Banking By Mail

is simply the application to the use of individual depositors of the system in vogue among banks. It is perfectly safe. In the enormous daily exchange between banks of different cities, amounting to millions of dollars, there is never a dollar lost. This method of banking is convenient, private and time-saving. It is of especial advantage to persons living in the country or smaller towns who want the satisfaction of dealing with an absolutely safe bank, or to persons in the city, not so situated that they can conveniently visit the bank in person. When you send your first deposit, you will receive notice of credit and check-book. Your money is perfectly safe when deposited in this old bank with its large capital and surplus.

MANY ARE TAKING FOREST EXAMINATIONS

THIRTY-TWO MEN BEING EXAMINED AS TO THEIR QUALIFICATIONS FOR POSITIONS IN THE RESERVES—OFFICE TESTS TODAY AND FIELD TESTS TOMORROW

The civil service examination for positions in the forest reserves is being conducted in the armory pavilion today by Supervisor C. R. Seltz, of the Umpqua and Tillamook reserves. There were seventy informal applications for the examination, but when the work began this morning there were only 32 on hand. The written work will probably be finished up today, and the field work will begin tomorrow, probably lasting two whole days. One whole side of the armory pavilion is fitted up with tables and chairs for the examination. Each man is supplied with a printed list of questions for the office test and the answers are written on blanks supplied for that purpose. Those who are taking the examination are as follows: Overton Dowell, George A. Lewis, John Durlam, Homer Stimpson, M. W. Meade, John Steers, Smith L. Taylor, James L. Furlish, Ralph Taylor, F. P. Hill, Charles T. Beach, A. O. Knowles, H. E. Warner, James Wright, E. B. Addington, Sherman A. Brown, L. C. Hurd, H. P. Spradling, S. A. Wilson, John F. Benn, Samuel E. Logsdon, John I. One Place. "I am not in the least bit superstitious." "You don't dread to meet a black cat?" "No, except in the form of a sausage." Pulse Beats. The cool tinted water lies beneath the blue of sapphire skies. The sea gull in the azure flies. And, dropping as 'twere, water-wise, Salutes the limpid lake. The little crinkling wavelets play beneath the glowing God of day. They never stop. They never stay. They go and yet are here always. The sun god's throats to slake. As move the waves upon the lake, So do the tides of feeling make. My full heart swells and all but breaks. So much have love and life at stake, So strong the throbs and ache.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

There is just this about it—it is impossible to be an easy mark and a hard case at the same time. An easy spender is very rarely a toilsome earner. It is said that money talks. Perhaps that is the reason that it makes some people keep their mouths shut. The smile that won't come off is never acquired by associating with your dentist. And then, again, the yellow peril is sometimes nothing but a well developed case of dyspepsia. When you hear a man making a noise like a mule don't get into an argument with him. All the good in the world can't keep a man from destruction if it is all outside of him. When you execute an evil deed don't clinch the matter by paying a dollar to have it recorded. Good intentions may be the beginning of good institutions, but it is impossible for them to be the end thereof. Probably the reason why so many people are not good is because there are so many opportunities for not being good. There are lots of people who won't lie who are nevertheless master hands at concealing the truth. If It Were So. How fine our life would run along. Just like the music in a song Or like a tray of Pullman cars. With only soft and pleasant jars. If things could happen every day The way they work out in a play! There everything is life and light. The men are bold, the girls are bright. Things for an act or two go wrong. But in the end right comes out strong. The hero always wins the bride. With mirth and music on the side. No one is bothered in the play About a small thing like his pay. One always has a roll of bills That easily a pocket fills. And if he ever should run shy A check book brings a new supply. The bill collectors never knock To give the timid ones a shock. The only troubles on the mat Pertain to love and things like that. And even they have feeble power. They come out right in half an hour. Of course the villain does not fare So well. But who for him would care? He only serves to emphasize That virtue draws the certain prize. That the deserving wins the wife. Ah, would that it were so in life!
