GUARDSMEN WILL FRAME A BETTER ARMORY BILL

Failure of the armory bill to receive popular endorsement at the Oregon National Guard in its campaign for armories in the military stations inside of Portland. The measure was defeated because of a lack of understanding of the needs and utilities of armories. The favorable vote was very large, especially in the cities, the cutting being done in the rural districts.

The National Guard Association is already planning a new bill which will be presented before the next legislature. This bill will ask for $100,000 in annual installments of $25,000 each, or possibly an even larger sum will be asked for. The bill will be differently drafted, however, defects which caused it to be held up being carefully omitted. The principal argument against the armory bill by the state senate, which had the measure referred to the people, was that no specific number of armories was mentioned; nor were there any details as to the cost or location. It was argued that $100,000 would be insufficient to install armories in the twelve company stations of Oregon, and furthermore, that it would be establishing a bad precedent to leave the expenditure of so large a sum to the state military board without restrictions. It was learned yesterday that the National Guard Association will secure data as to the cost on each armory and present the measure before the legislature in a most business-like manner.—Oregonian.

ONE INJUNCTION GRANTED, ANOTHER IS REFUSED

Dallas, June 12.—This morning an injunction was served on County Judge Cook, restraining him from issuing his proclamation declaring Polk county dry. The prosecutors are two salaried men of Dallas, who declare in their complaint that the local option law is unconstitutional. The saloons of the county will probably not be allowed to run after July 1 if the case is not decided before then, as counter injunctions will be served on all of them in the county.

Heppner, June 12.—Judge Bean today refused to grant the temporary injunction to restrain the county court from declaring the result of the election in Umatilla county. Attorneys for the Pendleton saloon interests arrived in an auto to get his signature late yesterday, as today was the day the order went into effect.
