CITY NEWS

The W. C. T. U. will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. Palmer, 643 Alder street.

The brick work on the new addition to the First National bank building was completed this morning.

A marriage license was issued late yesterday afternoon to Walter Birmingham, aged 30 years, and Emma Miller, aged 18, both of Eugene.

A car of lumber for the Midway plant and a car of wood for Seelye were among the freight shipments into Eugene this morning.

Fred Grimes, the painter, who was jailed yesterday for drunkenness, appeared before Judge Dorris of the police court this morning and pleaded guilty. He was given ten days in jail.

H. C. Veach, Edgar King and O. W. Jackson, appraisers of the estate of Mary Ann Dillard, deceased, today filed with the probate court their inventory. They found property valued at $2177.55.

L. L. Lewis, bookkeeper for the Booth-Kelly Lumber Company in this city, has begun the erection of a neat residence at the corner of East Thirteenth and Mill streets. W. O. Heckart is the contractor.

J. N. Cole says he will build a fine residence on the vacant lot at the corner of East Eleventh and Ferry streets which he has just purchased. It is probable that he will build this summer or in the fall.

The Berger-Bean Hardware Company has begun to occupy the building at the corner of West Eighth and Olive streets, formerly occupied by Finnegan's blacksmith shop. They are storing their vehicles there.

E. A. Wheeler, A. D. Downs and M. F. Babcock, appraisers of the estate of N. Wheeler, deceased, found property belonging to the estate valued at $1700, according to their report, made today to the probate court.

Geo. W. Brooding was let the contract for building the county bridge across Edwards' slough in the vicinity of Junction. His bid was $989.50. There was only one other bidder, Luman & Straker, who bid $1325.

The case of the state against Walter Birmingham, charged with seduction, has been dismissed, as he has married Erma Miller, the girl against whom the crime was alleged to have been committed. Marriage always bars prosecution in such cases. The wedding occurred last night.

Leola, the six-year-old daughter of John Koleska, residing at the end of East Eighth street, was severely bitten by a dog belonging to Mr. Patus, who also lives on East Eighth street, last evening. Dr. Titus dressed the wounds, which were on her right shoulder.

The homestead contest of E. J. Frasier vs. William Lewis, involving 160 acres of land on Wolf Creek, in the upper Siuslaw country, was heard before U. S. Commissioner W. W. Calkins today. J. N. Harbaugh acted as attorney for Frasier, and W. G. Martin for Lewis.

W. H. Kay and family expect to move into their new bungalow on Jefferson street, between West Seventh and West Eighth, on Thursday of this week. This is one of the finest bungalows in the city. Two hundred feet of new cement walk has just been built in front of the residence.

Superintendent Steiner, of the Oregon insane asylum, has notified County Clerk Lee that Stephen Merlan, who was committed to that institution from Lane county a few days ago, has been released on three months' leave of absence in care of his relatives.

The funeral of J. W. White will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the First Christian church. Rev. D. C. Killams, in the absence of Pastor McCallum, will conduct the services. The Odd Fellows will conduct services at the grave in the I. O. O. F. cemetery. The remains are expected to arrive from Seattle on the local train tonight.

J. M. Williams, wife and two daughters and Jos. Dixon, of Pomery, Wash., are in the city with their 45-hp. Acme motor car, being on their way home from Berkeley, where they have been about four weeks on the trip, stopping for several days at various places. They have been in Eugene since Saturday, the machine failing to work properly. Repairs are now being made and they expect to proceed on their journey soon.

Salem Statesman: W. C. Black (known in Salem as Clarence Black), was in the city for a few hours' visit among friends. Mr. Black has been conducting newspapers in Crook county, Or., and in Nevada, but recently sold out. He is now casting about for a new location. He has his eye on the Willamette valley, but may have to go to Southern California to find just what he wants. Mrs.

Black is now visiting her parents, near Eugene.

Mitchell & Garrett have just sold the McMahon residence property at the southeast corner of East Tenth and Mill streets, formerly the J. M. Williams property, to John Hanzlicker and others; also the J. M. Kilson property at the corner of East Eleventh and Perry streets, to J. N. Cole. The consideration in both sales is kept private. It is said that Hanzlicker and those associated with him will build a students' club house on their property in the near future.

Drew Griffin, W. J. Hill, B. D. Payne and other members of the duck club which has a preserve in the swamp on the Indian place near Elmira, along the Long Tom bottom, are there today planting a quantity of wild rice seed which they have just received from the East, where it is used extensively to feed the ducks on the preserve. It will grow well here; it will prove to be a great thing for the hunters, for ducks like wild rice better than almost anything else that can be planted for them.

Bucklen's Arnica Stive Wins Tom Moore, of Rural Route 1, Cochran, Ga., writes: "I had a bad sore come on the instep of my foot, and could find nothing that would heal it until I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Less than half of a 25-cent box won the day for me by effecting a permanent cure." Sold under guarantee at W. A. Kuykendall's drug store.

DEAD LEADERS READ TO OLD COMRADES

to lead the fatal charge. He fell upon the breastworks, saying, "I'm killed, boys, but fight it out." "Far out on the crest of the battle, Up, up, toward the death— To die for one's country is sweet," he remembered.

And then, out of breath. Met the shock and the pain and the terror. Unflinching and knew in an instant's unbearable brightness— It was true—it was true. "The story is told of Bertrand du Guesclin, the national hero of France, that just before his death he succeeded in the reduction of a fortress. The commander refused to surrender to any but du Guesclin himself. So the body of the great leader was laid upon his bier, and the stern defender gave his fortress keys into the hands of the dead.

There have been brave soldiers and pure statesmen since the days of the sixties; brave soldiers, too, as none better than Alabama knows; but the keys of our Southern hearts were laid long ago in the hands of Robert E. Lee and Jefferson Davis.

These two great souls before they passed from us gave the same counsel. They advised us to accept loyally the results of the war, and to devote ourselves to the rebuilding of our wasted country. That counsel was accepted. The Confederate soldier has given to the government at Washington the same faithful support which he gave to the government at Richmond. His patriotism has expanded his boundaries without losing its quality. He yields to no man in his love of the whole country and his devotion to her cause. In the war with Spain he gave proof that his sword was not asleep. It is all his country wherever the flag floats, which his ancestors filled with stars. That he has rebuilt the prosperity of the South; that he has restored the commercial majesty of this glorious land; that great city is witness. The brain of a Confederate soldier conceived it, and the hands of Confederate soldiers have been busy in its work. They served their country in peace as in war. They point their children to the busy, happy, prosperous land, beautiful as the dawn, strong in developing resources, rich in promise of all that makes a state, and say, "Behold our greatest victory."

They loved their land With love far brought From out the stories past, and used With it present, his transferred. Through future time by power of thought.

"We old soldiers are sitting in the twilight of life waiting for the evening detail; waiting for the shining angel. Like chevrons on his wings. "We are the stragglers in the great march. The victory is already won, and our comrades expect our coming to share the glory of their triumph. In the little time left us before we report to our Great Commander, let us quite ourselves like men. When the pale seraphic tones, we shall listen far voices in the upper air saying, "Welcome, comrade. Do they love us still in 1908?"

W. H. Brandenburg, wife and two children, have arrived here from Lamont, Co. and will reside here. They are correspondents of the Commercial Club.
