FRANK DAVEY TALKS SOUND POLITICAL SENSE

The Harney County News, published by former Speaker Davey, and the straightest Republican paper in the interior of Eastern Oregon, expressed itself as follows on the result of the recent primary election:

"The News was satisfied that such a sentiment predominated throughout the state and was in favor of respecting it openly and candidly. Had this course been pursued and the people of each locality been allowed to select their legislative representatives as they did two years ago without making Statement No. 1 a direct issue, the results today would be different to what they are and we believe better men for general purposes of legislation would have been named in many places."

"But at Portland, Salem and Eugene powerful organizations were launched with the avowed purpose of destroying the potency of the people's voice in electing United States senators and the influence of those organizations went out into every part of the state. Good men in several counties who were staunch advocates of Statement No. 1 two years ago were frightened into taking the opposite position and the people saw that they must sink every condition of fitness in order to preserve what they consider a sacred right, and the consequence is that several excellent law-makers have been sacrificed for much less brainy and less worthy who simply responded to the popular demand."

"The result was foreshadowed in these columns several times during the past six months and especially when the positive fight for convention methods was inaugurated at Salem two months ago. But the warnings of this paper and a hundred other good weeklies and dailies throughout the state were unheeded by the leaders, who have now learned the lesson of sad experience."

A student of men and affairs in discussing the ethics of politics said recently: "The supreme, the very highest duty of good citizenship is to assist, by all honorable effort and means, in the nomination and election of honest, upright, competent men to official positions. We can no more have good government with corrupt, evil-minded officials than can the prince of evil discharge the duties of an angel of light. I would far rather live under the worst form of government conducted by able, high-minded men than under the most perfect system directed by those who are incapable of performing or unwilling to perform the functions and duties devolving on them."

Charles Schermanhorn, the oldest telegrapher in point of service in New Jersey, celebrated his seventy-fifth anniversary last week. He has been connected with the telegraph business for sixty years without the loss of a single day. He is hale and hearty, and declares that he intends to keep at work as a telegrapher for a quarter of a century more. "I don't take any stock in these diet theories," said Schermanhorn. "Just be happy and don't worry, and you will live to be a hundred years old."

The morning paper is still harping upon the impracticability of securing an ample supply of mountain water for Eugene. That paper's employers having disposed of their plant to the city, it should be willing to let the people work out their own salvation without seeking to create dissension. Eugene will have one of the best water systems in the state just the same, and won't be long getting it, either.

There may be different opinions as to what headway the "allied combine" is making against the Taft boom, but there is none as to its furnishing the Democrats with a lot of good campaign ammunition.

With two red-headed candidates for governor, and a running fight between prohibition and moonshine, the Tennessee Democrats are not in need of anything from the outside in the amusement line.

A woman may seem awkward when she tries to drive a nail with a hammer, but when she goes after a friend with the same tool she can make every lick count.

"Maybe some of this talk about our 'unpreparedness for war' is being indulged in with the hope of tempting Japan into sneaking the Philippines away from us."

We suspected it long before John D. Rockefeller said "I love all humanity." And we have a hunch that after "love" Johnny added to himself "to do."

Believers in the good old doctrine of retribution must be able to extract a lot of satisfaction out of the troubles following Gould's money.

THE UNIVERSITY APPROPRIATION.

(From the Oxnard, Cal., Courier.) The citizens of the state of Oregon have held up the Oregon state university appropriation by means of the referendum law. There is now a strong movement on in that state to pass the bill over this objection, and it is certainly hoped that it will be accomplished. The University of the state is just now beginning to take on a new lease of life. Its larger growth has been noticed by the other larger institutions of the Pacific coast, who have looked forward with no little pleasure to the time when it will take the place in the north that the University of California and Stanford are taking in this state. The cause of the state universities in this country needs a champion who will educate the voters and legislatures of the different states to a realization of the place they are destined to take in the higher education of the youth of our country and the proper supply of their needs. The University of Oregon is today in a critical position that may make or mar its future as a great institution of learning in the west. The people of the State of California, who have known what it means to fight for proper support for their highest institutions of learning, certainly hope to see the University of Oregon accorded its proper appropriation, which God knows, is small enough.

WELBY STEVENS IS STRONG AT HOME.

(Springfield News.)

Welby Stevens, candidate for assessor on the Democratic ticket, was in Springfield Monday, getting a line on the voters in this precinct. Mr. Stevens was practically born and raised in Springfield, or within a few miles of town and is therefore acquainted with nearly every voter in the precinct. He is a young man, thoroughly competent to serve the people for the better interest of all and will perform the duties of the office of assessor if elected, with fairness and to the best of his ability. He is a man of great sound judgment who will show no partiality to friends or kin but when it comes to supporting his own ticket, he will be found waiting. Mr. Stevens professes the voters of the county that he will devote his best efforts to the work and if elected, during his term of office, will exercise the functions thereof for the best interests of the county and taxpayer. He will favor a strict business administration irrespective of any person, corporation, or other interest whether political or otherwise and will endeavor to make a just and equitable assessment of all property within the county.

The World's Best Climate

is not entirely free from disease. On the high elevations fevers prevail, while on the low levels malaria is encountered to a greater or lesser extent, according to altitude. To overcome climatic affections, lassitude, malaria, jaundice, biliousness, fever and ague, and general debility, the most effective remedy is Electric Bitter—the great alterative and blood purifier; the antidote for every form of bodily weakness, nervousness and insomnia. NEWS OF FLORENCE AND VICINITY

SCHOONER MAYFLOWER TAKES OUT MACHINERY FROM WRECKED BERWICK—OTHER NOTES

A real estate deal took place Wednesday by which J. M. Martin, of Ada, purchased from J. M. Young the ranch owned by the latter on Fiddle creek.

