SCHOOL HOUSE HORROR WILL AROUSE PUBLIC

The awful school house fire reported yesterday's dispatches to The Guard, will serve as a warning to the trustees of the country over, just as the fire reported in the construction of places of assembly. The hundreds who died in the agony on that occasion were not sacrificed in vain, because the sentiment forced lethargic city officials to act promptly and efficiently for public safety and hundreds of theatres that were formerly traps are now at least reasonably supplied with means of quick escape in case of fire.

It is supposed that our Eugene public school buildings are reasonably regarded against such a calamity as that reported in yesterday's dispatches—but how many of the trustees really know this to be true or have taken the trouble to find out?

There will be charges of criminal negligence and a rigid investigation of the Cleveland disaster, and intense charges will be made by disappointed parents and relatives of the victims, but that will not bring back life and childhood happiness and the usefulness of the two hundred dead and twisted little bodies, or all the life-long burdens of the injured and injured survivors.

Why not this investigation made here by the appalling tragedy shocked the world and brought sorrow to hundreds of lives?

Practice fire drills are forgotten by little ones in the presence of that fire and smoke, and the directions of teachers are unheeded when the flames that tries the courage of the bravest of grown men and women.

Only low buildings, well supplied with broad stairways and wide exits swinging outward are fit for school houses of the lower grades.

Not one of them should ever be taller than two stories above the ground. The fire drill is useful, but today prevented a catastrophe in that Rapids, but it was in a high school, and older pupils were concerned.

There is a lesson in this sad story that came over the telegraph wires yesterday it is that the public conscience, sleeping in false and fanciful security, requires just such sacrifices as this to quicken it into action. There will be better and safer school houses built in the future, and the economy of herding children together by hundreds, like sheep in a pen, will give place to higher ideals.

Every child should be made to feel the sense of responsibility entrusted by the citizen who accepts the duties of school trustee. The safe-guarding of the children should be measured by a standard of care and concern, or entrusted to those who are careless and incompetent.

SHOP STRIKES FOR LOWER SALARY

According to the Riverside Press account of Bishop Nichols, of the Episcopal church, to have his salary reduced from $5000 to $3000 a year was not a sacrifice at work, and thus there have only found one other person in the land. It is reported that Ambrose Bierce, the writer, is the only other noble wage-earner who thought at one time that he was getting too large a salary. Bierce was working on one of the Hearst newspapers at special writing stunts for $75 a week, a princely salary at that time. He went to the owner of the paper and protested that he was not earning that much money. He wanted to work on the basis of $15 per column, so that he would not feel ashamed to take his pay. It is needless to add that the accommodating newspaper owner granted the request.

Verily this is the day of exaggeration. After it had been heralded far and wide that a Philadelphia heiress was to divide one-half of the $60,000,000 which came to her under her father's will, after a bitter contest, among the contestants, it turns out that she has distributed just one-sixtieth.

There's a deadlock between one of the "busted" high financiers and his creditors. They insist on allowing him only $10,000 a year until his claims are paid, which he says he cannot live on less than $50,000. They might compromise by compelling him to go to work and earn his living.

In allowing a part of its lines in Texas to pass into the hands of a receiver the Gould railroad system was doubtless merely turning over to the court the task of raising the $2,000,000 the state railroad commission had ordered in betterments. Quite foxy, that.

Oklahoma is liable to get chesty on account of the numerous bouquets handed Senator Owens on account of his recent financial speech. His case only goes to show that the man who knows his subject seldom fails to get credit for it.

There are no ifs, ands or buts about Senator Culberson's opinion of the panic, which he says was "precipitated by men who desired to fatten upon national disaster," and he is by no means alone in taking that view.

Nobody has suggested that the proceedings of the Chicago convention will be of the cut and dried brand. From the number of knives in sight it looks as though it might be a cut and thrust affair.

Anyway, it is good to know that J. Pierpont Morgan thinks the country can again stand alone for a while. He has gone to Europe on his annual vacation and art buyfest.

In history men who threw bricks occupy more space than those who threw bouquets, and the harder and faster they threw them the more space they get.

About the meanest thing that has been said of the Taft candidacy is that Wall street is swinging into line for him. Better swat 'em a few, Bill.

FRANKLIN ITEMS

(Special Correspondence.) Franklin, March 4.—Several weather now, there being several inches of snow on the mountains near here at present.

A large crowd attended church services Sunday.

Tony Bryant is making regular trips to Mr. Lemley's on Sundays. Suppose he is lonesome.

Mrs. W. H. Ray, who has been ailing with rheumatism for some time, is around again.

Mrs. J. Bamford, who has been sick for the past few days, is better. Several of the young people of this place were at the social at Elmira Friday night and enjoyed a fine time.

Mr. Hanson, of this place, called on J. M. Skeeler on business Thursday.

The roads between Franklin and Elmira must have stumps in them, or at least that is what we thought when we heard of that buggy turning over the night of the social.

JENNINGS OUT FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Augustus C. Jennings, who has served in the legislature several terms, has been county clerk and has filled several other offices during the past years, has filed his petition for the nomination of representative on the Republican ticket. His platform, as given in the petition, is as follows:

"If I am nominated and elected I will, during my term of office, give close attention to each and all bills and resolutions proposed, and earnestly endeavor to secure economical, equitable and just laws and to defeat all vicious and class legislation and jobs to graft money from the state treasury."

(To be printed on ballot after name.) "Will endeavor to defeat all jobs and secure economical and just laws."

"I further state to the people of Oregon, as well as to the people of my legislative district, that during my term of office I will vote for that candidate for United States senator in congress who has received the highest number of Republican votes for that position at the next general election preceding the election of a senator in congress without regard to my individual preference."
