NEW SCHEME OF COTTAGE GROVE DRUGGISTS

The drugstore managers of Cottage Grove have entered into an agreement, whereby they have arranged to alternate in the matter of keeping open Sundays. All realized the people get sick and need medicine on Sundays, therefore it has been a common practice for drug stores to remain open. The management of the several drugstores of the city agreed to alternate, thereby closing two drugstores out of three each Sunday. The agreement goes into effect next Sunday when the Modern Pharmacy will remain open and the New Era and Benson's Pharmacy will be closed. The Sunday following the New Era will remain open, and so on in their routine. —Western Oregonian.

PLEASED WITH OREGON

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Moore and family, who recently came to this city, are so well satisfied that they have built a substantial residence on their lot in the Gross addition, which they purchased prior to moving here. They have also just installed in their new home a handsome Story & Clark piano purchased at the Stevens & Hullin Piano House. j6w11

VOTE ON THE UNIVERSITY OF OREGON BILL

MEASURE IS SAFE WITH MAJORITY OF 2631—WILLAMETTE VALLEY ROLLS UP ADVERSE VOTE, BUT MULTNOMAH SAVES APPROPRIATION FROM DEFEAT

Complete official returns from all counties but Harney, Malheur and Wheeler have reduced the majority in favor of the University of Oregon appropriation bill to 2631 says Sunday's Oregonian. Partial returns from Malheur county indicate that the bill has been defeated there, but it has carried in Wheeler, while Harney is in doubt. The complete returns from all three of these counties will not change the result in any way, for their vote is light and will break about even on the University question.

The counties of the Willamette valley have rolled up enormous majorities against the bill, Marion county leading the list with an adverse majority of 2313, and Linn following with a majority of 1992. In Columbia county the appropriation was defeated by one vote, and in Crook by 15. Several other counties returned small majorities against the bill.

Among the counties that have sustained the legislature and approved the bill, Multnomah heads the list with a majority of 8390. Lane county comes next with a majority of 1778. Jackson third with 692 and Clatsop fourth with 609. The counties of Baker, Umatilla, Coos, Sherman, Klamath and Lake have all given big votes in favor of the bill.

The complete returns, with the exception of the three counties mentioned above, are as follows:

County	Yes	No.
Baker	1319	334
Benton	543	1050
Clackamas	1216	2812
Clatsop	1184	575

MIL NURRE BUYS A WEBER GRAND PIANO

Henry Nurre, father-in-law of our popular congressman, J. F. Berger, has purchased of the Stevens & Hullin Piano House, of this city, a large, handsome Weber Grand piano. The instrument arrived Thursday and is on display at the piano store. It is one of the finest pianos ever shipped to Eugene. This is the seventh fine Weber recently sold by Messrs. Stevens & Hullin to local residents, the other recent Weber purchasers being Archie W. Livermore, City Attorney; L. E. Bean, Rev. P. K. Hammond, William Juddins, Mrs. J. W. Shumate and Forest Supervisor Clyde R. Seitz. Another fine Weber Grand is also in the home of T. G. Hendricks.

To the thoughtful reader this indicates a growing demand in our midst for the very best in art, and is a high compliment to the cultured, music-loving people of this city. Already Eugene has become known as one of the strongest and leading musical as well as educational centers in the state of Oregon. We are proud of Eugene and her people. j6

CHARGES AGAINST BANKER HILL ARE DISMISSED

Portland, June 8.—Three charges of larceny against G. H. Hill, vice president, and one for accepting deposits after he knew the Title Guarantee & Trust Company was insolvent, were dismissed on motion of Assistant District Attorney Haney in the circuit court today. One of the larceny charges was identical with that on which J. Thoburn Ross was convicted by a recent Marion county jury and sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary and pay a fine of $570,853.

J. W. WHITE DIES AT SEATTLE THIS MORNING

EUGENE MERCHANT EXPIRES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS OF PNEUMONIA—WILL BE BURIED HERE

J. W. White, the well-known Eugene grocer, whose store is at the corner of Fifth and Willamette streets, died in Seattle this morning at 7:25 o'clock, after a short illness of pneumonia, his sons and daughters here having received word soon after the end came. He was aged 62 years.

Mr. White was born in Black Hawk county, Iowa. In early manhood he enlisted in the Seventeenth Iowa Infantry, being a member of Company C, and served three years and eight months in the civil war. After he was mustered out he removed to Nebraska, and then back to Iowa, thence to Kansas. In 1892 he came to Eugene from Kansas and has lived here ever since except two years spent in Portland, where he engaged in the grocery business. He left for Seattle about two weeks ago for the purpose of seeing the Atlantic battleship fleet. While there he contracted pneumonia, and rapidly grew worse.

Mr. White was married in Wilson county, Kansas, on February 3, 1879, his wife dying in Eugene on April 26, 1900. To them nine children were born, all of them living and all residing in Eugene except one. They are: William G. White, of Eugene; Mrs. May Moffett, of Seattle; Mrs. Minnie Croner, Inez, James H., Elma, Veneta, Veima and Lawrence, all of Eugene. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Mary Blair, of Mt. Vernon, Wash., and Mrs. Ben Longnecker, of Altona, Kansas, and three brothers, Samuel White, of Waterloo, Iowa; William White, of Moline, Kas., and Jonathan White, of Oklahoma.

