GUARD GUARANTEES LARGEST CIRCULATION

The Daily and Weekly Guard have a larger bona fide subscription list than any other newspaper in Lane county and will accept advertisements on this guarantee or money refunded. We are ready at any time to "show down" with our mailing lists and subscription books, and stand ready to forfeit $100 to any charitable institution if any competitor in the field is able to show to a committee of reputable business men that our claim is not true.

HIGHER EDUCATION FOR THE RICH ONLY

W. H. Odell, of state land board, opposes any appropriation at [illegible] for the University. In a communication to the Salem Statesman he says:

"My contention is to build up the common schools and let the college students and their friends pay for what they want."

This is a frank avowal of adherence to the old-time idea that higher education and all the advantages accruing to it are for the well-to-do only. The boy whose parents are poor has little show to work his way through the aristocratic universities of the country, but has no trouble in meeting the expenses of a free tuition institution like that of the University of Oregon. It is the poor boy's school and places within his reach advantages equal to those enjoyed by the scions of the rich and influential.

It is a noticeable fact that Governor Chamberlain, who vetoed the U. of O. appropriation, sent his son to the Washington and Lee University, where he received his own education, and that Editor Hofer, of the Salem Journal, the only newspaper in the state fighting our own University, has his son in Stanford University, in California. These men, able financially to send their own sons to the best institutions of the country and pay their way, are not broad-minded enough to stand by and help build up a state institution in Oregon that will give the farmer's boy and the workingman's son the same opportunities their private means enable them to bestow upon their own sons.

Some of these men are too politic to give the real reason for their opposition to popular support of the University, but Odell, the exposure of whose connection with the state land ring has shown his disregard of public rights, makes a plain statement of the case. Education with all it means to the young man and young woman, he contends, should be only for those who are able to pay for it—for the wealthy classes and not for the "plain people."

PANAMA CANAL MAY PAY FOR ITSELF

There have been plenty of surprises in the region of the Panama canal, chiefly in the exhibition of American celerity in making the dirt fly, but the greatest of all is contained in the announcement that ore containing gold, silver and copper has been discovered in the Culebra cut.

Various critics have been inclined to ascribe much of the success of the Yankees at Panama to pure luck, although there is a certain class, including Poultney Bigelow and a few members of congress, which refuses to give countenance to the present measure of progress. But the luck theory now has substantial support unless the assayer goes back on his figure or the pay streak plays out.

The Los Angeles Express calls attention to the fact that at a recent senatorial hearing at Washington Colonel Goethals confessed to his inability to tell within $50,000,000 what the canal would cost. This implies that the colonel has passed sleepless nights in wrestling with the problem and that worries of finance are to perplex him in the future. He may now rest easier. There may be landslides in the Culebra cut to upset his calculations, and the foundations for the Gatun dam may give him trouble, but these are negligible obstacles in the face of the fact that the dirt in the cut is yielding precious metals.

The American people take kindly to mining propositions, as the sale of stocks bear witness. With the development of this prospect hole on the isthmus it may become a matter of indifference what the canal costs. It may pay for itself.

According to a feature writer the senate has 21 multi-millionaires and 11 millionaires, and the house eight of the first and six of the last, their combined wealth being $293,500,000. It's dollars to pumpkin seeds that these guesses are not based on the tax books of the states these gentlemen represent.

Too much must not be expected of poor human nature. Because congress occasionally talks economy is no indication that a majority of its members will consent to a reduction of their perquisites, which many of them manipulate so that they amount to 25 per cent of their salaries.

Salem's council, at its meeting on last Friday night, raised the liquor license of saloons from $400 to $1000, on beer halls to $500, and levies a license on drug stores dispensing liquors on other than a physician's order of $300.

What's the use of worrying because the two Philippine commissioners who are allowed seats in the house can't understand the proceedings? They understand the $7500 per the get, and are doubtless willing to let it go at that.

Well, it is after all about the usual thing for men headed off in their rush for the public pie counter to abuse the man who did the heading, though such abuse counts for mighty little with the public.

If Frank Hitchcock can live up to the advance advertising given him as the greatest political manager that ever roped a delegate to a national convention, he'll be one of the world's wonders.

There is evidently a large number of patriots in Crook county willing and even anxious to serve the public. The Prineville Journal contains two columns of candidates' announcements.

We read a lot about the "general moral awakening" of the people, yet in analyzing home conditions we find that a great many men are still dodging the payment of their just debts.

Salem has raised a "booster" fund of $15,000, while Eugene has but $12,000. Well, it is harder to boost the capital city, and naturally more money will be needed.

