

SOCIETY

One of the interesting and enjoyable events of the week was the reception given on Tuesday evening by the ladies of the Fortnightly club, at their club rooms in the library building. Mrs. Emmons, the vice-president of the club, introduced the speaker of the evening, Professor Herbert Crombie Howe, whose subject was "Mr. H. G. Wells and his works." The lecture was exceedingly interesting and was delivered in a very pleasant manner, as Professor Howe's lectures always are. Following the talk the guests and club members enjoyed a social hour together, during which refreshments were served by the Misses Leslie Emmons, Frances Young, Jessie Calkins, Lucia Wilkins, and Pauline Potter. In the receiving line were the Mesdames C. D. Emmons, F. W. Osburn, F. G. Young and E. O. Potter.

Mrs. J. M. Shelley was hostess at two delightful afternoon parties this week, given in honor of Mrs. Dudley Holland of Portland. What was the afternoon's pastime on Tuesday, at which time the hostess was assisted in receiving by Mrs. L. N. Roney and Mrs. S. P. Shadden. Prizes consisting of artistic Indian baskets were awarded to Mrs. J. W. Hobbs and Mrs. James F. Robinson. The decorations consisted of apple-blossoms and lilacs, prettily arranged in all the rooms. Mrs. Shelley was assisted in serving luncheon by Mrs. George H. Smith, Mrs. James Hartley and Miss Irene Applegate. The invited guests were: Mesdames E. O. Potter, I. M. Glen, E. C. Hughes, Walter Griffin, C. A. Burden, Frank W. Osburn, James F. Robinson, F. L. Chambers, I. T. Nicklin, J. W. Seavey, Therese Jackson, F. G. Young, Alton Hampton, J. W. Shumate, C. B. Willoughby, Warner Brown, P. E. Snodgrass, John Straub, George O'B. De Bar, Wm. F. Osburn, R. H. Dearborn, R. S. Bryson, Geo. W. Smith, W. H. Hoffman, E. J. Frasier, F. W. Prentice, G. D. Linn, D. A. Paine, George Melvin Miller, J. L. Robertson, L. L. White, on B. L. Langeny, J. Goldsmith, Darwin Bristow, L. L. Goodrich, J. F. Tiltus, L. R. Edmondson, John Kelly, C. W. Lowe, S. S. Spencer, G. R. Chriaman, J. W. Jarvis (Portland), and Miss Anna Whitenker.

On Wednesday afternoon an advertisement guessing contest afforded the entertainment, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. F. J. Hoyt and Mrs. Louis Johnson. Mrs. Shelley was assisted in receiving by Mrs. George Hall, Sr. and Mrs. Wm. Kuykendall, and in serving by Mrs. J. M. Howe, Mrs. James Woodruff, Mrs. James Hartley, and Miss Irene Applegate. The guests were: The Mesdames W. W. Calkins, C. S. Williams, George Kelly, J. L. Page, E. D. Matlock, Martha Chambers, W. L. Bouders, Mary Griffin, F. J. Hard, W. O. Heckart, M. F. Griggs, E. L. Chambers, Louis Johnson, E. E. Mink, William Kuykendall, A. T. Cockerline, I. L. Campbell, David Link, E. McBrann, R. Welch, Chas. H. Fisher, J. N. B. Fuller, Laura Barr, C. S. Freeland, W. G. Gilstrap, W. L. Chesbire, R. A. Booth, L. G. Adair, Wm. Polders, T. B. Luckey, Lucy Abrams, L. M. Travis, S. D. Reed, — Dearborn (Salem), T. G. Hendricks, F. M. Wilkins, Laura Harris, Sybil Kuykendall Smith; the Misses Ida Patterson, Ruth Lovelidge and Nettie Burr.

Mrs. Lucy Abrams was hostess to Mrs. Idaho F. Caswell and Mrs. Herbert C. Howe were "at home" yesterday afternoon to about seventy-five of their friends at the Camp-hostess and her assistants, Miss Mary Roach and Miss Lucile Abrams. The guests of the club were Mrs. E. C. Hughes, Mrs. Albert Geiser, Mrs. James Hoffman, and Miss Lola Sanders (Portland).

The Methodist Aid Society was entertained this week by Mrs. Fred Chambers and Mrs. Gilbert at the elegant new residence of Mrs. Chambers. There were seventy-five members present, and the afternoon was devoted to an old-fashioned wool-picking bee. The hostesses were assisted in serving by the two Misses Gilbert and Miss Lund.

MRS. J. WALTER SPALDING

to the musical life of Italy few Americans are so well known as Mrs. J. Walter Spalding, wife of the millionaire American merchant. The Spaldings occupy the famous Talleyrand palace, one of the show places of Florence. Mrs. Spalding, who was a Chicago girl before her marriage, is a musician of the first class and had she chosen a professional career would undoubtedly have won enduring fame. It is from her that her son, Albert Spalding, whose genius as a violinist has created a furore in Europe, inherits his ability in the art.

