There is no show at the Orpheum for the balance of this week, but on next Monday night the Empire Stock Company will appear for a summer engagement.

The popular Orpheum Theatre is being thoroughly renovated for the all summer engagement of the Empire Stock Company, which begins next Monday night. Prices, 10c and 20c.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Commercial Club last night it was decided to partition off the south end of the gymnasium in the club building, the new room to be used by the promotion department and the room now occupied will be used as a committee room.

White's restaurant, which now occupies the Smith building, across the alley from the Hotel Smeede, will move to the room now occupied by Pota's cigar store in the Schneider block on West Eighth street, as soon as the latter moves to his new building on Olive street, which will be in about two weeks.

Don't fail to see the Empire Stock Company at the Orpheum Theatre next Monday night. The company is one of the most popular of those on the Pacific Coast, and promises to afford Eugene theatregoers something new and novel in the way of a clean and moral theatrical performance. Prices, 10c and 20c.

Fred Groot and wife, of Scholls, L. P. Jackson and wife, of Hillsboro, and A. B. Finn and wife, of Scholls, who have been attending the grange meetings here, having come up in their automobiles, the first named couple in one and the others in another machine, left this forenoon for home. They expected to go only as far as Corvallis today.

A portion of the old building that stood on the I. O. O. F. lot to be occupied by the five-story brick, is now on its way to its new location at Hall's warehouse site. The building was cut in two and the other half will be moved as soon as the first building moved has reached its new location.

Central Point Herald: L. E. Crenshaw and family arrived from Eugene Friday and went out to Sams Valley Saturday to take possession of the Mrs. Callahan farm for which Mr. Crenshaw recently exchanged some residence property at Eugene. Mr. Crenshaw also sold a fine residence in Eugene recently to L. W. Coe, recently of this city.

The pavement on East Seventh street was completed this afternoon.

Among the carload shipments into Eugene today were the following: A car of lime and cement for the Griffin Hardware Company; a car of rock from Tenino, Wash., for the New Divinity School building, and two cars of vitrified brick to be placed along the falls on the street car line on East Eleventh street so the pavement can be laid.

The street cars are back to the old twenty-minute schedule again on account of the necessity of transferring on East Eleventh street, which is needed because of the laying of the vitrified brick between the rails preparatory to paving the street. The old schedule will probably remain in force until the whole of East Eleventh street is paved, as it will be necessary to transfer till the work is completed. After that the fifteen-minute schedule will be resumed.

A wagon loaded with railroad ties became stalled in crossing the passing track at the depot just before the Roseburg local came in this forenoon. The tongue of the wagon was broken and the gang of Japs working near by had to pull the wagon off the track so the south bound freight, which was then pulling into the station, could pass. The Japs made lots of fun out of the job, which was quite a diversion from the tedium of their regular work.

A recital of the piano students of Miss Ina Watkins and Miss Veda Quackenbush was held in Villard hall last night under the auspices of the University School of Music. A large audience was in attendance and each number was enthusiastically applauded. Miss Georgine Ransom, a pupil of Mrs. Katherine Ward Pope, and Miss Daisy Gilbert assisted in the program with vocal numbers, both of which were well received and encores were responded to. The work of the pupils showed thorough training on the part of the Misses Watkins and Quackenbush.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Needham, on the western outskirts of the city, occurred a double birthday celebration last evening in honor of Mrs. Needham and Professor C. E. Glass. A very enjoyable evening was spent by a number of friends who had been invited in The Baraca Quartet, of which Professor Glass is director, was present and rendered several choice selections. An interesting feature of the evening was the presenting of a beautiful cake to Mrs. Needham and Professor Glass, with the name and age of each in loaves. This was presented by Dr. Lino M. Marquam and Mrs. H. M. Manville.

VINEGAR AND CIDER FACTORY TO BE BUILT

N. A. REYNOLDS WILL ERECT PLANT AT CORNER OF WEST SECOND AND BLAIR STREETS IN BLAIR STREET ADDITION—MACHINERY HAS BEEN ORDERED

N. A. Reynolds, of this city, formerly in the real estate business, has let the contract to Soren Jensen for the erection of a frame building, 50x100 feet in dimensions, and one story high, to be erected on his lot at the corner of West Second and Blair streets, in the Blair Street addition, for a cider and vinegar factory. Mr. Jensen will begin the work of erecting the building on the 20th of this month, and will have it completed and ready for the machinery some time before the apple crop in the fall is ready to be utilized at the factory.

