EUGENE DESIRES FOR NOTHING SHORT OF GRAVITY WATER SYSTEM

Eugene people want a gravity water system and will be satisfied with nothing less. That has been their dream and inspiration for years and it must and will be realized. The members of the city council understood the situation, we think; if not, they should come to a full realization of the fact at once and work consistently to that end.

If Ritchie creek and adjacent streams will furnish a supply of good water only for a few years to come it would no doubt be wise to go ahead with construction work, with the understanding that with increased wealth and population further extension of the mains would be made to the McKenzie river, well up into the national forest reserve, where the quantity and quality of the supply would ever be beyond criticism.

CANNERS OUT OF LUCK IN EASTERN STATES

According to the present outlook from the Eastern states the price of all kinds of canned goods, such as fruit and vegetables, will be higher in price during the coming fall and winter than ever before in recent years.

But from all over the Eastern states the same wail is heard, and that is a shortage of fruit and vegetables. The corn crop, in particular, is said to be small, and many of the larger canning establishments will not start up at all this season.

On the Pacific coast the greater portion of canned goods are made from our own fields and orchards, but still we are compelled to depend for some of it upon Eastern supplies.

And here is a threat at the south supplement, that institution of our American household and the dearest of all the children, both of a yammer and a wailer growth: At a session of the International Kindergarten Association recently held at New Orleans, La., Miss Ella C. Elder, of Raleigh, N. C., fondly denounced the "supplements" of the daily newspapers.

But you knacker! Does it do you any good or anybody else any good to have those hard times, real or pretended? And would it require less effort, or be a less agreeable task to help the fellows who are trying to improve conditions, to build up the state at least down? Good thing and had are the result largely of the temperament of the people who seek to take spoils of being crassly and indiscreet in an apparent haste to do it to effect these things. But the philosophers of good sense and sound sense form their "wuzzle" and "don't worry" attitude and are content to be satisfied with that which is to be achieved in the long run.

Senator Harrows' speech, given at the Republican national convention today, made considerable like one of President Roosevelt's national messages to congress, with some of the reasoning set out. And it is more than likely that the manuscript copy was prepared at the White House and entrusted to the Michigan statesman for delivery only after it had been carefully edited and revised by the "wuzzle" bureau of the power that is.

The parents of this two-year-old New York girl, all that weighs 110 pounds and is still growing, and not sorry, she's growing up to be the first woman president. Before she is elected a constitutional amendment will provide that to candidate for the presidency shall weigh less than 250 pounds.

According to C. A. Gidden, who claims the long distance record for automobiling, and has now taken to ballooning, the latter is an "old man's recreation." Most of the young will be willing to let it go at that, and find their where the fall is shorter.

The city has ordered the park streets paved—a proper thing to do. Now let some one order a lot more of benches for the use of the public, who could then be kept off the grass, to the great joy of the caretaker there, whose work is practically destroyed by the lounging crowds.

Every real booster will take his coat off, sharpen his scythe and get after the grass and weeds that fringe the streets, like a real hero. There should be this week a copious shedding—not of blood—but of patriotic perspiration.

If all the commencement advice handed out this month could be properly utilized, we could take one long jump right into the millennium, but alas, advice, like other things that cost nothing, is not appreciated.

Those Vassar girls who held a suffrage meeting in a graveyard didn't seem to see or feel any significance in the location, although Oregon advocates of the cause do.

Senator Bourne has gone to Europe, but for some reason he has lacked either the time or inclination to return to Oregon since his election.

Start in the clean-up work now in order to make sure of having it completed before next week arrives with its big crowd of clovering visitors.

Those Republicans who have for months been saying that "it could not be elected" have already begun to explain that they were only joking.

Something like a Roosevelt "rough-riding" test seems to have been also applied to the members of the national committee.

Chicago will this week once more demonstrate its right to the title of "Windy City."

Clean-up day next Thursday. Don't forget the date.

BIDS WANTED

Separate bids wanted for brick work, iron work, plastering, cement work, plumbing, wiring and all exterior mill work for the I. O. O. F. building on or before the 20th of June, 1908.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of John Hunziker, Eugene, Oregon.

Each bidder will be required to furnish a bond of at least fifty per cent of his bid.

PRINCESS ALEXANDRA VICTORIA. Princess Alexandra Victoria, daughter of Prince George of Greece, arrived in Eugene, Oregon, on the 15th inst. for a visit to the Exposition and to the city. She is the only daughter of the King of Greece and is the only one of the royal family who is unmarried. She is the same age and is a descendant of the same blood as the royal family of the United States.

THE WAZZLE'S ANSWER "Friend Wuzzle," cried the startled Gump, "What makes you leap so high?" "Why, this is leap year, don't you know!" The Wuzzle made reply.