The Thimble Club on Thursday afternoon of this week. Following an afternoon at needlework a delicious luncheon was served by the giving off a dainty and pleasant odor. The guests were greeted at the door by Misses Pearl Hawthorne and Veda Quackenbush; the hostesses received in the doorway of the drawing room, and from here the guests entered the large reception room and were welcomed by Mrs. Lischen Miller and Miss Mertie Auten. After a pleasant chat here the ladies were invited to the dining room by Miss Eva Frazer, Mrs. J. M. Robertson and Miss Helena Robinson. Mrs. E. O. Potter resided at the table and poured delicious coffee, while Mrs. O. S. Stafford, Miss Emma Wolf and Miss Nettie Chase served dainty sandwiches and bouillabaisse. The flowers and pretty bowls of the ladies made the occasion seem a truly May day festival.

The Senior class of the University of Oregon was entertained on Friday evening by Mrs. Charlotte Zeiber. The occasion was in compliance to Miss Harris, the traveling secretary of the Student Volunteers. During the course of the evening Miss Harris gave a very interesting account of this organization and its work. Miss Ruth Baldersee met the guests at the door and showed them upstairs. In the dining room delicious punch and wafers were served by Miss Pearl Green. It was a very pleasant affair.

On Friday afternoon a very unique measuring party was given by the Women's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church at the Woodman hall. The large room was elaborately decorated with spring flowers, flags and bunting. Each guest made an offering according to her height, five cents for each foot, and one-half cent for each additional inch. In this way a contribution of thirty-eight dollars was raised. A program of vocal and instrumental music was followed by an extremely interesting and beautiful talk upon the home missionary work by Mrs. Albert Sweetser. Later a very elaborate luncheon was served.

The ladies of St. Mary's church and guild will give a silver tea on next Wednesday afternoon, May 6, at the home of Mrs. L. E. Tidball, 265 West Tenth street. Mrs. Tromp and Miss Bean will entertain with Mrs. Tidball. All members and friends of the church are cordially invited to come.

THE SAILING OF THE FLEET.

Under the sun and the skies,
Over the waves of the blue,
The ships of a nation are sailing,
Pride of the tried and true,
Behind, the sound of music,
Friends, and the ones at home,
Before, winds of the ocean,
And wash of the white waves' foam.

Under the clouds and the moon,
Over the wintry sea,
The ships of a nation are sailing,
Hope of the brave and free,
Aster, swells of the ocean,
Surge of the Spanish main,
Ahead, gales from frozen coasts,
And shadowing streaks of rain.

Under the tumbling clouds,
Over the raging bristle,
The ships of a nation are sailing,
Pride of her battle line,
Through Antarctic work and gloom,
While waves and rocks are torn,
Ride the tides and face the west
In the seas below the Horn.

Under Aurora light,
Under the southern cross,
In the path of the wan sinking moon,
Where sooth sea billows toss,
Over the deep coral reefs,
Manned by the Yankee tars
Sail the ships of a nation,
Under the tropical stars.

Under the sunset skies
A nation's proudest blend,
Answering back from the great white ships,
The guns their triumph send,
Under the stars and stripes,
Pride of the true and brave,
Sail the ships of a nation,
America, Queen of the Wave.

A Tramp, or Possibly a Bum.

"Don't confuse," said John Elylis the other day in Washington—"don't confuse the hobo, the tramp and the bum, for these men are very different from one another.

"The hobo," Mr. Elylis went on, "works and wanders. The tramp dreams and wanders. The bum drinks and wanders.

"This man, for instance, would not be a hobo,"

"He rang the bell of a suburban house, and when the master appeared he said earnestly:

"Could you, sir, for the love of heaven, give a hard-working but unfortunate man some employment?"

"The householder laid his hand cordially on the other's ragged shoulder.

"Here's work for you right on the spot," he said. "I've got in my yard a great pile of wood that—"

"Thank you, sir," said the man as he took the hand from his shoulder gently. "I'll let my friend know at once. It's not for myself I'm wanting a job, but for a friend of mine a little way up the road."

Awful!
Squiggs—Say, Squiggs, did you see how old Bonds treated young Sappy, when he called to ask for his daughter's hand?

Squiggs—No; what did he do?
Squiggs—Put both of his eyes out.
Squiggs—You don't say; was the old guy arrested?
Squiggs—No; they decided that it wasn't a crime. You see, he put his whole body out with his eyes. Gut-tup.

The Proper Mood.
Old man (whose thoughts have been turned by whiskey to controversial topics)—Can't tell me, squire, the difference between "contracting out" and "not-provided" schools?
Squire—Go away home, my man, and come to me again when you are sober.
Old Man—Sober? Nobody cares for them sort o' things when 'e's sober!—Punch.

EUGENE 'GOT IT' ALL
(Chittage Grove Western Oregon.)
Eugene should certainly be a staunch supporter of the direct primary law. She gobbled up the whole ticket, hide, hoofs and tallow. Under the direct primary system there is about as much chance for a farmer or a resident of Lane county outside of Eugene getting the nomination for office as there is for the proverbial snowball in the proverbial h—l.

MRS. FRANK GOULD.

The estrangement of Mr and Mrs. Frank Gould adds another chapter to the many marital woes of the children of the late Jay Gould. Anna Gould obtained a divorce from the Count de Castellane; Howard Gould sued his wife, who was Katharine Clemmons, for divorce, and now Mrs. Frank Gould seeks legal separation. She was Miss Kells of New York, and as children she and Frank Gould were playmates. She is one of the most beautiful women in the fashionable set in New York.