Speaking of possibilities, what a splendid team of old-fashioned revivalists Roosevelt and Bryan would make working in double harness.

A TIN-BUCKET BRIGADE

Editor Guard:—It seems to me that while boosting Eugene it would be a good idea for our Commercial Club to take a step toward boosting new industries in our thriving little city. There are several kinds that would pay well here. First, a sugar beet factory. Second, an agricultural implement factory to make our own mowers, binders, plows, and wagons. Third, a box factory, a boot and shoe factory. Fourth, a window glass factory, a general sash and door factory turning its attention to that line alone. Fifth, a first-class chair factory, and others too numerous to mention, thereby creating what is known as a tin-bucket brigade, giving employment to the young people who may be induced to come here through the boosting of our live Commercial Club of this city. We want more dwelling houses for them to live in, when they do come; we want more apprentices learning trades, both boys and girls; we want our University to have plenty of money appropriated to enable it to do justice to all the students and teachers, and be second to none in the United States.

All these things we must have, in order to be a good live city. After we get all these things in good running order, we can point to Eugene with pride as one of the garden spots of Oregon. Until they do come we are apt to drag along in the same old rut, as our grandfathers did when they used the old wooden moleboard on their plows.

NEWS NOTES OF LOWER SIUSLAW AND VICINITY

Thomas Seubert has been in Eugene for a few days past. He underwent a surgical operation for the relief of a difficulty from which he has suffered for some time.

The school in the McLeod district opened Monday morning for a five months' term with Miss Gertrude Schreuders in charge.

The people of district No. 109, on lower Indian creek, the preparing to erect a new school house.

The proprietor of the Gardiner-Florence stage line has placed a large water-proof box on the north side of Ten-mile creek, near its mouth, where freight can be left by parties desiring to send it on by stage. Also freight will be delivered there by those ordering it brought by the stage.

The county road viewers were in this vicinity Tuesday examining the route proposed for a road on the south side of the river. The route as called for by the petition starts near Colter's wharf at Glenada and follows up the river along the meander line to about where L. R. Johnson's shop stands. There it makes a jog south to Viola avenue, which it follows east to near D. Munroe's residence, then turns south till it intersects the road to the Odd Fellows' cemetery.—Florence West.

ECONOMY IN ITALY.

The Roman Season is the Only Time When Real Luxury is the Rule.

During the greater part of the year we have only the servants that are necessary: my husband's valet, one butler, the porter who stands at the entrance to the palace, and a general utility country boy who in the afternoon puts on a livery and acts as footman. The women servants are a cook, a scullery maid, a laundress, and two maids besides my own personal one. This list is not as extravagant as the same would be in America. Wages are nothing by comparison; one can get a good lady's maid for $10 a month, a competent butler for $10, a cook for $10, a chambermaid for $6. Their fare would seem coarse to the spoiled servant of America, consisting as it does, chiefly of bread, soup, macaroni, and fruit, with tea and coffee of an inferior grade, and fresh meat once a week. We spend nothing that we can possibly help until the Roman season. Then we have enough surplus to get an additional number of maids and a long row of footmen (these for the most part young women and men from the village of our own estate), and both in our country villa and in our Roman palace we open all the rooms that for eight months have been closed, and for four months live in luxury.—"An Expatriate," in the March Everybody's.

ABUSING PRIVILEGES

(Pacific Outlook.)

That a privilege, an institution or a statute, created for a beneficent purpose, may be abused, perverted and diverted from its intent until it becomes a palpable evil, goes without saying, for it has been multitudinously demonstrated. The initiative and referendum principle is one of the best examples. Created for the purpose of checking extravagance and circumventing corruption, it may be made the means of blocking progress and inflicting damage upon valuable industries and institutions. We say this having in mind the hold-up of the university appropriation bill.

In behalf of the University of Oregon it is set forth that it has over 400 students, most of whom come from the homes of the common people, and over 60 per cent of whom are working their way through college. The professors receive the smallest salaries paid to state university faculties anywhere, and the equipment is entirely inadequate. As a result Oregon now sends more students to institutions of outside states, in proportion to its population, than any other state in the Union.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the county commissioners' court of Lane county, state of Oregon, will receive sealed bids for the furnishing and delivery of one hundred (100) cords of old growth body fir four (4) feet long; or for one hundred (100) cords of second growth body fir four (4) feet long, said wood to be delivered at the court house in Eugene, Lane county, Oregon, on or before the 1st day of September, 1908. The court reserves the right to reject any or all bids; said bids to be filed with the county clerk of said Lane county not later than Wednesday, the 4th day of March, 1908, at 2 o'clock p.m.

By order of the court this, the 8th day of February, 1908.
