state association has always been a purely voluntary organization. It has existed solely for the inspiration of the young people of the societies and its meetings are planned with this in view.

The State Union is on the whole been very fortunate in its officers, and especially in its presidents. The presidents have been about evenly divided between the laymen and the younger pastors. In the last two years two especially stand out from the rest, H. S. Gile, of Salem, and Rev. A. J. Montgomery, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church of Portland. They were both rare leaders, and their influence was marked.

State conventions are now held once in two years. In the alternate years when there is no state meeting there are district meetings in the different districts of the state, of which there are ten. In that way the problem of "magnificent distance" is partially solved, and nearly every society at least once in each year, is enabled to get in touch with other societies. The present president of the State Union, C. T. Hurd, is the general secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at the Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis. He is a natural born leader of young men, and he can be depended upon to inspire all the young people with whom he comes in contact.

FRATERNAL BROTHERHOOD PLANS BIG TIME

The Fraternal Brotherhood met in regular session last night and initiated nineteen candidates, through the assistance of State manager E. S. Taylor and wife, of Portland. The majority initiated last night were businessmen. Next Monday night the lodge will initiate thirty more, so everybody watch T. F. R. Lodge No. 391 grow in Eugene. The lodge will have one of the biggest days that Eugene has ever seen in the line of lodge affairs. If you have any doubts about it, watch and see, and afterwards go around kicking yourself because you were not one of the 250 class to be initiated in the Fraternal Brotherhood of Eugene.

We meet in the A. O. U. hall at the opera house building every Monday night and we have something doing at every meeting next month. March 2 there will be a Peanut Hunt; March 9, Musical program; March 16, Spider's Web; March 23, Short Form Initiation—Ghost Social; March 30, Long Form initiation (side degree.) Refreshments served "a la unique." Every member of No. 391 is requested to attend all meetings hereafter on Monday night.

By order of
R. S. HUSTON, Pres.
W. E. BARKER, Treas.
FLORENCE POLLOCK, Secretary.

Humor and Philosophy

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

It isn't so much what you see in a thing as what you get out of it.

This world is but a fleeting show and for the most part overadvertised.

In whipping the devil around the stump look out that somebody doesn't use a stump-puller and leave you face to face with old Nick.

You do not gather figs from thistles nor big dividends from watered stocks.

Many people pride themselves for being firm who have a great reputation among their friends for obstinacy.

A fever of comprehension is frequently preceded by a chill of apprehension.

Poverty is a thing that you enjoy only when you have plenty of money and unlimited credit.

Fine Day Dreams.

When sleep has closed my tired eyes
And on my couch I lie,
Forgetting as I quietly snore
The troubles that are nigh,
Some fancies gallop through my brain
That take the bridal cake,
But they are nothing to the dreams
I have when wide awake.

Rectifying in an easy chair,
Cheered by a fat cigar,
I see myself go spinning in
A high priced auto car,
I sit and take a flirt on
Some fluctuating stocks
And shrewdly play the lucky side
And gather wealth in blocks.

I see fat plums political
Come tumbling off the tree
And hear as music in my ears
The presidential bee,
Down through the crowded avenue
I easily take a ride,
And to the noisy cheering crowd
I nod on either side.

I see a maiden young and fair
Come easily tripping in;
She waltzes lightly to my side
And puts my chubby chin,
I see a lot of other things,
That quite a toon would make,
For, oh, I have such lovely dreams
When I am wide awake.

"He made a rousing speech."
"He did?"
"Yes; it stirred even inanimate things."
"Oh, come off!"
"Well, the clock sounded an alarm."

TAKING DEPOSITIONS IN THE KINCAID CASE

The taking of depositions of the former secretary of state, H. R. Kincaid, accused of illegally collecting fees while in office, was begun this morning before Justice of the Peace Moore. His testimony on this morning was on the amount of fees collected and substantially corroborated his report. He failed to produce the papers in the matter, as required, and the deposition will be interrupted until they are produced. District Attorney McNary and L. H. McElhannon, of this city, represented the state, while A. C. Woodcock, of Eugene, and G. G. Bingham, of Salem, appeared for Kincaid.—Salem Journal.
