

ORATORIO SOCIETY

The musical festival is a thing of the past, but not so the memory of it, for that will remain with us for many days to come. The interest that has been accumulating for months about the festival was fully justified, and the expectations of those most interested were even far surpassed. The work of the Eugene Oratorio Society chorus, under the direction of Professor Irving M. Glen is considered by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra to equal, if not exceed, that of any other chorus encountered on the trip; the men composing the orchestra could not say enough in praise of the directorship of Professor Glen, but declared it a pleasure to work under him. And that the orchestra, the chorus, and the soloists met with the approval of the audiences at the three concerts was witnessed by the hearty and enthusiastic applause after each number. Those who missed the orchestra concert on Wednesday afternoon missed one of the rarest musical treats that Eugene has had for years. Jan Van Oordt, violinist, and Franz Wagner, cellist, are wonderful musicians; their music comes from the soul rather than from the mind; it is grand, majestic, passionate, appealing, plaintive. And Mrs. Rose Luttiger Gannon proved herself a contralto of the richest and purest quality; her rendering of the Aria from La Gioconda by Ponchielli was beautiful. It is to be hoped that steps will be taken towards the organization of a permanent oratorio society for Eugene.

I wonder how many of our people know of the work done by the Fortnightly Club towards helping the University of Oregon. These ladies have sent out one hundred circulars to each of forty-eight women's clubs in Oregon asking for their support of the appropriation bill.

A number of the members of the Kappa Sigma fraternity were hosts at a dinner party given at their chapter house early in the week. The guests were: Mrs. James F. Robinson, Miss Ella Doble, Miss Mary Howard, Miss Frances Neilson, Miss Adele Goff, Miss Helen Beach, Miss Helne Robinson, Miss May De Bar, Miss Edith Woodcock.

Mrs. C. B. Willoughby was hostess on Friday afternoon to the members of the Thimble Club, and two guests, Mrs. W. H. Hoffman and Mrs. L. E. Bean, in the former assisted Mrs. Willoughby in serving a very delicious luncheon, following several hours of needlework and conversation.

The wedding of Miss Ethlyn Barbour and Dr. S. D. Read, which occurs on Wednesday afternoon of next week, is to be followed by a reception from four-thirty until six o'clock at 433 Willamette street.

Rev. and Mrs. Harry N. Mount were pleasantly surprised on Monday evening by the former members of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, but who are not affiliated with the First Presbyterian church. During the evening the self-invited guests presented their pastor with a handsome leather upholstered oak

YOUNG FRANK GOULD DESERTS HIS WIFE

New York, April 17.—The announcement that Frank Gould, youngest son of the late Jay Gould, and his wife, formerly Helen Kelly, had parted, has created great surprise in the circles in which they moved. ## NORRIS & ROWE'S ADVERTISING CAR IN TOWN

Advertising car No. 1 of the Great-nor Norris & Rowe circus arrived in town last night on train No. 14 and early this morning started to paint the town red, as it were, with big circus posters advertising the date of the show for Saturday, May 2, when the big circus will give two performances here, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. Along with the crew of bill posters is a man who has the distinction of being the oldest circus advertising agent in the country, having been with circuses for the past forty years. William Holden is his name, but he is known to the circus fraternity as "Cocoa Butter" Malahon. He was a conspicuous figure on the streets today engaged in his daily pursuit of putting the circus pictures in the windows of the various stores that gave him permission to do for tickets to the circus.

The No. 1 advertising car carries a crew of twenty-one men and is in charge of J. C. Stuart, and after completing their work of billing the town and surrounding country here today they leave for Salem.
