and strictly prohibits the sale of alum baking powder—

So does France
So does Germany

The sale of alum foods has been made illegal in Washington and the District of Columbia, and alum baking powders are everywhere recognized as injurious.

To protect yourself against alum, when ordering baking powder,

Say plainly—
ROYAL BAKING POWDER

and be very sure you get Royal.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar. It adds to the digestibility and wholesomeness of the food.

NATION'S DEAD HONORED BY ALL EUGENE

ANNUAL MEMORIAL DAY OBSERVED GENERALLY BY CITIZENS AND BUSINESS SUSPENDED

SERVICES HELD AT I. O. O. F. CEMETERY, PARTICIPATED IN BY G. A. R., O. N. G. and KINDRED SOCIETIES—IMPOSING PARADE FROM BUSINESS CENTRE TO CEMETERY

Today all Eugene turned out and assisted the old soldiers in the observance of the annual Memorial Day. The weather was not what it usually is on this day, the air being cool and threatening clouds overhanging the city, nevertheless the usual large crowd of people thronged the streets to see the parade go by and went to the I. O. O. F. cemetery, where the exercises were held.

The parade was formed at the intersection of Seventh and Willamette streets. The column was made up of the following: Companies A and C, Fourth Regiment, O. N. G.; Colonel Geo. O. Yorin and staff, J. W. Geary post No. 7, G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, Mayor Matlock, city councilmen, the police officers and citizens in carriages. The column passed over the route previously mapped out, and reaching the cemetery, the G. A. R. formed a hollow square around their lot, where their ritualistic services were held. D. M. McCrady acted as officer of the day and his aides were Lieutenant W. W. Branstetter, representing the Spanish-American War Veterans, and W. A. Bell, the Sons of Veterans.

The services at the G. A. R. lot were very impressive. Besides the ritualistic work there was a song by seven girls. At the conclusion the old soldiers marched around the monument and deposited bouquets of flowers around its base. A salute was fired by a squad from the militia and taps was sounded by the buglers of the two companies. The members of the post then marched to the Spanish-American War Veterans' lot, but as no services had been prepared the column proceeded down town.

Beautiful Flower Service. The most beautiful feature of the whole day was the scattering of flowers on the water in memory of the nation's dead. At 3 o'clock this afternoon the column was again formed, this time without the militia, and it proceeded to the mill race on East Ninth street, where the services were held. Rev. C. C. Bell, pastor of the United Brethren church, delivered the prayer and this was followed by the song "Nearer My God to Thee." Rev. P. K. Hammond, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, delivered a fervent address appropriate to the occasion, and this was followed by a few remarks by Commander Baker, of the G. A. R. post. The ladies of the corps then scattered many flowers over the water with appropriate ceremonies, creating a lasting impression upon the minds of those who witnessed it.

While the weather has not been entirely propitious during the past week or two for the full development of the prettiest of the roses and other flowers, it was noticeable that the decorations at the graves today were perhaps more elaborate than ever before. Thousands of people flocked to both cemeteries during the entire day and decorated the graves of departed loved ones.

Business throughout the city was suspended from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. and merchants and their employees took advantage of the cessation of work to visit the cemeteries and take part in the ceremonies.

FATHER O'FARRELL ON UNIVERSITY APPROPRIATION

Rev. Father O'Farrell, of this city, has sent the following appeal for the State University to the Catholic clergy of the state:

Eugene, Or., May 29, 1908.
Reverend Sir:—Believing that you have given due consideration to the question now before the people of Oregon regarding the appropriation for the University of Oregon, yet feeling that a few words from one on the scene of operation of the institution might not be amiss, I take the liberty to place a few facts before you for consideration:

Under the small appropriation the University has received in the past good work has been done, but owing to the increased attendance and the endeavors to make the system more perfect the money available is altogether inadequate and at the end of the present scholastic year the University will be practically without funds, and should the appropriation be defeated, will have to close its doors and send its students broadcast throughout the country in search of free higher education and each student so going forth will carry with him the news that Oregon is opposed to free education and the people of Oregon dread enlightenment.

We have great hopes for the future of our state, but defeat the appropriation and the hopes of Oregon will be blasted forever.
The increased appropriation means an additional tax of only 2 1/10 cents on each $1000 of assessed valuation and for the sake of that small amount are hundreds of boys and girls to be deprived of the education they are desirous of receiving?

The experience of two years' acquaintance with the officers and students of the University leads me to believe that even under excessive difficulties the University is faithful to the trust reposed in it by the people, and that with the increased appropriation it will line up with and do the work of the more prosperous institutions of the country.

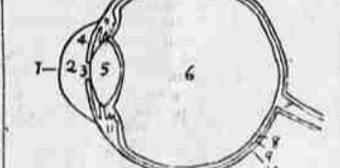

Feeling confident of your influence and that your ballots will be marked "yes" on election day, I am,
J. M. O'FARRELL.

HARRY BOWN, PEOPLE'S CHOICE FOR SHERIFF

Harry Bown, candidate for sheriff, is a self-made man of the people. He has grown up in Lane county and the people know him and know that they can trust him. He has had the necessary experience to qualify him to perform the duties of the office, and his election is not that of a new, untried man. Make no mistake in filling this most important of county offices. Mark your ballot: 39 X HARRY L. BOWN.

THE EYE AND ITS CARE.

(By Dr. Franc Lucile Hard, New Christian Block.)

1. Cornea.
2. Aqueous humor.
3. Pupil.
4. Iris.
5. Crystalline lens.
6. Vitreous humor.
7. Optic nerve.
8. Retina.
9. Choroid.
10. Sclerotic.

Last week the eyebrows, eyelashes, eyelids and muscles of the eye were talked about. Now the eyeball and its contents are to be described.

On inspection of the eye the first thing noticed is a curved, transparent surface called the cornea. This is best seen by looking at the eye of a person in profile. The cornea is about one thirty-second of an inch thick at the center and slightly less than that at the edge. It is composed of many layers of fibrous tissue and is closely matted by a dense network of invisible nerves, which accounts for the intense pain suffered when getting any foreign substance into the eye.

Just back of the cornea is a tiny space known as the Anterior Chamber and filled with a watery fluid called the Aqueous Humor. This is composed of albumin, some salts, and a small amount of water.
Next in succession comes the Iris or rainbow of the eye. This is the dark portion of the eye seen just back of the cornea. Its color varies in different individuals, brown and blue being the most common. The Iris is a delicate little curtain separating the anterior chamber from the posterior. In the center is what appears to us as a black spot, but in reality is a circular hole through which the rays of light pass on their way to the retina. (Of this more will be given later.) This hole, the pupil, regulates the amount of light which enters the eye. When in a bright light it becomes very small, in a dim light it expands, often becoming so large that the Iris can scarcely be seen. This is caused by the action of two sets of fibers in the Iris. One of the radiating fibers which acts in enlarging the pupil, and the other of circular fibers which act in closing the pupil, like a drawingstring. Thus allowing only as much light as is necessary for good vision to enter the eye.

Next week the Crystalline lens and ciliary muscle, or the focusing apparatus of the eye will be considered.