Mr. White was a member of the Christian church, of the local post of the G. A. R., of the Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and United Artisans. He was a former member of the city council, having served the city in that body two terms. He was an upright and honorable citizen, and a good business man.

A Good Use of a Flask.

Many years ago, when I was a young man, I had occasion to leave my office belongings and hired a negro called Bill for the purpose. After the morning I missed a new sixty dollar overcoat. I was sure Bill had taken it and had him arrested, but since there was no evidence against him he was discharged.

My new office was on the second floor, apart from other offices. One afternoon when I was sitting there alone at work on my books Bill opened the door and came in. He had been paid for his services and asked for the money. I gave it to him and said:

"Bill, perhaps you know who stole my overcoat. Try to find it and bring it to me. If you do, I'll pay you well for your trouble. If not, I'll send the man who stole it to state prison yet."

"I'll try," he said as he pocketed the money I paid him and went away.

I had advised my boss, and the next day a woman and a little girl came into my office with the missing coat. The woman said that a negro had sold it to her for $3 and that he would know him if she should see him again. I had Bill rearrested. She identified him, and he was tried and sent to state prison for two years.

After it was all over I learned that Bill was a very bad man. He had been a slave, and his former master had said that he was the only negro he had owned that he was afraid of. That Bill had ever been a criminal before stealing my coat I did not learn.

Upon getting this information I remembered with some feeling his visit to me when I was alone in my office. I am a small man; he was a large and powerful one. Indeed, I had been completely at his mercy. It occurred to me that after he had served his term he might make me another visit for the purpose of taking his revenge for an enforced residence in prison.

I was sufficiently impressed with this to note the time of expiration of Bill's term, so that when he was released I might be prepared for him, but I didn't count on time reduced for good behavior. One evening just before I was ready to shut up my office and go home the door opened and in walked Bill. He assumed the same cool, impudent manner as before. I sat looking at him from my desk.

"You don't remember me, do you, boss?" he said.

"Yes, I remember you very well. You're the man who stole my overcoat."

"And the man you sent to state prison."

"Yes, I remember that too."

He was looking at him, glancing out of the window, taking in the situation. I knew he had come to kill me and was only considering the question of my surroundings with a view to doing the job without its being known who was the murderer. Hearing a step in the hall without, he delayed. All this I could read in his eyes as plainly as if it had been written in capitals on the desk before me. The step was lost in the distance, and Bill's manner indicated that he considered an obstacle removed. Still, he must have fully appreciated the many possible dangers of being tracked, if not caught in the act. He kept his eyes and ears open for anything without. There was a coal stove in the center of the office, near where he stood, and a heavy iron poker. I saw him take in the poker, and I knew by his expression that he had chosen it for a weapon. It would make no noise. I also inferred by this that he was probably unarmed. He doubtless had no money with which to buy a weapon. A door slammed on the floor above, and there was a step on the stairs. Some one was coming down. Bill's eye changed in a twinkling.

"I'm gwine to try 'n' do better, boss," he said.

"So I would advise you."

"Couldn't you help me a leetle?" Here was a ray of hope. Not from the passing person—I dared not risk calling. In the right hand drawer of my desk I remembered having placed a brown glass flask shaped like a revolver and commonly called a pocket pistol. Bill had given me an excuse to open the drawer.

"I might give you a few dollars," I said, "to keep you till you can get a job. I keep stamps and petty cash in this drawer. You needn't come inside the rail. I can hand it to you."

The person coming downstairs had gone out into the street, and all was still. Watching Bill's eye, I saw that my time had come. Grasping the poker, he started for the gate in the rail. I opened the drawer, seized the pocket pistol, brought it to bear on him and cried fiercely:

"Hands up!"

S.S.S. MADE FROM ROOTS AND HERBS

A SAFE AND RELIABLE BLOOD PURIFIER

In the time of our forefathers the forests and fields were the only laboratories from which they could procure their medicines. They searched out and compounded the different roots, herbs and barks into remedies, many of which have been handed down to succeeding generations, and continuously used with satisfactory results. Among the very best of these old time preparations is S. S. S., a medicine made entirely from roots, herbs and barks, in such combination as to make it the greatest of all blood purifiers. This absolute vegetable purity of S. S. S. makes it the one medicine that may be used without fear of harmful results in any way. Most blood medicines on the market contain mercury, potash, or some other strong mineral. These act with bad effect on the system, upsetting the stomach, interfering with the digestion, affecting the bowels, and when used for a prolonged period of time often cause salivation. No such effects ever result from the use of S. S. S., and it may be taken by children as safely as by older people. For Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Malaria, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, and all other troubles caused by impure or poisoned blood, S. S. S. is a perfect remedy. It goes down into the circulation and removes all poisons, impurities, humors or unhealthy matter, and makes the blood pure and rich. It eliminates every particle of the taint of inherited blood trouble, purifies and strengthens the weak, deteriorated blood, and establishes the foundation for good health. S. S. S. is Nature's Blood Purifier, and its many years of successful service, with a steadily increasing demand for it, is the best evidence of its value in all blood troubles.