Mr. Reynolds has ordered his machinery from Mt. Gilead, Ohio, and it will be here in the course of a few weeks. Besides cider and vinegar, it is proposed to manufacture apple butter and cider jelly and perhaps other products of a similar nature.

The plant will not be built on a very extensive scale, but as the business increases more machinery will be added from time to time. However, Mr. Reynolds expects to pay a large sum each year for apples, and the plant will be a wealth-creating means among the farmers and fruit-growers.

REGISTRATION CLOSES TODAY

Those voters who had not registered up to 5 o'clock this afternoon will have to swear their votes in at the polls if they wish to cast their ballots at the election on Monday, June 1. The registration books closed at the county clerk's office at the above mentioned hour. There has been quite a rush in the registration work today, many who have put off the matter of registering coming in on the last day. The total number of registrations will not be known for several days yet, as many outside precincts who are authorized to register voters will not send their final lists in till tonight or tomorrow, and it will take a day or so after they all arrive to count them.

MOORES TO RUN IN O. A. C. TRACK MEET

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

THE BRIGHT PROSPECTUS.

Alluring, convincing and all aboveboard. The mining prospectus appears. So frank, open faced, that it drives from the mind.

All doubts and suggestions of fears. The reader perusing the offer can see. A promise of profit so great. That those who come in at the earliest call.

Will fixed be for life from that date.

Admitting no failure or possible chance. Of not making good from the start. Of not toiling money for those who at once.

From cash in hand readily part. It comes to the doubter and bids him take hope.

And pull all the cash from his sock. And scrape all his savings from here and from there.

To purchase the beautiful stock.

To con it the hypnotized reader would think.

That if he invested a dime. 'Twould soon into large, husky dollars resolve.

Grow bulky in less than no time. And were he to plank down a hundred or more.

He would in a near future date. Be fixed independent the rest of his life. With money on hand to cremate.

That's how the prospectus appears to the eye.

With promise of plenty aglow. It doesn't turn out in each instance that way.

As some of the wiser ones know. In many a closet are stocks laid away. In the family skeleton's care. That up to the present have, and to relate.

Paid dividends only in air.

Feeble Effort.

"We should do what we can to make the world brighter."

"Uncle Bill seems to think so. He is working the best he can from time to time at painting his nose."

One Possible Honor.

"Every boy born in this country has a chance to be president."

"No; he doesn't. Only one can be president at a time, which cuts several millions out."

"I am speaking of the possibility."

"You are probably thinking of his chance to be mentioned for vice president."

Realistic.

"Your brother has such fine, healthy boys."

"A lot of terrors!"

"You don't appreciate them."

"Yes, I do. I visited him a week. Talk about your high spirited American. Those boys are a dime novel dramatized."

Not Practical.

"He is one of the finest men I ever met."

"He may be a nice man, all right, but he will never make a success in life."

"Why not?"

"I saw him buying an umbrella today."

Even So.

In days of old. When lads were bold. And eggs their rightful plunder. We'd hide away. For Easter day. Enough to make you wonder.

But now, alas. It's come to pass. Cold storage makes us wonder. Both eggs and price. Then they the public plunder.

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Lies are a commercial commodity that are not valued according to their size. Some of the biggest are worthless.

Man did not get himself into the world, but he often takes great credit to himself for his native state.

Least mended soonest ended.

As a rule we are all about as kind as the other fellow will let us be.

When there is one man to earn a dollar there are two to help him put it in circulation.

It really takes a hero to smile and smile and keep on being an easy mark.

The trouble is there are too many people about making a noise like a general election.

It won't do to advise every one to concentrate the mind because there are people whose mind would be a minus quantity if any concentration were to occur.

You wouldn't suppose that a strong pull could be translated into a soft snap, but that seems to be its equivalent.
