threatening to wear this year. The lady brought out one of the creations not long since simply as a precautionary measure to prevent the sun from sliding on her fair countenance and straightway all the women in the land that saw the mountain of straw, fruit, flowers and ribbons went stark mad and vowed they must have a duplicate not later than Easter Sunday.

Anna Gould has informed us that she is going to marry the Prince De Sagan, no matter what the balance of the world thinks about it. Well, it is up to Anna. The newspapers of the United States and her brother George have done all they can to break up the match, but if she will have him, that's the end of the subject.

Yesterday the Guard printed the news, wired from its Washington bureau, that bids for the construction of Eugene's new postoffice building will be opened May 9. No other paper in Oregon has yet had this news, probably because the Guard's facilities for securing such news are more perfect than that of any of its rivals.

The good Lord save us from shipwreck, famine and flood—and Tom Lawson. The most of us are immune from all the former evils, but nothing can save the people from that carping hypocrite. There was a time not long since when he promised to quit and keep still, but now he has broken out again with a new harangue and on the same subject.

Sam Gompers says Congressman Littlefield resigned because of a yellow streak that caused him to fear a licking next fall. Maybe so, but if our memory is not at fault it was Sam who got the licking the last scrap they had.

While the railroads cannot furnish them free passes, members of the United States supreme court could doubtless secure the use of any man's private car by dropping the vaguest hint that it was desired.

Governor Johnson made haste to slap the Annanias brand on the magazine writer who made him answer to be well-inclined toward the predatory interests.

We take it that the organization of Pennsylvania girls who have sworn not to kiss a man who wears a mustache are very ticklish.

A few more talking excursions into "Big Boy" and Barch Takahiro the Jap ambassador, will become a full-fledged Taft boomer.

A course in lifesaving has been instituted among the women students of Columbia University for the purpose of making them as useful as men in rescuing drowning persons.

TAXPAYER WANTS A FIRE ALARM SYSTEM Eugene, Or., April 2, 1908. Editor Guard:—Bearing in mind the large area our beautiful city now covers, the amount of valuable property involved, the amount of taxes paid for protection, and the many efforts that are being made in different directions to improve our city, there is one essential sadly neglected, that is, a good fire alarm system.

We have a splendid fire department, maintained at some expense, but it is handicapped in rendering the best of service, or service they could render, due to the fact that we have no reliable way of locating a fire.

We need a fire alarm system, whereby a fire can be located accurately, and avert all this unnecessary loss of time and expense caused by a crude system of sending in alarms.