The work of removing the machinery from the wreck of the Berwick was finished last Saturday, the men receiving the money due for their labor. The amount distributed in this way was about $1600.

The schooner Mayflower left for Coos Bay Monday morning in tow of the steamer Robarts. Besides the machinery from the Berwick, the schooner carried out the last of the salmon packed by Wm. Kyle & Sons Company to be reshipped at Coos Bay for San Francisco.

At a business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Presbyterian church, which was held Wednesday evening, the following officers were elected for the next term: Hazel Weatherston, president; Aubrey Bond, vice president; Alma Funke, secretary; Lewis Bond, treasurer; Elsie Raymond, organist; Nellie Schreuder, assistant organist.

The rhodendron festival, which it was announced would be held in Florence on May 16, has been postponed until May 20th. This change is made to accommodate parties from Eugene, who were unable to be here at the earlier date. Preparations for the event are steadily going forward, and a good time is anticipated by all. The wire for the government telephone line was put up a few days ago from the end of the cable to the Florence terminal at Postmaster Kyle's residence. A large sign has been erected at each side of the river with the words "U. S. cable crossing" printed thereon in large letters. This is to give notice to masters of vessels and prevent them from dropping their anchors where they will interfere with the cable.—The West.

EUGENE'S BOOM (?) AND WHAT IT MEANS.

To the Editor: I have heard a number of expressions, remarks that Eugene was certainly booming. The other day I spoke to an elderly gentleman—well up in financial circles, with the remark that Eugene was improving rapidly. "Yes," he answered, "but I am afraid that it is growing too fast, and it is liable to take a tumble." I find that he is only voicing the sentiment of a majority of old settlers. Say, when I was a boy, a railroad was building through the country. The scattered settlers shook their heads sadly because the railroads would kill the freighting interest, and would drive thousands of men out of employment and the settlers would have to leave the country. Did they if they did they sold off their lands for $100 to $200 per acre.

I want to make a statement right here, and I know that it is correct. Eugene is not on a boom. This is a solid square fact. It has a good healthy growth. Could stand more and yet not be a boom. I have seen and been through about twenty boom cities in my time. Eugene's growth, by the side of them is slow. Twenty-five years ago Eugene should have been a city of not less than 20,000 inhabitants, with the resources that she has in every direction. She has the same resources yet. Every opportunity in the world to become a large city of importance. Let me tell you, old settlers, as a new comer who has seen Kansas City, Denver, Bloomington, St. Louis and Chicago, and the bustled boom locations of the dead and past—I will not name them—that Eugene is here to stay—will never go back—may have its depressions at times, but it will soon recover, and continue its growth.

But as citizens we must do certain things to assist nature in the development of our city and country at large. We can't expect to let the money be idle in the banks, doing no one any good. That is not business; it is certainly unwise.

"Why, I am afraid to invest, for fear there would come hard times and I would lose." Well, how much better off are you with your money in a solid bank, than in a safe, but what good is it doing you there? Four per cent. Some time ago a firm who desired a business room in a certain locality, offered a party who had money in the bank a certain rental for a store room. If he would invest and build for them, it was shown where the investor could realize 10 or 12 per cent clear of taxes and expenses for 5 years. But he decided to keep his money in the bank at four per cent with no security. I ask in all honesty what kind of sound business financing is that, to throw away the difference of 10 per cent and four per cent on $20,000? I'm afraid when the Master calls them to account for the trust he has put in them, they will not get the praise of "well done, thy good and faithful servant."

There is another mistaken idea, and that is Eugene can't stand a great growth because she has no factories. You get the people here and create a demand for factories. They will come, and again factories will bring the people; it is required that one hand will wash the other. We are going to get the factories all right, you can bank on that. But paste this in your hat. Home people must be first, last and all the time patrons of home manufacture. Here is another fact that I wish you to take special notice of. The one who does the most grumbling about no factories in Eugene never spent a cent for a home product. In a good many cases you will find them to be patrons of the mail order houses of Chicago.

WHITMAN WON TRIANGULAR MEET

Pullman, Wash., May 2.—Whitman won the triangular track meet here today, getting 53 points to 37 for W. S. C. and 33 for U. of I. It was a day full of surprises, Washington not winning a single first and Whitman taking but two seconds and one third. Idaho won the relay race, Edmondson being the star in all running events, while Philbrook, of Whitman, took every event in which he entered but one. The day was cold and raw, but more than 1500 people, fully 400 from Moscow, saw the events.

Hard luck attended W. S. C. throughout the meet. Halm threw the hammer 20 feet further than his nearest competitor, but was disqualified by stepping out of the ring at every trial. He lost the shot-put by but two one-hundredths of an inch, and he was expected to take first in both these events.

One Northwest record was broken and another tied, two-fifths of a second being clipped from the 220-yard hurdle record.

FOR YOUR SUNDAY DINNER.

try the following delightful dessert: 1-2 cup English Walnut meats. 1-2 dozen figs, cut up fine. 1 10c package JELL-O, any flavor. Dissolve the JELL-O in a pint of boiling water. When cool and just commencing to thicken stir in figs and nuts. Serve with whipped cream. Delicious. The walnuts, figs and JELL-O can be bought at any good grocery. This makes enough dessert for a large family and is very economical.
